U of M Team Helps Professionals In Drug Abuse Update

by Bill Hafling
U of M. Science Writer

Many physicians say they never see drug problems in their practices.

But the problems are there, according to Bob Muscala, and health professionals must learn how to spot them and deal with them when people come in for professional help with any problem.

Muscala is the assistant director of the University of Minnesota's health professionals drug abuse education project and part of a roving team of advisors who speak to health professionals at monthly training seminars.

Project members travel to areas in Iowa, Wisconsin, North and South Dakota and Minnesota, updating health professionals on drug abuse probleam ranging from street drugs to prescription drugs.

Seminars usually begin on a Thursday evening and continue until late Saturday afternoon to fit into the busy schedules of physicians, nurses, veterinarians, dentists, social workers and other health professionals. Most of the seminars are held at retreats in the country where there is no distraction from television, newspapers or the usual social demands.

Discussing the common attitude that "my drug use is right, proper and correct and yours isn't," Muscala said it is also common for people to be "afraid of someone who uses a drug other than their own."

He said there is an often-used hierarchy found in treatment of drug abuse which puts the scotch whiskey abuser ("always a man") above other alcohol abusers ("How do you get to be an alcoholic on beer?").

Below these people are the "duals," particularly women, who combine "booze and pills." Then at the very bottom in terms of societal attitudes, are other drug addicts such as heroin abusers.

Muscala warned that the attitudes of health professionals can interfere with treatment. "You don't have to impose your values on people in order to help them," he said. "You should be able to get in touch with someone who can help them if you can't.

"Too often, 'I personally feel that is wrong' and 'I don't really like him because I can't handle him' attitudes get in the way of treatment. Rember, health care is a right, not a privilege."

Because of the power society gives them, "health professionals have the most potential of any group to be change agents in their community," Bill Hodapp, coordinator of the health sciences continuing education project at the University said.

"An interdisciplinary team approach is needed," Hodapp said, if any progress is to be made in dealing with the problems of today's society.

"Unfortunately, huge walls have been built up between health professionals. They are trained in isolation, like so many little cottage industries," he aid. "Professionals in each specialty tend to insulate themselves from their peers on the team, even socially. Thus the same old biases of each profession are reinforced as physicians talk only to physicians, social workers to social workers, pharmacists to pharmacists. They never have to think much about others' views."

Muscala said a team appraoch could help prevent some drug abuse problems. "A medical person could look beyond the presenting complaint, for example. You don't have to have a patient with a cirrhotic liver hanging over his belt before you realize that there may be some problems going on in the family, on the job, and in relationships with others.

"Concern with the purely physical can also distract from psychological treatment as well. Patients will not talk about their underlying social problems when things have progressed too far. They just sit and think, 'I'm sick. Poor me. I'm just here waiting for a doctor.' As if all their problems could be solved medically," Muscala said.

Describing a variety of alternatives to purely medical treatment for drug abuse problems, Gary Schoener, director of the walk-in counseling center in Minneapolis, said "We've even found that if we can help the healthy people who are in contact with a drug abuser or other person with problems, and make them healthier, it is an important step. Maybe they won't put up with the abuse any longer. Maybe they can make some changes."

Land Prices Are High In Metro Area Of Minn.

Rural land values in the Twin Cities surburban area continued to increase in 1973, University of Minnesota land economists Maurice Mandale and Philip M. Raup report.

Non-farm investors in Anoka, Carver, Dakota, Scott, Washington, Chisago and Wright counties paid an average of $1,068 per acre. Although paying highest prices, non-farm investor's relative share of the market went down quite substantially as farmers bought land to expand their farms and agricultural investors regained some of the ground they lost in 1972, Mandale and Raup add.

In Anoka, Carver, Dakota, Scott and Washington counties, when averaged, the highest price paid—$832 per acre—was for land classified "poor" for agricultural use. When Chisago and Wright counties are included, poor land sold for less than good land, but for more than land of average agricultural quality—one of the results of urbanization.

In the surburban counties, about half of the rural land sales were to persons living 10 to 49 miles from the tract sold. Mandale and Raup say this reinforces the suggestion that many people who work in the Twin Cities area are trying to buy rural dwellings. For Minnesota as a whole, only 21 per cent of buyers lived 10 to 49 miles from the tract purchased.

Mondale Reports On U.S. Food Distribution

"As the world's leading grain supplier, we in the United States must begin to look at the problem of food distribution on a global as well as a national basis," states Sen. Walter Mondale.

"And if both farmers and consumers are to benefit from expanding food exports, we must develop a food policy that would guarantee ample supplies for our own markets and for those overseas.

"There are three steps that I think the federal government might take toward establishing a national food policy that takes into account the world's food distribution problems," the senator said.

"First, we must update and improve our domestic agricultural programs. At the present time, both target price guarantees and loan levels for grain are unrealistically low in relation to the farmer's cost of production. They should be increased substantially.

"Second, U.S. participation in negotiating a set of international commodity agreements is essential. Such a system should include international food reserves that are built up in both importing and exporting countries when we have surplus production. These food stocks would then be available in times of scarcity to meet emergency needs at home and abroad.

"If we are going to build up food reserves, however, we must do it in a way that will ensure that farmers are not faced with prices that will bankrupt them and destroy their farms.

"Finally, we ought to begin working now for international agreements to share the burden of assisting India, West Africa and other countires that develop urgent food needs that cannot be met by the commerical market.

"America has resources, both human and material, that are unsurpassed by any other country in the world. With proper leadership these resources can be used to enable American families to enjoy greater economic prosperity.

"And we can afford to help others in the less developed countries when famine or other disasters occur," he added.

MSC Job Shop Seeks Summer Job Placement

Moorhead state college job shop is currently searching for full-time or part-time summer work opportunities for MSC students in their home communities.

Launched last fall as an information exchange center, the job shop is a new student-run office that helps Fargo-Moorhead area businesses, service facilities and homemakers who need part-time workers. Contact the job shop office where the information is listed for the students in financial need and anxious to work.

This spring, students manning the on-campus shop are making a concerted effort to learn early of summer job opportunities in and about the hometowns of those MSC students who will be returning home for the summer months.

Farmers as well as chambers of commerce, restaurant, resort and motel managers, store and office managers, service station operators, homeowners needing help with summer repairs and homemakers needing babysitters and other assistance should contact the shop for possible student help.

Area residents who are willing to hire and help conscientious college-age youths this summer are asked to please write the MSC Job Shop, Box 118, Moorhead State College, or call (218)-236-2121. The Shop is manned from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays.

Research To Be More Difficult In Years Ahead

Agricultural research is chipping away at roadblocks to greater food production in Minnesota, but solving problems on the road ahead is likely to be more difficult.

This prediction comes from William F. Hueg Jr., director of the University of Minnesota agricultural experiment station. "The easiest problems have been tackled and solutions found," he explains. "The problems that lie ahead are more difficult, and if they are to be resolved in reasonable periods of time, will require greater expenditure."

An interview with Hueg printed in the current Minnesota Science gives a nutshell view of the role of agricultural research in helping to expand the food supply. Published by the experiment station, the magazine is available free from the Bulletin Office, 3 Coffey Hall, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, 55108.

Research benefits accumulate gradually over the years, according to Hueg. He gives some examples:

"The average 200 pound hog going to market in 1974 has 22 pounds less lard or, to put it another way, 22 pounds more lean meat than 200 pound hogs marketed 20 years ago." This is because of continuing research on improved breeding and feeding methods.

—Each year yields of soybeans increase a bushel per acre as a result of new technology developed through research in public institutions. This technology is in the form of new varieties, cultural practices and improved harvesting methods.

Agricultural research has a dollar cost, but is really an investment in the future, Hueg says. "If we look at the total expenditure of funds from all sources (in the U.S.), the per capita expenditure is about $2.50 or about $10 for the average family of four per year."

But increased agricultural production resulting from research pumps money back into the economy. Using the example of improved soybean yields, he says that they added $13.2 million to Minnesota farm income. (This estimate assumes an average price of $3 per bushel for the 1973-74 marketing season.) At the same time higher yields lowered costs to consumers.

Future technological problems will pose stiffer challenges for U.S. agriculture, and foreign trade will continue to provide opportunities, Hueg predicts.

But we can't take increased food production for granted. One way to assure that agriculture's "renewable resources continue to serve mankind is to provide adequate research support," he says.

People chuckle when they see a baby who seems to have the weight of the world on his shoulders. What can he possibly be thinking about that makes him seem so pensive?

His thoughts probably aren't very serious, for babies often strike delightful and comical poses that enliven the family photo album.

But babies grow up and become adults, with real problems and difficult decisions to make.

Don't forget, as your baby matures, to emphasize those things that will enable him to cope with his future. Don't forget love, discipline, understanding—and especially, don't forget the Church!

THE VOICE OF BUSINESS

by Arch N. Booth

Executive Vice President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

Now that we have firmly established that even the President of the United States is not above the law, I wish we could go one step further and make the same point about public employee unions.

It can be done, but it takes public officials with guts enough to resist the calculated extortion of the taxpayers by these powerful special interests. When public officials won't act, an outraged citizenry can do the job, with a little leadership. A strike against the people of San Francisco, not long ago, is a good case in point.

About 15,000 employees of the city and county of San Francisco struck on Thursday, March 7, closing down municipal transportation facilities, city offices and the city's three sewage treatment plants.

When the board of supervisors proved reluctant to deal with the problem, the Greater San Francisco Chamber of Commerce stepped in—at its own expense—on behalf of the citizenry. Briefly, here's what happened, in the words of the executive vice president of the San Francisco Chamber, William E. Dauer:

"The chamber of Commerce stepped in—at its own expense—on behalf of the citizenry. Briefly, here's what happened, in the words of the executive vice president of the San Francisco Chamber, William E. Dauer:

"The chamber immediately went to court. . .The presiding judge of the superior court in San Francisco heard the case personally early Tuesday morning and ruled in our favor, agreeing. . that public employees have no right to strike. The judge put teeth into his declaration that the strike was illegal by ordering the police department to begin immediate enforcement. . . .

"Mayor Alioto responsded by—in effect—directing the chief of police to ignore the order, saying, 'Our police department is not going to be turned into a squad of strikebreakers.'

"The judge, incensed, issued specific orders for the police to disperse picket lines at sewage treatment plants, the municipal railway facilities and the city hospitals.

"The police responded in a clumsy manner during the remaining thee days of the strike, with no pickets actually being arrested. '(A sergeant explained that they were under department orders to arrest no pickets unless they began causing 'trouble.') The unions agreed, under the cursh of massive public indignation and pressure, to cease picketing the sewage treatment plants, which allowed their reopening.

"One of the most interesting—and disturbing—aspects of the shutdown of the sewage treatment plants was that the Sierra Club, Friends of the Earth and all the other self-appointed protectors of the public interest, were totally mute.

"I would have thought that a total of more than one-half billion gallons of untreated sewage being pumped into the bay, would have elicited some response from them.

"The union shutdown of the Muni transit facilities—and the subsequent 'seconary boycotts' that closed the San Francisco portion of the Bay Area Rapid Transit (BART) system and an East Bay commuter bus line (AC Tansit)—were unconscionable acts of extorton against the public. Literally thousands of commuters were unable to get to work, inasmuch as the public transit shutdown came at a time when gasoline for pirvate automobiles were scarce, to say the least. . .

"The news media were kept abreast of every new legal move. Throughout the effort, we maintained a totally factual, unemotional stance, dealing only with issues without criticizing individuals. Our only concern was seeing to it that the laws of the state and the provisions of the city charter were carried out.

"The media were most supportive of our position, and just as importantly, members of the working press knew that they could come to us for factual clarification of issues as they arose.

"The result was overwhelming public support. . .

"The strike of the miscellaneous employees was settled after nine days."

Gerry Stennes, Strandquist

The music department at Strandquist, under the direction of Miss Kari, has put in a rigorous two weeks and have been rewarded with numerous stars for their efforts. On March 29 and 30 the instrumental contest was held at Warroad. Soloists and ensembles participating were: Barb Thompson, flute solo; Martha Haugen, bassoon solo; Martha Haugen, bass clarinet solo; David Henrickson, trombone solo; woodwind quintet—Dawn Thun, Martha Haugen, Eunice Rokke, Karie Frankfurth, and Lori Lindstrom; flue duet—Lori Lindstrom and Barb Thompson; and the stage band. 86 per cent of the entries received star ratings, with only the flute duet failing to make the honors because of an accident just prior to their performance. The band faced a team of tough judges and, considering the average age of the members, they were still awarded a star, though three are needed to win a trophy. Last weekend, April 5 and 6 vocal contests were held at Greenbush. Lori Lindstrom, Dawn Thun, and Becky Thompson were highly complimented by their judges for solo work. Soloists receiving stars were Lori Lindstrom and Becky Thompson, soprano solos; ensembles; sextet, Dawn Thun, Becky Thompson, Eunice Rokke, Lori Lindstrom, Barb Thompson, and Martha Haugen; trio, Lri Lindstrom, Becky Thompson, and Dawn Thun. All accompaniment was done by David Henrickson. The Girls Chorus performed Saturday and received a total of six stars from the four adjudicators. Some comments by the judges were: "music sung with sensitivity and balance," "excellent," "impeccable performance," "a well-disciplined group." The Spring concert is set for April 23 at 7:30 p.m. Many of those awarded at the district contest will perform in this concert in preparation for the state contest at Bemidji on May 3 and 4.

University of Minnesota
Agricultural Extension Service

You turn a spigot and it's there. But do you know what the convenience of hot water costs in energy and fuel bill terms?

It probably totals 10 per cent of your home's energy bill, according to William Angell, extension housing specialist at the University of Minnesota.

If you are buying a new hot water heater, select one with adequate insulation to prevent heat loss and unnecessary reheating. Insulation usually varies between 1 and 3 inches and different materials and construction vary in insulating efficiency, Angell says.

Because water cools in pipes, install your heater close to kitchen and baths where you use hot water. Insulation for hot water pipes will prevent further loss between water heater and spigot or hot water-dependent appliance.

Angell also offers these suggestions for thrifty water heating:

(1) Use hot water sparingly. Hot water will clean heavily soiled or oil-stained clothing and will kill bacteria on garments better than cold water, but if you use sanitizing agents, add more detergent and allow extra time for the detergent to dissolve, cold water washing is possible. Cold water rinsing is nearly always satisfactory.

(2) Washing machines use 35 to 60 gallons of water per load. Wash only full loads.

(3) Take showers rather than baths. Showers use about half as much hot water as baths.

(4) Repair leaky faucets. Hot water drips waste many gallons of water plus the fuel required to heat them.

(5) Set your water heater at a moderate temperature. In most cases, 145 degrees is adequate, and some people prefer 110 to 120 degree settings.

(6) Drain sediment from your water heater. You may need to do this as often as every month if your water has a high mineral content. Generally, sediment draining removes less than a gallon of hot water.

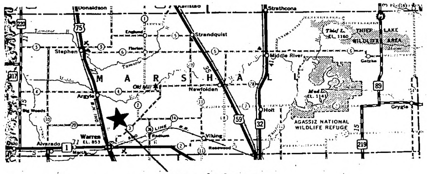
Marshall County Citizens!

Let's Talk Court House



* People Center

To: The Citizens of Marshall County
From: Marshall County Courthouse Committee

AS YOU KNOW, A PETITION IS PRESENTLY BEING CIRCULATED THROUGHOUT OUR COUNTY SEEKING TO MOVE THE COURTHOUSE FROM ITS PRESENT LOCATION AT WARREN TO NEWFOLDEN. AS CONCERNED TAXPAYERS, WE RESPECTFULLY URGE THAT YOU CAREFULLY CONSIDER THE FOLLOWING FACTS BEFORE LENDING YOUR SUPPORT TO THIS PETITION.

BACKGROUND

In the past year, your County Board of Commissioners after careful study, by unanimous vote authorized the building of a new Law Enforcement Center adjacent to the present courthouse in Warren. This decision was based on current trends throughout Minnesota which seek to improve the effectiveness of law enforcement in the face of rising crime rates. Thus it was that the County Commissioners retained an architectural firm for the purpose of developing the necessary plans and specifications for a facility that would achieve this objective.

LAW ENFORCEMENT CENTER FINANCING

Contrary to what many may think, the construction of this facility (which is estimated to cost $750,000) WILL NOT REQUIRE A BOND ISSUE OR ADD ONE PENNY OF TAXES to the present county tax levy. This is so because $180,000 of its cost will come from taxes previously levied for this purpse WHILE THE REMAINING 76% OF THE COST WILL BE PROVIDED THROUGH FEDERAL REVENUE SHARING FUNDS. It should be further pointed out that abandonment of the project at this late date will cost the county almost $50,000 for architectural services previously contracted for.

OPPOSITION DEVELOPS

It was at this point in time that certain individual citizens in the eastern part of the county organized a committee to oppose construction of the law enforcement center in Warren and circulated a petition requesting the Board of Commissioners to locate it at Newfolden. This petition was presented at a recent County Commissioners meeting with a considerable number of its supporters from the eastern part of the county in attendance.

OPPOSITION ARGUMENTS

1) Geography and People: The principal argument of those desiring location of the law enforcement center in Newfolden is that this community is near the geographical center of the county which fact would make the facility more readily available to all residents of the county, particularly those from the eastern part thereof who would have to travel long distances to avail themselves of its services. As to the latter, this is certainly true and all would agree that the Warren location is an inconvenience for our fellow citizens who reside in the eastern part of the county.

But does the geographic center of the county truly express the best location for county services in terms of serving the needs of all of the people based on population distribution? The answer is, that although not the ideal location, Warren better serves the needs of all county residents than Newfolden.

In support of this statement, a look at the population figures shows that the bulk of our county residents live in the west half of the county—68.64 per cent to be exact. Using 1970 census figures, 8,964 of us live in the west half of Marshall County and 4,096 of us live in the eastern half.

These census figures place the population center of Marshall County 2 miles east and 6 miles north of Warren, or 18 miles west and 5 miles south of Newfolden.

Looking at it another way, 7,149 people live closer to Warren and 5,750 live closer to Newfolden with the distance being the same to 161 people. If we are talking about convenience to people, Warren is more convenient to more citizens by some 1,400 people.

2) Warren Flood Plain Location: It is alleged by those in opposition that Warren is designated as a flood plain, that frequent flooding makes a location there subject to expensive damage; that Newfolden is on higher ground which eliminates this possibility.

The true fact is that county officials have been assured by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources that the facility as designed is not flood prone and is, therefore, eligible for the same type of insurance coverage available to areas not subject to flooding.

This is so because the design provided for an unfinished basement to be used for storage purposes only. Since an electric heating system will be installed, the need for a conventional basement located boiler system is eliminated. It has further been ascertained by the architect, that at present prices for and availability of other fuels, electricity is the most economical method of heating.

3) Just a Beginning for a New Courthouse at Warren: It is further alleged by the opposition that erection of a law enforcement center at Warren is but the beginning of a concealed move on the part of the Board of Commissioners, (and presumably Warren people) to build and bond for a new courthouse at Warren.

The true fact is that neither the present County Commissioners nor have any of their predecessors ever considered such a move. Indeed, they have been assured by their consultant architect that the present courthouse building with continuation of present maintenance practices is in every way sound and should be good for another 50 to 75 years of service.

As for the attitude of Warren residents on the question of a new courthouse, many regard it as a historical heritage landmark and are strongly opposed to its replacement.

THE PRESENT SITUATION

Referring back to the recent Board of Commissioners meeting attended by eastern county residents, having found that the petition as presented was not valid, their committee requested that the commissioners defer any further action to build the new law enforcement center at Warren for a twenty day period so as to afford them the opportunity to circulate a new petition that would require the commissioners to hold a special election for the PURPOSE OF MOVING THE COURTHOUSE TO NEWFOLDEN. Such a petition based on population requires 3,838 valid signatures to force a vote on the issue. As was proper, the Board of Commissioners agreed to this request.

However, this new petition introduces an entirely new question in terms of COST TO TAXPAYERS and is the fundamental reason why we have formed the MARSHALL COUNTY COURTHOUSE COMMITTEE to provide you with our viewpoint as to its POCKET BOOK IMPACT ON YOU AS A TAXPAYER.

NEW COURTHOUSE

Whether or not you question that your County Commissioners and the Warren community have no intention of building a new courthouse at Warren, one thing you can be sure of is that a vote to move the county seat to Newfolden obviously means a TAXPAYERS BOND to build a new courthouse.

NEW COURTHOUSE COSTS

The county's consultant architect has been asked how much a new courthouse at Newfolden would cost. He indicates that the present day cost for such a building of adequate size including a law enforcement center would amount to 2.7 million dollars. From this amount should be deducted the $750,000 that is now available for building the law enforcement center planned for Warren. Thus, we are then talking of a net cost for a total new facility of $1,950,000.

IMPACT OF INFLATION

But there is more to it than that. We are experiencing at this time in our history, as you well know, a national rate of inflation almost out of control, with no end in sight except more and at an even higher rate. However, based on present day costs, both architects and builders assert that new building costs are rising one per cent per month.

It is certainly not unreasonable to assume that a successful vote to build a new courthouse at Newfolden, with the possibility of delays due to legal proceedings, could involve a possible time of two years before bids could be taken. At even the present rate of inflation, this could mean a 24% increase in cost or a requirement for a BONDED INDEBTEDNESS OF $2,418,000. To this should be added 24% inflation of the $750,000 previously referred to which amounts to $180,000. THUS, THE TOTAL BONDED INDEBTEDNESS WOULD BE $2,598,000.

IMPACT OF INTEREST COSTS

Anyone who has bought a farm or home on time knows that by the time he can call it his own he has spent more in interest charges than the original purchase amount. He also knows that interest rates today are the highest in history.

At the same time, it must be acknowledged that the bonds of government bodies (such as the country) are tax exempt and because of this involve lower interest charges than those available to the private citizen.

At a possible rate of 6% a $2,598,000 bond issue for a new courthouse would mean a total COST TO MARSHALL COUNTY TAXPAYERS FOR PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST OF $4,516,000 OVER A TWENTY YEAR PERIOD OR AN ANNUAL TAX ON OUR PROPERTY OF $225,800. It is significant that $225,800 REPRESENTS A 23% INCREASE OVER THE $965,000 NOW BEING LEVIED FOR COUNTY TAX PURPOSE. DO YOU BELIEVE IT MAKES SENSE TO INCREASE OUR COUNTY TAXES 23% FOR SOMETHING WE ALREADY HAVE?

WE THE MEMBERS OF THE MARSHALL COUNTY COURTHOUSE COMMITTEE RESPECTFULLY URGE THAT ALL CITIZENS OF MARSHALL COUNTY CAREFULLY CONSIDER ALL THE FACTORS INVOLVED BEFORE SIGNING THE PETITION CURRENTLY BEING CIRCULATED THAT WOULD MOVE YOUR COUNTY SEAT TO NEWFOLDEN.

Thought For The Day

It has been said that the letter "e" is a most unfortunate character. It is always out of cash, forever in debt, never out of danger and in trouble all the time. But it can be considered in another way. "E" is never in war but ever in peace. Moreover, "e" is the center of honesty, and ease begins and ends with it.

Best of all, God's love, mercy and grace all contain "e". "E " is in that name which is above every name, Jesus, and is found in His Gospel and our redemption. Eternal life has it at its beginning and ending. Without it, heaven, though a haven, would not be heaven. So "e" is a fortunate character—after all.—by E. Schuyler English.

Live-In Repairman

If my wife can't fix things that won't work around the house (this writer excepted)—and she frequently gets the job done—they usually don't get fixed. When it comes to mechanical ability I have trouble winding my watch.

Because of this situation, I can appreciate the experiences recounted by Bob Shaw, manager of the Minnesota Newspaper association, inhis recent column. Perhaps some of you will, too:

I have a nephew who graduated recently in physics from a college out East. He came to Minneapolis looking for a job and I thought "I will let him stay with us as long as he is looking for a job. But the minute he gets one, he will be eating on his own money."

The first thing he did when he came was to find my wife's contact lens. It had disappeared right over the bathroom sink. We had examined every cubic inch of space in the room and couldn't find it. Rob borrowed a pipe wrench, undid the trap, poked around ever so carefully, and came up with that little $85 piece of plastic.

Our hot water heater conked out on us a few days later. I got a man to come and look at it. He pointed to water leaking out of the bottomof it and said no question about it: 'You have to get a new heater. He indicated the price started at about $200.

After the man left, Rob took off the water heater's front casing and said: "There are two units here. Only the bottom one is bad. I think we can get by on the upper one." So he disconnected the bottom one, somehow (you can see we're not very mechanical at our house) and sure enough, have had plenty of hot water ever since on our half-capacity appliance. About this time I start to have faint stirrings not exactly of conscience, but of something deep in my soul.

My wife asked Rob to fix the blender. No trouble. He put a new cord on it. Works perfectly.

My old tape recorder has been out of commission for years. Sort of in passing, he observed that it was the microphone and he picked up another one. A cheap one which he said was just as good as the expensive ones. The office tape recorder was also busted. He got a Phillips screwdriver, took it apart, and fished a little piece of plastic out of one of the gears, put it back together. It runs like a top.

Maybe we can find room for you here on a permanent basis, old buddy, I start to think.

I made a list of all the things that are on the fritz, and (since Rob seems to LIKE to fix things) I suggested that he repair the old TV set, the brass casings on the two antique clocks, the hum in the hi-fi, and one of my cars. He's got the car figured out (it's the timing, he says, that's all) and the other night borrowed Steve Pawlcyn's soldering outfit and fixed the clocks.

He also got a job.

Can I borrow one of your cars and go out to look for an apartment, he says to me last night? I told him no, I was going to use both of them, that apartments in Minneapolis were out of sight, and that we were going to have pizza for supper.

The Wheat Deal

Following editorial is from the Murray County Herald at Slayton:

Remember the big wheat deal of a year ago, when the Russians made a $2 billion deal with this country for the purchase of wheat for its hungry citizens?

Well, they agreed to pay $1.38 per bushel for it. We haven't seen any of the Russian do-re-mi over here yet, but the comrades are now selling this wheat, taking it out of American storage elevators and peddling it by the shipload directly to Egypt and some other countries where food is in short supply. Turns out the Russians weren't quite so hungry, after all.

Now, to add insult to injury, the Russians now are offering the American government the privilege of buying this stored what back, not at the agreed upon price, which hasn't been paid yet, but for $6 a bushel.

We wonder what's become of the Ol' American Knowhow, the business acumen and what was supposed to be intelligence within its political leadership. President Nixon made the deal when he visited Moscow in the spring of 1972.

The result was a so-called "shortage" of wheat, with prices of bread soaring far above the ability of the common American family to buy it as the "staff of life." But most of that wheat is still here. The farmer may have made a few nickels on it and the traders likely came out well. In Fact, they did the better on this end of the deal, since the President agreed to spend taxpayers' money to the tune of 38 cents per bushel to help out the dealers shipping the grain abroad for the Russians.

The sticker in deals such as this is why the officers of the United States government, holding Russian unpaid IOU's for $11 billion for supplies and armaments furnished them in WWII—now some 35 years old—will continue to lavish its goodies on countries that seem determined to destroy the American Republic, a form of free people's government far greater than any form of Communism.

The Russians don't hesitate to renege on deals and promises, particularly in nearly 100 instances in promises made the United States. Why can't this country renege on a bad deal this once. It may teach the Russians a lesson, and it certainly will please a citizenry that wonders where the backbone of its government has gone.

No Good Case

Following editorial is from the Grand Rapids Herald-Review:

Few serious backers of high school athletics and other activities will find fault with a Minnesota State High school league decision to reaffirm the so-called alcohol rule which has been in effect in state schools since 1923.

Delegates to the representative assembly, the legislative body of the league, on March 22 unanimously adopted a position statement in favor of continuing the ban on alcohol.

With 18-year-olds granted adulthood under Minnesota law, the ban on intoxicating beverages has been under attack from some quarters. Basically, the rule decleares that students who choose to particpate in activities sponsored by the league may not drink intoxicating beverages. It is important to remember that nobody is requied to particpate in extra-curricular activities.

In reaffirming its stand for the rule, the assembly gave these reasons:

"The privilege of participation in extra-curricular activities should only be awarded to those students who are willing to undergo special sacrifice and selfdiscipline in training and preparation, not only in the particular skill involved, but in their personalal habits and traits.

"Students representing their schools in inter-scholastic activities should possess qualities that warrant emulation by fellow students. Furthermore, they should conduct themselves so that all in the community can take pride in these chosen representatives.

"Consumption of alcohol is a growing health and safety problem of alarming proportion in our society that should be discouaged by educators who experience it as an increasingly severe problem in the field of education. If students 18 years of age and older were to be exempt from this rule it would create inequities and differing treatment toward those taking part in extra-curricular programs of younger age levels who are prohibited by law from using alcohol.

"Consumption of alcoholic beverages, if permitted, would lead inevitably to a multitude of problems of safety, of embarrassment and of controversy in controlling individual use when engaging in public performances and athletic games, which is not only educationally and administratively unsound but which could involve schools in unnecessary civil litigation and liability."

There is no denying that the no-alcohol rule has sometimes been broken. It has been a strong deterrent, however, and few high school students who genuinely love athletics, band, music, speech or debate will risk ineligibility for a forbidden drink. If an 18-year-old feels that his rights are violated by a coach who tells him he can not drink, he can drop the activity. He has freedom of choice.

It doesn't take much imagination to see the problems which would arise if 18-year-old high school students were to insist on their legal right to drink and continue as participants with boys and girls who can not legally drink. There is simply no good case which can be made for alcohol and the 18-year-old high school student.

Interesting Opinions

Protecting your dollar!

By Warren Spannaus
Attorney General
State of Minnesota

Every year numerous Minnesota home owners who wish to renew the appearance of their decaying castles are influenced by grandiose promises, large smiles and the warm handshakes of expensively attired salesmen who spout a seemingly endless flow of unintelligible, but often impressive jargon. Of course, most home improvement firms are legitimate and not all consumers are swayed enough by the bad ones to sign a contract.

Consumers do have some protection from unscrupulous home improvement contractors. On the state level, the Minnesota Legislature has passed two important acts into law—the home solicitation act and the mechanics lien law.

The "home solicitation sales" or "cooling-off" law gives the consumer three business days in which to cancel any sale for merchandise with a purchase price of more than $25 which was consumated at a place other than the seller's regular place of business. For example, a sale in the consumer's home, at the coffee shop, at work or at a neighbor's home—anywhere other than at the seller's business establishment—may be cancelled.

To cancel such sales the buyer must, prior to midnight of the third business day after the date of the sale, give written notice to the seller of his intention to cancel. The buyer may use a cancellation form which the law requires be given to him by the seller. However, any other written notice which indicates—by any form of written expression—the intention of the buyer not to be bound by the sale is sufficient.

The mechanics lien law provides that contractors and others who contribute to the improvement of real property must notify the property owner of his rights and liabilities in connection with the improvement or forfeit the right to a lien against the property.

The contractor's notice must be given to the property owner within 10 days after the contract for work is agreed upon and must advise the property owner that other persons contributing to the work may have a lien on the property if they are not paid; that the property owner can pay such other persons directly and deduct such payment from the contractor until 90 days from completion of the work unless the contractor furnishes the owner with lien waivers signed by such other persons.

The subcontractor's notice must contain similar information and be given (personally or by certified mail) within 20 days after the subcontractor first furnishes labor, skill or materials. It must in addition advise the property owner of the approximate value of the subcontractor's contribution.

This law also limits the lien liability of the property owner to the amount due between the owner and his contractor (including agreed upon additional work). In the event a lien is filed, the property owner must be served personally or by certified mail with a copy of the lien claim.

For protection on the local level, consumers should contact their local Better Business bureau or Chamber of Commerce to discover what the company's history is and what the community's experience has been with the firm.

There are also precautions which consumers themselves should take, which include the following:

(1) Ask to see the credentials of any sales representative who calls at your door.

(2) Obtain several estimates from dealers in your own area. It is sometimes advisable to pay a local dealer a little more as he may be easier to contact when problems requiring warranty work occur.

(3) Check the figures and computations on an installment contract for correctness and accuracy.

(4) Never sign a contract with blank spaces, or a contract which you do not understand, regardless of what the salesman may tell you.

(5) When you do not understand the terms of a sales contract, consult someone who does; a lawyer if necessary.

(6) Ask if the sales price includes installation and delivery.

(7) Be sure that everything you have agreed upon or have been promised is written into the contract.

(8) Do not accept a copy of the contract that is not easily legible.

(9) Ask for an explanation of the warranty or guarantee. Ask which company will stand behind it, the manufacturer or the dealer.

(10) Ask about the qualifications of the company's employees. You will not appreciate 13 and 14-year old children making complex repairs to your home.

(11) Ask for references, consumers who live near you and have had similar work done.

(12) Remember that the legitimate salesman, who represents the vast majority of door-to-door sales representatives, invites your investigation.

If you feel that you have been victimized by any unfair or fraudulent sales practice, report the fact to the consumer division of the attorney general's office at the State Capitol building.

Don't waste your time discussing the Presidency with anyone who hasn't read
RICHARD NIXON
THE MAN BEHIND THE MASK
Gary Allen has spent three years researching and writing what could be the best-seller of the Seventies. This volume of thoughtful analysis and sound history details the political roles and real-life drama behind one of the most important actors on the international stage. Now President, he is Richard M. Nixon. But, who is he really? Who is the Man Behind the Mask? Gary Allen answers that question far better than anyone else ever has. What he has to say should gravely concern every American.
Why Do The KENNEDYS WANT TO BURY TEDDY BARE?
The following statement is authorized for publication by John Farrar, the skindiver who removed Mary Jo Kopechne's body from Senator Kennedy's car after the Chappaquiddick incident:
"Having been directly involved in the recovery of the victim at Chappaquiddick, and the legal affairs which followed, I believe that this book, TEDDY BARE, is the most dynamic and factual book ever published on this latest Kennedy tragedy.
"The author, Zed Rust, and the publisher, Western Islands of Belmont, Massachusetts, should be complimented for bringing this information to the attention of the American people. I highly recommend it to everyone, both as an insight into what really happened that night, and more importantly, as a closer look at those friends of Senator Kennedy, in high places, who went to work to smother the real story of Chappaquiddick. It's a shocker!"

Foreign Policy Begins At Home, Speaker Says

One of the architects of American Cold War policy on containment of communism says it's time for the "veritable orgy of involvement in world affairs" to come to an end.

George F. Kennan told about 250 people at the University of Minnesota Tuesday night (April 9) that foreign policy is dependent upon a strong domestic economy.

"Good foreign policy, like charity, begins at home," he said. "It is an illusion that a country can be more to others than it is to itself."

Kennan, 70, who became U.S. ambassador to Russia in 1952, accused the Nixon Administration of doing the "easy things" in foreign policy like tripping to China and the Soviet Union and avoiding the major issues.

"There is no greater misconception than that the urgent domestic problems can be evaded by dramatic and headline-capturing gestures abroad," Kennan said. "If this continues, we will lose on both fronts."

Kennan said internal problems such as inflation, achieving independence in energy, and solving transportation, environmental and urban crises, will require such an intense amount of American resources that the U.S. will be forced to withdraw from foreign affairs in many areas.

"So bitter is this reality that if we do not succeed in curtailment abroad, we will be forced to do so in less orderly and more costly ways," he said.

Achieving independence in oil and other minerals would place the U.S. in a stronger international position, Kennan said. Many foreign policy goals can be only obtained by example, he said.

"In Latin America, all the good-will speeches and aid will not improve relations with those countries until we stabilize prices for minerals and agricultural products here at home," he said. "This would require a better relationship between big business and government here."

He suggested that U.S. air bases in Thailand and the Indian Ocean be phased out. "These tend to become ends in themselves with no relation to the U.S. interests in the area," he said.

"We ought to consider changing our behavior to bring it into accord with our capabilities," he said. "We should reduce our commitment wherever possible in places far from our borders."

The "military-industrial complex" has become a "major national habit, an addiction, if you will, which we could not throw off, even if the external threats would disappear, without severe withdrawal symptoms," Kennan said.

Kennan warned that the $100 billion annual defense budget has become "not just an instrument of foreign policy but a great domestic institutional commitment over which we have lost control."

Politicians whose local economies depend on military industries lack the courage to take on the military establishment, he said. "I find it very hard to understand the mentality of people who will vote millions upon millions of dollars for national defense and then support a mineral policy with an unreliable source of supply," Kennan said.

Kennan, who spoke as the annual Guy Stanton Ford lecturer, has spent his career in the American foreign service since the 1920s. He was on the first diplomatic mission when the U.S. officially recognized the Soviet Union in 1933.

He has been a faculty member at the universities of Chicago, Princeton and Oxford and is the author of numerous books on American foreign policy and winner of the Pulitzer prize.

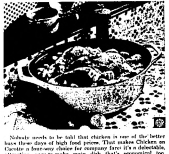
Chicken In A Pot: Festive, Easy



Nobody needs to be told that chicken is one of the better buys these days of high food prices. That makes Chicken en Cocotte a four-way choice for company fare: it's a delectable, attractive, easy-to-make main dish that's economical too. Plump, meaty roasting chicken and potatoes, carrots and onions are oven-braised, so the dish needs little looking-after while it cooks. And served with salad and bread, it makes a complete main course.

This is just one of the dozens of elegantly economical chicken dishes to be found in the newly published Good Housekeeping Cookbook. Budget-wise ways with meats and other important foods are also to be found in the new book's 816 pages, along with up-to-the-minute tips on buying, storing and freezing foods.

Chicken En Cocotte

1 4- to 5-pound roasting chicken
1 teaspoon paprika
1 10½-ounce can condensed cream-of-chicken soup
9 small potatoes
6 medium carrots, cut in 1-inch pieces
1 pound small white onions (about 12)
1½ teaspoons salt
Chopped parsley for garnish

About 2 hours before serving:

Preheat oven to 375°F. Remove neck and giblets from chicken. Rinse and drain chicken well. Sprinkle chicken with paprika; fold wings under bird. Place chicken and giblets in 7-quart cook-and-serve Dutch oven or covered roasting pan; pour on undiluted chicken soup. Cover and bake 45 minutes.

Place remaining ingredients except parsley in liquid around chicken in Dutch oven; cover and bake about 1 hour longer or until chicken and vegetables are fork tender, basting vegetables occasionally with pan sauce. Remove cover and bake until chicken is light golden, about 15 minutes, basting occasionally.

Sprinkle chicken with parsley. Makes 5 or 6 servings.

Surveys Taken For Poisonous Items In Stores

Consumer volunteers across the country have begun checking supermarkets, pharmacies, hardware stores and other retail outlets for compliance with mandatory poison prevention packaging regulations for aspirin and certain kinds of liquid furniture polish as the second U.S. consumer product safety commission volunteer consumer deputy program gets underway.

Approximately 1,000 housewives, university students and retirees searched toy stores and toy departments nationwide for hazardous toys during the commission's holiday season toy safety campaign. The volunteers visited 1,439 different stores and turned up 1,228 toys that had been banned and another 925 toys that appeared to be dangerous.

Aspirin is the single item most frequently ingested by children under five years old and has been a leading cause of fatalities and hospitalizations of young children. Since April 14, 1972, products containing aspirin—with the exceptions of effervescent tablets containing less than 10 per cent aspirin and unfalvored powdered aspirin in unit doses—are required by law to be packaged with child-resistant closures. Noncomplying products packaged prior to the effective date may still be sold.

Clear liquid furniture polishes containing 10 per cent or more of mineral seal oil and or petroleum distillates must be sold in special protective packaging with a warning label "Danger—Harmful or Fatal if Swallowed." Aspiration of as little as one teaspoonful of this kind of polish can be fatal.

The poison prevention packaging act of 1970 also requires child-resistant packaging for numerous products including sedatives, barbituates and amphetamines, and certain kinds of windshield wiper antifreeze, linaments, paste and aerosol oven cleaners, cuastic drain openers and liquid kindling and lighting fluids, including charcoal lighter fluids.

The poison prevention packaging act permits manufacturers to produce one size container with conventional packaging for the convenience of the elderly and the handicapped, but it must be labeled "This package for households without young children."

Although the consumer deputy program will focus on aspirin preparations and furniture polishes, Commission inspectors continually survey retail outlets for compliance with all the poison prevention packaging regulations. As of April 16, 1974, most prescription drugs-to-oral dosage from will be added to the list of products requiring child-resistant closures.

The consumer deputies are not official employees of the commission. They attend a training session given by commission staffers to familiarize them with the regulations and recieve a special letter of introduction. When they visit a retail store, they request permission to survey the stock. If they find a noncomplying product, they suggest that the store manager check his supplier to find out whether, in fact, the product should have child-resistant closures.

A final report on the holiday season toy safety Deputy program revealed that less than one per cent of the retailers visited refused to cooperate with the Deputies. In these cases, a follow-up inspection by an official Commission employee usually took place within a few days.

The consumer deputy program, which began during National Poison Prevention week, March 17 to 23, will continue for six weeks. Later in the year, the Deputies may participate in a flammable fabrics surveillance program and in other Commission complaince activities.

For additional information about how to protect children from accidental poisonings, call the consumer product safety commission toll-free hot line (800) 638-2666. Maryland residents only call (800) 492-2937.

ON THE SEARCH FOR A FUEL TO AUGMENT GASOLINE SUPPLIES, METHANOL IS IN THE SPOTLIGHT...
IN OKLAHOMA, SCIENTISTS AT CONTINENTAL OIL ARE DRIVING TEST CARS WITH ORDINARY GASOLINE ENGINES ADJUSTED TO RUN ON METHANOL, AND TEST RESULTS SHOW THAT METHANOL BURNS MUCH CLEANER THAN GASOLINE.
MADE FROM COAL! MORE IMPORTANT, METHANOL (WOOD ALCOHOL) CAN BE MADE FROM COAL INSTEAD OF NATURAL GAS, TODAY'S SOURCE OF METHANOL. THE UNITED STATES HAS A SERIOUS SHORTAGE OF NATURAL GAS, BUT A HUGE RESERVE OF COAL
IT WILL TAKE A HALF-BILLION DOLLARS AND SEVERAL YEARS TO BUILD THE NATION'S FIRST COAL-TO-METHANOL PLANT...THEN SOME DRIVERS MIGHT SAY, "FILL 'ER UP—WITH METHANOL!"

850 Farm Management Records Are Analyzed

Roles played by the Minnesota department of agriculture for the benefit of Minnesota's farmers were outlined by Ralph J. Godin, deputy commissioner of agriculture, at the annual analysis meeting of the Thief River Falls farm management program Wednesday evening. The meeting was held at the area vocational-technical institute.

Summary of 850 farm records analyzed from 33 participating schools was presented by Ed Sisler, coordinator of the program at the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute. The summary showed farm labor earnings for 1973 of $8.97 per hour—more than two and one-half times the past four-year average.

Sisler reemphasized the importance of management in farming, showing that the low 20 per cent of records analyzed showed labor earnings per farm of only $203 while the high 20 per cent in 1973 showed labor earnings per farm of $84,176. The dramatic spread between low and high farms was evidenced in a year of high farm prices after a number of low price years. In 1972 the spread between the low 20 per cent and high 20 per cent was $27,908. In 1970—a notoriously bad farming year in this area—the spread was $17,392.

Of 616 farm records analyzed for 1973 operations, Sisler showed an average of $53,890 spent by the average farmer within his community and service area. "When the farmer makes money, everybody makes money," he said.

The break-down of the $53,890 expenditure included $4,202 to other farmers for livestock and custom work; $17,355 to agri-business for feed, fertilizer, chemicals, supplies, seed, repairs and fuel; $1,631 for extra labor; $697 for local taxes; $4,026 for use of other people's capital (interest and cash rent); $1,126 for utilities; $9,742 for farm equipment and machinery; and $7,151 for new buildings and land.

Also included are $6,015 in food, clothing, fuel, auto, housing, personal utilities, health and contributions; $619 for new auto and housing; $651 for life insurance; and $675 for taxes.

In later editions the Times will summarize in more detail the crop and livestock aspects of the annual summary.

Deputy commissioner Godin told the approximately 275 people in attendance at the report meeting that 80 per cent of the products produced by agriculture in Minnesota are exported from the state. He said that agricultural fairs have been sponsored by the department of agriculture for promotion of farm products. Annual fairs in Japan and Europe have emphasized a switch from rice to wheat products.

The department also regulates write-off programs for beef promotion, eggs, turkeys, lamb and milk, Godin said, adding that promotion of products has been greatly responsible for increasing markets both in the United States and foreign countries.

Farmers attending the report session were from programs conducted by Kittson county veterans' agriculture, Hallock school, Greenbush, Middle River, Warren, Goodridge, Red Lake Falls, Oklee, Plummer, Fosston, Crookston and Thief River Falls schools.

Dr. David Brown Actively Seeks GOP Nomination

Dr. David M. Brown, superintendent of schools in Goodridge for more than 20 years, has announced that he is actively seeking nomination for Seventh District Congressman. The endorsement of a candidate will be made at the Republican convention on Friday and Saturday, April 26 and 27, at East Grand Forks.

In his public announcement, Dr. Brown professed confidence in the Republican party and stated that the current administration deserves support for its achievements in the past few years.

"Ending of the war in Viet Nam, quelling the riots in the streets and campuses of our nation and sale of surplus grain which resulted in more equitable farm crop prices should not be forgotten," he said. "Detente with Russia and China and peacemaking efforts in the Middle East are also worthy of mention," he added.

Dr. Brown said that the election of a Republican Congress is needed to further the thrust of attempts to eliminate costly and complicated federal programs which would be better handled at the state and local levels.

Active in the Republican party for many years, Dr. Brown believes he is well acquainted with the philosophy of the party and well qualified for the congressional post. He said his candidacy for endorsement was suggested by the state Republican chairman.

Local NFO Dairy Farmers To Hear About Sell-Off

To receive information on the planned methodical sell-off of dairy cows for slaughter, seven members of the Pennington county NFO will attend a meeting to be held Tuesday near Fergus Falls. The sell-off is in reaction to attempted roll-backs in milk prices by manufacturers.

Attending the meeting will be Darrow Lundeen, chairman of the county NFO milk committee, Merle Lundeen and Andy Peterson, Trail; Ed Stucy and Leonard Johnson, Goodridge; Donald Erickson, Plummer; and Stanely Donarski, Thief River Falls.

The sell-off will extend across Minnesota and Wisconsin to all dairy production areas influenced by the NFO. First sell-off was scheduled to be 500 head at Holcomb, Wis., Thursday.

It is alleged that dairy product manufacturers, including some cooperatives as well as large national dairy corporations, are closing their dairy product manufacturing plants in an effort to back up fresh milk supplies and roll back prices paid to producers.

"Milk producers simply can not take the price cut and remain solvent," the NFO said in a news release to the area press. "Production costs have continued to rise very rapidly. Fertilizer and farm supplies are up 50 to 100 per cent or more. Dairy operators really need higher prices for their milk right now. They do not propose to become bankrupt as the nation's livestock producers have been in recent months."

"Selling milk cows is only one of several steps NFO and its members plan to take," stated Oren Lee Staley, NFO president, "but it is the surest, quickest way the members know to stop losses."

NFO members now operate more than 300 livestock collection points across the nation for hogs, sheep and cattle, Staley said. He noted that the dairy cow sell-off is being coordinated through the NFO meat department so it will not adversely affect cattle markets. Sales will be spread out over geographical areas and timed so as to avoid the effect of a single large dumping action.

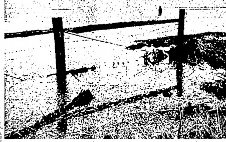
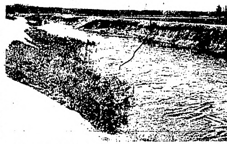
Ditch Project Reviewed At Group Meeting Wed.



FLOODING CONDITIONS extend over several sections of land northeast of Goodridge in the vicinity of Ditch 13. The area is drained by the system of ditches 13, 18 and 30 for which an improvement program has been proposed. While hundreds of ducks splashed and swam happily in the flood waters, farmers were concerned about the damage to their land and the late planting season. The photo was taken Saturday morning before this area received nearly two inches of rain. A youth in hip boots is shown in the upper center of the picture.



EROSION OF BANKS along ditch 30— in the lower reaches of the ditch 18 system about a mile from the outlet into the Thief river— is apparent in this photo. A group project to slope the ditch bank with a four-to-one grade and seed it to grass would increase the carrying capacity of the ditch and reduce erosion. A meeting on the project was held Wednesday evening.

Possibility of a group project for the improvement of the ditch 18 system—which includes ditches 30, 18 and 13 in Pennington county—was discussed at a group informational meeting held Wednesday evening in the Pennington county courthouse meeting room. Although no opponents of the project testified in opposition, a petition containing 17 signatures of opponents was introduced for presentation to the county board of commissioners.

Approximately 55 property owners along the system were listed in favor of the project, it was noted at the meeting. Three persons who had signed the petition in opposition asked to have their names removed from it at the conclusion of the meeting.

Presenting information at the meeting, chaired by Clair Larson, chairman of the Pennington soil and water conservation district, were Steve Wilson, unit conservationist; Richard Cullen, SCS area engineer; Wallace Sparby, director of the county ASCS; and C.W. Rodekuhr, county auditor.

Proponents of the ditch improvement project are seeking a spcial meeting of the county commissioners to discuss methods to proceed. It is reported that the group plans to petition for the improvement if it is unseccessful in obtaining the special project.

Proposed to be accomplished at an estimated cost of $146,000 is the following; as recommended by the soil conservation service:

(1) The stability of the side slopes can be improved by flattening to 4:1 and leaving a berm;

(2) Grade stabilization is needed to reduce channel bank and field erosion;

(3) Construction of a dike outside the berm will assist the system from flooding;

(4) Seeding and fertilizing of the channel slope will assist the cannel stability.

"These recommendations will provide public benefits through improved water quality and a reduction of sediment pollution," states the report presented by Cullen at the meeting.

"Purpose of this project is to stabilize the channel bank by sloping the bank to 4:1 slopes, leave a six to 10-foot berm and then construct a four-foot dike with the spoil. Slopes are to be seeded and fertilized immediately after construction. Grade stabilization structures

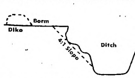
SLOPED AND SEEDED to prevent erosion, this ditch bank in the Highlanding area shows the advantage of good conservation practice. Similar slope is being proposed for ditches 13, 18 and 30.



SIDE VIEW of proposed work on the Ditch 18 system is shown in the diagram above. Soil removed from the ditch bank to give 4-to-1 slope would be used to erect a dike beyond a berm at the edge of the ditch.

Inventory Made Of Recreation Facilities In Co.

Outdoor recreation inventory of private facilities in Pennington county, was completed recently through the Pennington soil and water conservation district with only five facilities noted, according to Steve Wilson, area conservationist.

Also working on the inventory as part of a project for the national association of soil conservation districts were Clair Larson, chairman of the SWCD board; Terry Courneya, Pennington county extension agent; and Loren Luschen, manager of the Farmers Home administration office in the county.

Listed on the inventory are the archery club, trap club, golf club, sportsman club park and Satellite drive-in theatre.

Other outdoor recreation facilities in the area are largely public-owned, Wilson said.

Susan Laurie Geving Weds R. Roen In Detroit Lakes

Miss Susan Laurie Geving and Richard Earl Roen exchanged marriage vows on Saturday, March 30, at 1:30 p.m., at the First Lutheran church at Detroit Lakes.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed J. Geving, former residents of Goodridge, who are now residing at Detroit Lakes. The groom is the son of Mrs. Orvid L. Roen of Detroit Lakes and the late Orvid Roen.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony were Rev. Roger Noer of Mobridge, S.D., a cousin of the bride, and Rev. Lyndon West, pastor of First Lutheran church. Mrs. Julie Gunderson was the organist. She played "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," for the processional and also accompanied the assembled guests as they sang, "O Perfect Love." During the ceremony, the soloist Del Hultgren sang, "One Hand, One Heart," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Candelabra and arrangements of blue and white carnations graced the chancel for the ceremony attended by approximately 200 relatives and friends.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a princess styled floor-length gown of Chantilly lace fashioned with a gently flared skirt that flowed back into a chapel-length train. The gown was styled with long fitted sleeves with satin cuffs and a satin stand-up collar edged with lace. Accenting the front was a narrow band with miniature covered buttons. A headpiece of matching lace held her veil of bridal illusion. She carried a cascade arrangement of deep red roses and babies breath, accented with greens.

Bernadette Sturre, a niece of the bride served as personal attendant.

Attending the bride were her cousins: Mrs. Timothy Kassa of Goodridge, as matron of honor and Mrs. John Pietila of Lake Park, as bridesmatron. They wore identical, floor-length gowns in medium blue and white patterned polyester knit. The gowns were styled with long sleeves with deep cuffs. The V-necklines had collars with tie-ends. To complement their attire, they wore blue picture hats and carried blue and white pompons.

Douglas Nitzkorski of Fargo, N.D., was best man and John Villiard of Moorhead, was groomsman. The ushers were Loren Carlson of Sacred Heart and Bruce Hein of Frazee. All are friends of the groom. The groom wore a tuxedo with a boutonniere of babies' breath and a red rose. His attendants were attired in conventional business suits with blue tipped carnation boutonnieres.

The mother of the bride was attired in a floor-length gown of sky-blue polyester and the mother of the groom wore a long-sleeved, floor-length gown of baby blue chiffon.

Special guest at the ceremony was Mrs. Christine Roen, grandmother of the bride.

Following the ceremony, the parents of the bride hosted a reception in the church parlors. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Sprague, brother-in-law and sister of the bride, served as host and hostess. The guests were registered by Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Sturre, brother-in-law and sister of the bride, as Mr. and Mrs. Max Jones, brother-in-law and sister of the groom, ladled the punch.

The three-tiered wedding cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. John Pietila, was graced with blue roses and white wedding bells. Topping the cake was an arrangment of fresh blue and white carnations, centered with a Christogram. Mrs. Albert Kassa and Mrs. Floyd Olson cut and served the cake as Mrs. Ernest Swanson and Mrs. Clarence Noer poured. All are aunts of the bride.

Rice packets were distributed by Shelly Swanson, cousin of the bride, and Kimberly Jones, niece of the groom. Waitresses were Mrs. John Schofield, cousin of the bride, Mrs. Gary Thompson, Mrs. Barbara Zapp and Miss Sandra Espeseth, friends of the couple. At the gift table were Mrs. Lowell Swanson, cousin of the bride, and Miss Bonnie Fuller, friend of the couple. Gift bearers were cousins of the bride: Karlajoyce Sturre, Paula Sturre and Carolyn Sprague.

Relatives and friends from Goodridge, Thief River Falls, Oklee and Clearbrook attended the ceremony as well as those from Willmar, Alexandria, Staples, Detroit Lakes, Moorhead, Wadena, St. Cloud, Rochert, Fergus Falls, St. James, Lake Park, Park Rapids, Ada, Minneapolis, St. Paul, and Sebeka. Also present were guests from North and South Dakota, and Wisconsin.

On my desk is a jagged clipping torn from a newspaper article from one of our exchange papers. To give me the extra strength needed, now that spring housecleaning time has arrived, I have re-read the clipping several times. So far, the change hasn't been noticeable. I am an eccentric in that I save everything. It is very difficult to break a habit that dates back over half a century.

My habit didn't become a problem until a month ago when we decided to remodel the upstairs rooms. I was in complete agreement with the remodeling project until my husband announced, "We are starting in the South room." For over 20 years, the South room has been my private domain, where I stored things. No one else could find anything in that room, that was filled from wall to wall. There were many snide remarks made regarding the room. When someone broke anything, someone always said, "That's alright, we'll put it in the South room."

When the room was emptied, leaving it bare for the electricians and carpenters, an assortment of articles was found. In the closet were two wedding dresses: mine, and one worn by one of our daughters. Also found were: the confirmation dress that my mother made for me, the first coat that I bought for myself, baby shoes that the girls had worn, layettes with hand sewed lace trim, and several boxes of washed woolens, which I had intended to use for piece quilts.

There were boxes of books, some dating back to the 1800's. There were novels using "thee's and thou's", a copy of my first reader, and countless elementary books, some in complete series. In the corner, was an antique organ that has been in my husband's family for years, a wooden medicine cabinet (date unknown), a set of three pencil tables, (part of a pencil collection) and a large number of scrap books, which included valentines from early school days.

Hours have been spent in sorting and evaluating years of accumulating. It seemed odd that the day a load went to the dump grounds, someone asked for something that had been in the South room. (Your right, it had been sent to the dump grounds.)

Before I'm through, I will need every bit of strength to follow the advice proclaimed in the clipping, "To everything there is a season and a time for every purpose under the heaven: a time to get, and a time to lose; and a time to keep and a time to cast away."

We express appreciation to Mrs. Vernon Philipp of rural Goodridge for providing us with a recipe for Manicotti, a pasta that is boiled, stuffed with a meat filling and baked in a tomato sauce. Her daughter-in-law said that it was delicious.

Manicotti

1½ lb. ground beef, browned
1 egg
½ lb. Mozzarella cheese, shredded
3 slices bread, broken into bits
½ cup milk
onion, chopped (optional)
salt and pepper, to taste.

Method: Brown and cool the ground beef. Mix the remaining ingredients and add to the beef. While the meat is cooling, boil the manicotti shells in boiling salt water until tender but not soft. Cool in water. Drain and stuff shells with meat mixture. Arrange in 9x13 inch pan. Cover with sauce. Bake in a 350 degree oven for 35 to 45 minutes.

Sauce

1-15 oz. can tomato sauce
1 can tomato soup
1 can water
1 teaspoon sugar
seasonings may be added if desired

The Vernon Philipps live on a farm in rural Goodridge with two of their four children: Dale, who is employed by Tunbergs, and Mike, an eighth grader at Franklin Junior high school. Their other two children are married. Joe and his wife Susan live in Thief River Falls and Paulette and her husband Daryl Augustine reside in Star Prairie, Wis. Although Mrs. Philipp is a teacher's aid at Knox and Mark Twain elementary schools, she is president of the ALCW at the Silver Creek Lutheran church, and also finds time for decoupaging, reading and gardening, her favorite hobbies. Philipp is employed by Lakehead Pipeline company at Viking.

Minn. FU Asks Federal Loans For Beef Farmer

A request for an emergency loan program to assist livestock farmers who have suffered losses as a result of plummeting beef prices was issued recently on behalf of farmers by Cy Carpenter, president of Minnesota Farmers union.

In a telegram to secretary of agriculture Earl Butz, Carpenter said that immediate action should be taken to provide low-interest loans to livestock farmers who can document a loss of $5,000 or more in the last six months.

"Farmers are losing $100 to $200 on every head of cattle they sell. It is not uncommon that farmers cannot even regain the dollars they paid for cattle after they have added 200 to 300 pounds of weight, with no returns for feed, labor or investment," Carpenter said.

"As a result, farmers do not have the capital or the credit needed to reinvest in their operations in order to purchase replacement cattle and feed. An emergency loan program is needed not only to allow farmers to stay in business, but also to protect consumers who already are paying inflated prices for beef," Carpenter added.

Carpenter said that as farmers are forced out of business by severe losses, the consumer will also suffer by shorter supplies and higher prices due to the scarcity.

"Farmers who suffer losses as a result of roller-coaster prices beyond their control deserve the same attention and assistance as victims of a natural disaster," Carpenter said.

He indicated that the federal government has a responsibility to help these stricken farmers because Administration policies contributed to the problem.

Carpenter said, "A substantial portion of this problem must be credited to this Administration by placing of ceilings on beef prices, urging consumers to buy less beef, and importing excessive amounts of cheese to compete with American meat."

"This recovery program is vital both for the afflicted farmers and for consumers wanting an adequate supply of food," Carpenter concluded.

Over 40?

When you round that 40 mark, it's a good idea to ask your physician for a "procto" when you have your annual physical. This examination can help find colon and rectum cancer in an early stage, when it's most curable. This advice from the American Cancer Society.

Gasoline Prices Continue Rise In Minnesota

Average price of regular gasoline jumped nearly a cent and a half per gallon this past week, according to the Minnesota state automobile association (AAA) and its affiliated clubs. The price for premium in many areas of the state soared to more than 62 cents per gallon.

In its weekly survey of 81 gasoline stations around the state, the motoring organization found that prices continue to rise despite indications that fuel supplies are improving. Of those stations contacted, more than 30 per cent reported their fuel supply outlook had shown significant improvement and only 10 per cent reported that supplies were deteriorating.

Statewide, more than 85 per cent of the stations report they have adequate supplies of gasoline to meet the needs of their customers—the most optimistic report in many months.

The average price for regular gasoline this past week was 54.5 cents per gallon, up from 53.0 last week. The average price of premium this past week was 58.0 cents per gallon, up from 56.6 cents per gallon the week before.

The highest prices for gasoline are still found in the Twin Cities, according to the survey. Average prices in St. Paul range more than two cents higher than in Minneapolis, however.

Hours of operation appear to be fairly stable with more than half of the stations open past 7 p.m. on weekdays and Saturdays, and more than a quarter of the stations open for Sunday sales of gas. One indication of the improvement in gas supply is the nearly total disappearance of limiting at the pumps, AAA said.

Sons Of Norway Receive Grant For Program

Minnesota Humanities commission awarded nearly $48,000 to 11 organizations in the state at its April meeting, the final meeting of this fiscal year.

Concordia College and Sons of Norway in Moorhead received $1,500 for a program on the Norwegian-American women as role models. The programs will take place in Fergus Falls, Detroit Lakes, Crookston, East Gand Forks, Ada, Moorhead, Alexandria, Fosston, Vining and Thief River Falls.

Three proposals were tabled for later consideration by the commission executive committee. Since July 1973 the Commission has awarded over $130,000 to 36 organizations, including colleges, libraries, community groups and consortiums, for public discussion programs which relate the humanities to public issues.

A Common Cancer

Colon-rectum cancer affects both men and women, and, at this point, it's the second deadliest cancer in terms of number of lives lost each year. But, the outlook would be better, the American Cancer Society reports, if everyone over 40 had a "procto" as part of a periodic health checkup.

USDA Proposes New Regulations For School Milk

U.S. department of agriculture (USDA) recently proposed updated regulations on determing children's eligibility for free and reduced-price meals and free milk in child-care institutions which participate in its special food service program for children and its special milk program.

These programs serve meals or milk to children who pay for them and to needy children who receive free or reduced-price meals or free milk. Each institution, guided by state and federal standards on income and family size, determines who qualifies for these program benefits.

The proposed regulations require each institution to submit for approval its policy statement on determing eligibility to ensure that all eligible children receive free or reduced-price meals, or free milk. Institutions participating in both programs would use the same policy for both.

For institutions serving meals or milk at no separate charge to children, a simple affidavit type of policy statement is proposed. The policy statement would affirm that all children receive the same meals or milk at no charge regardless of race, color or national origin and that there is no discrimintion in the course of food service.

For institutions which charge separately for meals or milk, the regulations propose stating the criteria used to determine children's eligibility; how necessary information will be gathered from families; how payments will be collected without overtly identifying children receiving free or reduced-price meals or free milk; a procedure for fair hearings for complaints; and an assurance that there will be no discrimination against any child because of race, color or national origin.

The regulations propose that institutions annually announce their eligibility criteria to area news media, stating that these program benefits are available without discrimination to eligible children.

These regulations are proposed to replace a notice governing eligibility issued in October of 1968.

Infrequent Use Of Water Best For Most Plants

By the time you are seventy years old, if you're an average American, you will have used 26 million tons of water. Along with all our other energy problems, the diminishing quantity and quality of water is becoming an increasing concern.

Because all the products with which they work depend on a proper use of water, the people of the American Association of Nurserymen have a great interest in providing practical instructions for its best application and preservation.

Most people are more likely to overwater their trees, plants, shrubs and grass than to provide insufficient moisture. The people of the nursery industry advocate thorough watering when it is needed, rather than frequent limited watering. This is much better for the plant, less costly, too—and saves water. The simplest way to tell when water is needed is to examine the soil at a depth of several inches. If it seems dry at that point, put on water. If it is even slightly moist, wait.

The people of the nursery industry make another point. Water from your property travels eventually, in one way or another, to our rivers and streams and carries along with it soil and sediment from your land to add to the water problem. You can prevent this from happening by planting grass or attractive groundcovers on any sloping area from which water will be running off.

If our water is an endangered resource, as the ecologists say, steps such as these taken by every individual will be a long-term investment.

Johnson Wins Insurance Award

Wesley Johnson of Thief River Falls, sales representative for Mutual Service Insurance companies, has qualified for the companies' 1974 sales congress at San Francisco. He was among 91 of the companies' 485 agents to earn this distinction. During the three-day Congress, qualifiers and their wives heard from company executives and visiting experts about recent developments and future prospects in the insurance industry.

Attendance at the congress was based on superior sales performance in all lines during the 14-month period from Dec. 1, 1972 to Jan 31, 1974.

156,400 Given Food Assistance During November

U. S. department of agriculture's food and nutrition service reports that nearly 156,400 low-income persons in Minnesota received food assistance during November through programs operated in cooperation with the state department of public welfare and public education. According to Dennis M. Doyle, regional administrator of USDA's FNS, this was an increase of about 600 from October.

November total included around 146,200 persons in 74 food stamp program areas who paid some $2,169,000 for food stamps valued in excess of $4,050,000. The difference of almost $1,882,000 or bonus value of the coupons was USDA's contribution to the program. The bonus averaged $12.87 per person compared with $13.27 the previous month.

For the fiscal year through November, Minnesota participants have been issued food stamps valued at nearly $20,366,000 of which almost $9,912,000 have been bonus coupons.

will be required approximately four per mile which will allow field drainage but reduce erosion. The dike will control some out of bank flood but the important aspect is that there will be controlled stable field drainage."

Because of the large undertaking and expenses involved, the group has sought funding from the state ASC committee. Each land owner would be sacrificing about five acres of land per mile to stabilize the banks in addition to paying a cost share.

Outlet for the system is the Thief river, approximately three miles north of Thief River Falls. It extends eastward from that point to approximately one and one-half miles north of Goodridge and then eastward into Marshall county.

Cost estimate for the project is based on $100,000 for bank stabilization, $30,000 for grade control structures and $16,000 for seeding and fertilizing. It was projected that about 75 per cent of the project cost could be obtained through cost sharing from the ASCS with the remaining 25 per cent to be paid by accumulated county ditch funds and benefit assessments to individual land owners.

"In terms of volume, sediment is the major pollutant in Pennington county," Cullen told the group Wednesday. "Of great concern to the public is the filling of an irreplaceable reservoir, streams and field drainage systems. In Thief River Falls the city's reservoir is dependent on water volume for municipal use, hydro-power, recreation and fishing. Each year Thief River Falls' hydraulic dredge is in opeation to maintain maximum volume of water in the city's reservoir in order to compensate for the sediment pollutants carried through drainage systems in the watershed."

Tunisian Prof. At University On Scholarship

First recipient of a Borlaug fellowship arrived in St. Paul this week to begin studies in a plant genetics doctorate program at the University of Minnesota.

Mohamed S. Mekni of Tunisia, a professor of agronomy at the Tunisian Institute of Agriculture, is studying in the department of agronomy and plant genetics. He will return to his home country to teach and conduct barley breeding research. Mekni will be the first Minnesota trained agronomist at the Tunisian college.

The Borlaug fellowship was established in 1972 under a grant from Mrs. Virginia Persons in honor of Norman Borlaug, 1970 Nobel peace prize winner and University of Minnesota graduate. Borlaug was honored for leading a "green revolution" that combats world hunger. He developed high yielding wheat varieties now used around the world.

The Borlaug Fellowships are administered by the institute of agriculture through the office of international agriculture programs in cooperation with the U.S. agency for international development (AID).

Outstanding young foreign scientists who have a high capacity for scientific achievement and have been designated for strategic positions in their home countries are being selected as Borlaug Fellows.

Beef Research Board Appoints First Secretary

Minnesota's producer-elected beef research and promotion board has announced the appointment of an executive secretary and the first assignment of a portion of revenues from a 15 cents per animal marketing checkoff implemented on January 14.

Named to the full-time management post is Leif H. Lie, 58, a native of Rushford currently residing in Morris. He will maintain the board's office at 10 East First Street in Morris.

Board action has assigned one third of the checkoff assessment, or five cents per animal sold for beef slaughter in Minnesota, to the national livestock and meat board. This assignment replaces the voluntary producer contribution to the national beef promotion agency. Last year Minnesota producers contributed $37,000 to that fund on a voluntary assessment of three cents per animal marketed for beef.

Also earmarked, by the state law that enables agricultural commodity groups to establish marketing orders, is $25,000 of first year beef assessment revenues to reimburse the state for funds advanced by legislative appropriation for the organizational and initial implementation period.

According to Dr. Harvey Peterson of Thief River Falls, board treasurer, a working revenue projection may not be determined until late this year, when experience in producer cooperation can be measured by the amount of requested assessment refunds provided for by law.

Executive secretary Lie is a 1940 agricultural economics graduate of the University of Minnesota, World War II Navy air force veteran, retired county agent, vocational agriculture instructor, sportsman, wrestling coach and civic leader.

He has received three distinguished service awards, in 1967 from the NCAA wrestling coaches association for his 21 years of coaching at University farm school West Central school in Morris and the University of Minnesota at Morris; from the national agricultural agents association in 1970 for his 26 years service at University of Minnesota, Morris; and from the West Central livestock association in 1972 for his outstanding service to livestock producers.

He also has held numerous civic responsibilities at Morris and in Stevens county, and was vo-ag insturctor in Chokio-Alberta public schools in 1972-73 after retiring from the university extension staff.

Food And Drug Office Requests Product Reports

U. S. food and drug administration is encouraging consumers to report to it any mislabeled, unsanitary or harmful products.

According to Blanche L. Erkel, consumer affairs officer in Minneapolis, consumer complaints very often lead to regulatory action by the food and drug administration.

"We investigate every consumer complaint to see whether a hazard to the consumer exists, or whether a violation of the law has taken place," she said. "FDA may not take legal action solely on the basis of the consumer complaint, but if a violation is found, FDA will seek a remedy."

FDA regulates foods, with the exception of red meats, poultry and eggs. It also regulates medicines, cosmetics and medical devices. FDA does not control the price of any of these products, but it does prohibit any labeling or packaging that may be economically deceptive.

Before registering a complaint, consumers should first ask themselves whether their own improper use of the product may have caused the problem. For example, did the consumer use the product according to the directions, or is the consumer allergic to any indgredient in the product?

In reporting a complaint, consumers should state exactly what appears to be wrong, give a complete description of the product and where it was purchased. If any code marks appear on the label or container, consumers should be prepared to provide this information. Any unopened containers of the product should be kept for possible further investigation by FDA.

"Consumer complaints are handled by FDA consumer safety officers," Mrs. Erkel explained. "If you have a complaint that may warrant action by FDA, the telephone number to call is (612) 725-2121."

Minn. Receives Summer Food Program Funds

Minnesota will receive $102,900 this year to operate the special food service summer program in the state, according to Charles L. Matthew, state director of child nutrition programs in the Minnesota department of education.

A 40 per cent increase over last year's funding, the money will help provide nourishing meals to Minnesota's children this summer, Matthew said.

The summer food service program is expected to reach more children than it did last year because the federal government has proposed to boost reimbursement to sponsors taking part in the program, he added.

If the increase is approved, sponsors this year will be reimbursed up to 34 cents for a regular meal and up to 11 cents for supplemental food such as snacks. Especially in needed areas, assistance may be as high as 70 cents for regular meals and 18 cents for supplemental foods, including a per-meal administrative cost allowance of up to six and 1.5 cents respectively.

The funds are provided by the U.S. department of agriculture's food and nutrition service. Matthew said that if $102,900 proves insufficient to operate the program in Minnesota this summer, it would be possible to apply for a share of the $4.4 million which is being held in reserve by the USDA.

The special food service program extends into the summer the advantages gained by children who eat school lunches during the school year. The summer program has been steadily growing in Minnesota.

The program operates through public and nonprofit private service institutes such as day care centers and recreation programs. Matthew said sponsors are needed for the program and urged interested persons to contact his office for details.

Inquires should be addressed to Charles L. Matthew, School Lunch Section, Minnesota Department of Education, 509 Capitol Square, St. Paul, MN 55101. Phone 612-296-6986.

TO THE CITIZENS OF MARSHALL COUNTY

A FEW Warren business men formed the Marshall County Courthouse Committee to try to dupe the people of this county into thinking that it would be a grave mistake to move the county seat from Warren. All of a sudden they are asking the citizens of this county who they pretended did not exist until now to help them keep the county courthouse in Warren so they can remain fat cats.

These fat cats want to continue to run this county. Their scare tactics and untruths, there low opinion of the intelligence of the citizens of this county is incredible. The following is a rebuttal to their statements.

In the last few days The Marshall County Courthouse Committee, Mr. Lee Skunes, Secretary has been using radio time on KROX Crookston and KTRF Thief River Falls to voice their opposition to our proposal to bring to a referendum vote to move the county seat to a central location in Marshall County. Now we welcome opposition; we know there is opposition and we believe the citizens of this county should hear their views. But, to mislead the citizens of the county by saying their views are based on facts is incredible.

There is a cliche that you can fool some of the people some of the time but you can't fool all of the people all of the time. I believe this is appropriate here. I will here go through their statement and try to bring forth the misinformation. They claim the $750,000 to build the proposed Law Enforcement Center is already appropriated from Federal Revenue Sharing funds and the county building fund. They are correct - but to imply that if it's not built in Warren the project would be abandoned at a county cost of $50,000 architectual fee is rediculous and one of the many scare tactics used in their statement.

If this issue does get to a vote and Newfolden wins, the architect says that with some revisions the Law Enforcement Center can be built in Newfolden without the loss of the $50,000 paid him. It is also worth noting here that members of MCIA had asked the commissioners on the day the architect submitted the plans which we were able to see, not to be in a hurry to pay the $50,000 until we were able to get our petitions signed for a referendum vote. But they obligated the amount to him anyway, so we must assume they were in a hurry to get this through without consulting with their constituents.

I would like to make clear here that we have considerable supporters from the Eastern part of the county, but we also have a considerable amount of supporters from the Central and Western part of Marshall County, and also many supporters from the Warren District. So to assume that our supporters are all from the Eastern part of the County is misleading.

Now they also claim that the geographic center of the county does not truly express the best location for county services in terms of serving the needs of all the people based on population distribution. They claim that Warren better serves the needs of all county residents than Newfolden. They also claim that 8,964 residents live in the West half of Marshall County and 4,096 live in the Eastern half. Then they go on to say that 1,400 people live closer to Warren.

Now I don't profess to know where they draw their line to divide East from West. But we believe its about even. They, of course, have no choice but to use the 1970 census figures. But the most important point is where do they draw the line dividing East from West. Now we also can draw a line in such a way where the population is in our favor. The biggest and the most debatable point is population.

I happen to know the cities of Viking and Newfolden has grown considerably since the 1970 census. I also am sure that the Eastern part of this county has grown. Whether the Western half has I would not know, and would not say that it has or has not. I'm only interested in facts and will not construe growth in the Western half as fact.

But this I do know, on this population issue I have said to the commissioners and I'll say it again now. If you have the population and they feel that the whole county is better served by the county seat remaining in Warren, then why is Warren afraid of a referendum vote?

Why is the Marshall County Courthouse Committee telling people not to sign the petition that would call for a vote? If the statements they make about population are accurate, the vote would be cast in their favor and Warren would win. We are not afraid of a vote of the people.

Now in their statement about the flood plain. They say that the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources stated that the facility as designed is not flood prone. I will not challenge that statement because I believe it to be true. But, let's look at that statement again. Two words in that statement I want to bring to your attention, the words are "as designed". How much of that $750,000 is used to build this facility above the flood plain? If it was centrally located it would not have to be designed to be in the flood plain. A central location is not in the flood plain. How much of that $750,000 will be used to build a fire wall on the old courthouse? How much can we subtract from the total figure for elevators for waterproofing the basement?

The maintenance of the old courthouse is important. What is the cost of maintenance and inspection of the elevator system per year? How much will it cost the taxpayers for present maintenance practices each year to keep the present courthouse standing? How much will it cost to rewire the old courthouse which is badly needed? What about plumbing?

The county board makes a claim that the architect assured them that the present courthouse with present maintenance practices is in every way sound and should be good for another 50 to 75 years. I was there when that question was put to the architect, and what in fact he said was, he had not examined the building but he believed that the building could last 50 years or more with renovation. At present costs of materials, how much would it cost to renovate an outdated building that is over 80 years old? I'm sure we all agree it would be less expensive to build a new courthouse then to throw the taxpayers hard earned money into a building 80 years old.

Let's take a hard look at the old building. In 1900, it was a grand structure, no doubt built for the times. But today with advanced technology in materials and keeping in mind our feelings on economics and efficiency, the old courthouse is a drain on the taxpayers dollars. Please note the following:

1. Hallways are huge and a complete waste of space.
2. Offices are too large for proper maintenance.
3. Ceilings are way too high for proper maintenance.
4. Cost of maintenance of an old building is high.
5. Cost of heating an old building is high.
6. Lighting and wiring are not up to date and are insufficient.
7. Plumbing is inadequate for handicapped and elderly people.
8. Stairways are dangerous.

They don't build courthouses like that today. They are efficient and easy to maintain, and they are economical to operate — thus a savings to the taxpayers.

Now they also claim that the Marshall County Courthouse Committee was formed to provide you with their viewpoint as to its pocketbook impact on you as a taxpayer. They claim that it would cost to build in the center of this county a complete courthouse including a law enforcement center 2.7 million dollars. From this amount should be deducted $750,000 that is now available for building the Law Enforcement center in Warren. The net cost for a total new facility of $1,950,000.

The Law Enforcement Center as proposed for $750,000 contains the following.

1. District Court Chambers
2. County Court Chambers
3. Law Library & Clerk of Court Office
4. Two Court Rooms
5. 2 jury rooms
6. 2 council rooms
7. 2—6x8 maximum security cells for 1 man
8. 2—6x8 medium security cells for 1 man
9. 2 room cells, medium security, for 6 men each
10. 2 juvenile detention, medium security, for 2 each
11. 1 medium detention for women
12. Receiving and admission room
13. Conference room for visitation
14. Kitchen
15. Laundry room

Now all of that cost $750,000.

What do we need to complete the county Seat.

1. Assessors office
2. Registrar of Deeds
3. County Auditor
4. County Treasurer
5. County Engineers
6. Welfare
7. County Nurse

We need seven more offices and they are say, those seven offices will cost $1,950,000.

Now of the $750,000 for Law Enforcement Center to be built in the Center of the county instead of Warren, we can subtract from that figure the cost of:

1. Fire Wall
2. Expensive Waterproofing basement
3. Elevators
4. And the extra cost of building above the flood plain

Now I'll tell you where they got their figures. They had the architect measure the old courthouse with their wasted space, huge hallways, their high ceiling, their extremely large offices. They got all that square footage and charged $35 a square foot.

If we were going to build the exact duplicate of the old courthouse in the center of the county I can understand their figures. So to insult the intelligence of the citizens of this county with those kinds of figures is beyond belief. If a new county seat were to be built it would be a more efficient and economical than the present courthouse.

What will it cost the taxpayers to build those seven offices? If you figure each office to be 900 square feet, the size of a two bedroom home, seven offices at $35 a square foot would total $220,500. Let's round it off to $300,000.

Now let's assume we win our vote and it goes to the center of the county. By the time the bids are let and construction begins it will be toward the end of the year. By the time it is completed it would run into next year. Why couldn't they use revenue sharing funds for 1975 to pay off the balance of the new county courthouse? A figure of $500,000 would be a good estimate of the seven offices. No bond issue or extra taxes would have to be levied for the new court house located in the center of the county. The scare tactics that they have been using are incredible by saying it will increase our taxes by 23 per cent.

I called Mr. Lee Skunes and challenged him to an open debate on radio and television on his remarks. He said he would ask the rest of the committee and call back the next day. He did call back. He wanted his group and members of the Marshall County Improvement Association to sit down in private to discuss these issues.

Mr. Lindemoen and I have said that there have been too many private meetings on county matters and want an open debate in front of all the citizens of the county. It's the voters' issue and the voters' money and their vote is our concern. He said he did not mention the open debate challenge to his people. He thought we would agree to a private meeting.

I asked him if he can call his people and give me an answer on the debate question. He said he would be too busy for the next few days to notify his people, that I can call him early next week and he will have an answer for me. As of now, you know, next week is too late. I must assume he refuses to debate. Let's face it; it's hard to debate figures out of a hat.

His last paragraph on the radio is misleading and a complete untruth. He claims that quote: "All citizens of Marshall County carefully consider all the factors involved before signing the petition currently being circulated that would move your county seat to Newfolden."

I must say once again, that signing that petition does not in any way mean that the county seat will be moved to Newfolden. If you sign the petition, and the required number of signatures are obtained on the petitions, a referendum vote to move the county seat to Newfolden will be held. The petitions are only asking for a referendum vote so the people can express where they want the new courthouse located.

I suspect that the Marshall County Court House Committee is made up of Warren businessmen. I can understand their concern for losing the courthouse. Their business would suffer. But what has Warren done for the other citizens of this county? Have they deserved the county seat? Have they grown with the times? Have they available good shopping facilities for people doing business in Warren?

Most of our shopping is done in Pennington county and Thief River Falls. The taxpayers of this county are spending their shopping dollars in another county. They should not be afraid to lose the county seat. They have insulted the intelligence of the people for 90 years. They don't want to debate the issues, they want to hold private meetings. I think the citizens of this county are finally fed up. You can't treat whole communities like they don't exist. Yes, they should be worried. They have a right to be worried.

In their statement they threaten legal action lasting two years. If the commissioners challenge unduly the petitions in court, we assume these same Warren businessmen force them to. Because they already have stated this, possibly there would be a two-year delay due to legalities. The threat of legal foot-dragging is an old method of which we all are aware. This legal threat of delay bothers me, when the right of the vote is an issue. This is not the answer; it is rather to learn the will of the people by the election method.

Thought For The Day

We are creatures whose profession is box making. We make things of people by putting them into boxes and stamping labels on them: hippie, liberal, old, ignorant, intellectual, conservative. We color our boxes. We see ugliness and color it undesireable. We see wealth and color it greed. We see power and color it injustice. We see beauty and color it vain. We see politics and color it dirty.

We would not be so eager to make boxes if the walls of the boxes in which we place others became mirrors! For then we would see ourselves. Let us seek to find behind those walls food for our hunger; comfort for our pain; tears for our sorrow; strength for our weakness; laughter for our joy; companionship for our loneliness—just like Jesus of Nazareth, the defier of box-makers who, with spirit uncontained, freed all boxed-in spirits.

No Need For Enmity

When several residents of eastern Marshall county visited the board of county commissioners about a proposed law enforcement center a few weeks ago, nobody would have dreamed it would develop into an eventual effort to move the county seat from Warren to Newfolden. That development was the result of several current factors and a much older one.

And in spite of the current factors, perhaps it is the older, more deep-seated one which actually brought about the attempt to move the county seat.

There are mainly two current factors: (1) Law which requires that the county sheriff's office be located in the county seat; and (2) visible reluctance by the county commissioners to consider the opinions and thoughts of others regarding the law enforcement center in a public forum.

It was painfully apparent at the meeting in the courtroom in Warren that the commissioners had no intention of discussing the relative merits of the law enforcement center where their discussion could be heard by the interested persons in attendance. Such an attitude of secrecy breeds suspicion—even if the suspicion is unfounded.

An underlying factor, however, is the feeling by many eastern Marshall residents that the westerners have been unfair and intolerant to them. It may be that the attitude of superiority conveyed by west Marshall residents is less real than imagined, but the belief is widespread among eastern residents. What is now happening is a reaction which has been building over a number of years.

We can understand the counter-reaction in the Warren community. It is a natural tendency toward self-preservation when a threat is felt.

But we feel we understand east Marshall county people well enough to believe that the Marshall county courthouse committee has made a psychological error. We think its reaction came too early and that its attack was misdirected. Its thrust has succeeded in polarizing the people of the county on the basis of personalities rather than issues.

The courthouse committee seeks to prevent the Marshall county improvement association from petitioning for a vote on county seat location. The improvement association and its supporters believe strongly in the right to vote. We don't know how many of them realistically expect to win in a county-wide balloting, but they feel they deserve the opportunity to try. We would agree with them in that opinion.

How much better it would have been if the Marshall county courthouse committee had merely marshalled its forces and information in anticipation of a vote, and then attempted to influence the results of the election. We feel the improvement association would obviously expect and certainly accept that type of opposition. It would be a matter of issues—admittedly speculative issues in many cases—with the decision of the voters in the balance.

There is no need for enmity in this county seat location question. The Marshall county improvement association isn't looking for a fight, it is looking for a vote. Officers of the association have repeatedly affirmed that they are willing to abide by a majority at the polls. If they will be satisfied with the result of a vote—even if their cause is lost—they are entitled to that satisfaction.

Democracy is weakened only as its principles are abused. Majority rule is a democratic principle—one of the major democratic principles. Acceptance of this principle by all concerned should remove any need for enmity.

In Your Lifetime

Once again there is a hopeful theme for the American Cancer society's April crusade: "We want to wipe out cancer in your lifetime."

Is there substance to this hope? The trend over the last four decades shows that there is a real basis for cautious optimism. In the late thirties less than one in five cancer patients was being saved. Twenty-five years ago it was one in four, and today one of three who get cancer is saved.

Medical experts believe that with present methods of treatment one out of two cancer patients could be saved, providing detection and treatment come in time.

Advances in the treatment of cancer have come from research and improvement of surgical and radiation therapy. In a slow but steadily growing number of cancers, drugs have been effective.

But there can be little difference of opinion about what is needed for the final conquest of this ancient enemy of mankind. The scientific effort has to be broadened and stepped up. This means more money is needed for brain power and manpower, more equipment and research facilities.

Survey On Shoplifting

Under the "Shoplifting Takes Everybody's Money" educational program, the distributive education clubs in Minnesota conducted a survey of 8,349 students in fifth through 12th grades. The survey of 4,461 boys and 3,888 girls revealed some interesting statistics.

From 36.3 to 46.9 per cent of the students surveyed by grade level had shoplifted at one time or another. Nearly 12 per cent—or 987 students—did not consider shoplifting to be stealing. Nearly 48 per cent first shoplifted as elementary students, about 46 per cent as junior high students and only six per cent stole their first items as senior high students.

Shoplifting was infrequent for most of those who admitted to having done so. About 69 per cent had shoplifted less than five times, but 19 per cent had shoplifted from 11 to more than 30 times.

In terms of frequency, 37 per cent of the students shoplifted at variety or discount stores. This was followed by 36 per cent at drug stores, 30 per cent at grocery stores, 26 per cent at department stores, 19 per cent at hardware stores, 16 per cent at small specialty stores and 11 per cent at furniture stores.

Forty-seven per cent of all students surveyed who admitted having shoplifted indicated that they had been caught while nearly 53 per cent had not. Of those caught, 45 per cent were reprimanded and released, 19 per cent had their parents called and 30 per cent had police called.

And nearly 25 per cent of the students surveyed indicated they planned to continue shoplifting.

Call it what you will, shoplifting is theft and it is an expensive ingredient in the cost of doing business. What the STEM program says is true: "Shoplifting Takes Everybody's Money".

Slur Unwarranted

Following editorial is from the Redwood Gazette at Redwood Falls:

It's called "Probate Reform" by those lawmakers who are enthusiastic about it, and it may well be, but lawyers and publishers have reason to resent being called "parasites" because of their roles in the probating process as it has existed in Minnesota for many years.

Senator Jack Davies of Minneapolis, a law school professor, had little license to say that; or to infer that publishing fees have amounted to "exploitation." They have been small, and frequently have been instrumental in securing justice for creditors and heirs.

What is known as the "uniform probate code," with all its ramifications and complications, may well be worth trying. Certainly there should be a less time-consuming method, and hopefully all the dreams about agreeable heirs working out distributions and settlements without benefit of legal expertise and routine publicity, will be realized

But it has been demonstrated frequently that families have a way of blowing apart over inheritances—in some instances when they amounted to but a few dollars. Without referees and public notices, will there be more inclination to overlook the absent heir? Or the dozing creditor?

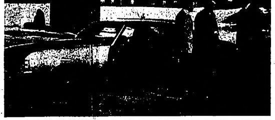
While the DFL-controlled legislature thought well enough of the new code to adopt it,it put off its effective date until August 1, not this year but 1975. That doesn't suggest over-strong conviction.

Borrowed Nonsense

A young man was practicing his guitar in the small hours of the morning when the landlord came in.

"Do you know there's a little lady sick upstairs?"

"No," answered the musician. "Hum a little of it."



CONTRIBUTION of this automobile to the mechanics class at the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute was made recently by the Chevrolet Motors division. Dave Klemm, right, district manager, made the presentation to AVTI director Arnt Aune while Bob Dondelinger (left), local Chevrolet dealer, looked on. The 1971 Chevelle is to be used for mechanic work only and is not to be driven.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Wednesday evening, April 18, the last class in a four part series on cancer was conducted at the school in Goodridge. Three of these series of instruction were conducted starting early last fall and during the winter and spring months at three locations in Pennington county—Goodridge, St. Hilaire and Thief River Falls.

Taking the complete series involved four evening classes and the classes were designed to provide a very complete coverage of the nature of cancer, its means of spread in your body, symptoms and statistics on all the most common cancers, methods of cure, and to provide answers to many of the most common questions such as the heredity factor, contagiousness, known causes and many more.

We would like to commend those of you who attended for the interest you are taking in your health and the health of your families. No other single factor in life is any more important than your health and cancer today is the second major threat to health that all of us must face.

The American Cancer society has waged a long fight against this disease. The society pioneered the funding of research programs and a great many of the findings upon which the final defeat of this disease rests have been discovered under these programs.

As that research has progressed so have the possible cures for cancer progressed and the chances of being cured of cancer have advanced from one in 10 not too many years ago to one in three today and that cure rate could be one in two right now if everyone was better informed. Those of you who have attended these classes have taken that step. The four evenings or so that you have taken out of your life to attend these classes at some time, somewhere, could prove to be the best investment you ever made.

Individual classes or programs are available at any time, specially prepared for those requesting such a program. Beginning next fall we will be conducting a further series much as we did this winter. We urge everyone to attend. Cancer is no respector of persons. It can strike in any family and does at any time.

Your best protection at this time is a knowledge of the disease and your best friend in the fight against cancer is your family doctor. Getting to him and getting the proper checkup early so that the cancer, if it develops, can be treated while it is localized is your best chance for a complete cure.

We want to thank the Times and station KTRF for their help in bringing these programs to public attention. We want to thank each of you that attended these classes for your interest. We hope that you will help others and urge others to take a little time out from the other many activities and get the protection this instruction can provide. Classes are free and everyone is welcome.

April has been designated cancer control month and from April 16-30 volunteers of the Pennington unit will be calling on people throughout the county, distributing literature and taking donations to support the research, public education and service to needy patients that make up the American Cancer society program.

Your support will be greatly appreciated in this fight against one of man's oldest enemies.

Respectfully yours,
Raymond V. Ptacek
Pres. Penn. Unit

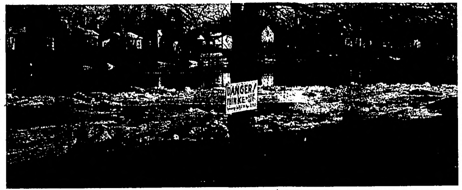
State Employees Are Praised For Energy Efforts

In an open letter to state employees recently, Governor Wendell R. Anderson praised their cooperation in conserving vital, diminishing energy resources.

Using for comparison the base periods December 1972 and December 1973, Anderson reported that gasoline consumption had been reduced by 7.8 per cent, or 12,578 gallons. Some 833,000 gallons of fuel oil were saved by lowering thermostats in state buildings and taking about 420,000 square feet of space out of service.

In addition to a prospective 1,260,000 gallons of gasoline and fuel oil to be saved by the State Highway Department in switching to asphalt emulsions instead of cutback asphalts, some 310,000 gallons will be saved by eliminating asphalt prime coatings in highway improvements now under contract and in the planning stage, according to Deputy Commissioner and Chief Engineer W. Stanley Ekern.

Where electrical energy is concerned, Anderson said that nearly 85,000 lights had been taken out of service in state buildings and almost 5,000 turned off on trunk highways, for a total savings of some three million kilowatt hours.



ICE WAS ALMOST GONE from the Red Lake River this morning (Wednesday) when this picture was taken at the boat landing near the Third street bridge. The thin ice warning sign is a reminder of danger created by the fall freeze-up and again by the spring thaw.

Markoe Hanson, a 1973 Lincoln high school graduate, is currently a member of the United States Air Force Academy junior varsity track team.

Hanson, a speedster who specialized in shorter sprint races for the Prowlers, is competing in the long jump and triple jump events for the Air Force squad.

The USAFA junior varsity has competed in five triangular indoor meets this season, winning all five, with Hanson placing in the triple jump event in three of the meets. The 1973 Prowler track captain's best triple jump effort was measured at 41-9 ¾ for a second place finish during a February meet. Jumps of 41-5½ and 41-4½ earned third and fourth place finishes for Hanson.

Hanson hasn't placed yet in the long jump, but his distances have been reportedly improving as he employs the flip style.

In high school Hanson established new Prowler records in the 60 and 220 yard indoor dashes and came within an eyelash of breaking 100 and 220 yard outdoor dash records held by former Prowler track stand-out Paul Klungness. Hanson also had a hand in establishing four new Prowler relay records as well.

NCC Rained Out Of 3rd Straight Double-header

Northland community college baseball team made it six straight Saturday—postponements, not wins—with a scheduled Northland double-header against the University of North Dakota junior varsity halted in the fourth inning of the first game because of rain.

The Northmen have been rained out of three straight scheduled double-headers this spring and chances are that number will climb to eight today (Monday) with twin-bill at Crookston Tech still in doubt.

Northland was scheduled to play a double-header at Crookston on Wednesday, at Crookston again on Friday and at UND Saturday, but rain and wet grounds forced postponement of all six games. Northland did enjoy a 7-6 lead over the Sioux JV's before the game was stopped.

Northland is scheduled to host defending division champion Fergus Falls in a double-header on the Thief River Falls fairgrounds diamond Saturday. The Northland home opener is scheduled for a 1 p.m. start.

Prowlers Scheduled To Play Wednesday

Coach Ralph Skay's Lincoln high school baseball team will try to open its 1974 season schedule at home against Kennedy Wednesday at 4:30 p.m. on the Thief River Falls fairgrounds diamond.

The Prowlers were rained out of their scheduled season opener at Red Lake Falls Saturday in the second inning of a scoreless ball game on the Eagles' waterlogged diamond.

Because of the muddy conditions of the Thief River Falls diamond, Wednesday's Thief River Falls-Kennedy game is still "Very doubtful," according to Skay.

If the Wednesday game is played, Skay indicated his starting line-up would probably include Greg Sorenson behind the plate, Chris Biegner, first base; Duane Dicken, second base; Jon Peterson, third base; Cliff Shumway, shortstop; Jeff Lindquist, leftfield; Jeff Tunberg, centerfield; and Tim Erickson, rightfield.

The Prowlers are also scheduled to host Warren on Thursday in another 4:30 p.m. ball game. Thief River Falls will play at Newfolden Friday at 4:30.

Thief River Falls' schedule junior varsity baseball opener at Fertile this afternoon (Monday) has been canceled, with Tuesday's scheduled game at Karlstad listed in the doubtful class.

In his proclamation, the Governor called attention to Minnesota's 15,000 lakes, 25,000 miles of streams and rivers, fertile soils and forests, and said "the key to preserving and protecting our bountiful natural gifts is an informed and educated public."

On Fri., April 26, the department of natural resources will hold an open house in observance of Earth Week at the folloing locations:

Thief Lake management area; Bemidji regional office; Brainerd regional office and fish and wildlife station; Grand Rapids service center; Carlos Avery nursery and wildlife management area; St. Paul fish hatchery; Lanesboro fish hatchery; French River fish hatchery; Spiri Valley fish hatchery; Detroit Lakes fish hatchery; General Andrews tree nursery; Badora tree nursery; White water Wildlife management area; Lac qui Parle management area; Talcott Lake management area; Red Lake management area; Hubble Pond management area; and Mille Lacs management area.

On Saturday, April 27, visitors will be admitted without charge at Fort Snelling, Sakatah and Sibley state parks. Naturalists will be present and environmental education specialists will explain how schools can evaluate outdoor sites for instruction purposes.

DNR Donaldson Trout Program Receives Jolt

Department of natural resources and trout fishermen got a bad jolt over the week-end when an employee at the St. Paul hatchery making his rounds Easter Sunday morning found most of the DNR's highly bred and highly prized Donaldson rainbow trout dead in their fish tanks.

The accident occurred Saturday night when a circuit breaker apparently tripped, cutting the power to the pump supplying water to the trout tanks.

Ironically, an alarm system was due to be installed next week.

For five years the department has been selectively breeding the fast growing Donaldsons in order to provide larger trout for the angler.

Although about 6,000 fingerlings were saved, virtually all of the yearling size fish at the hatchery were lost and these had been counted on to provide the brook stock for the next year.

The department now has only 50 two year old Donaldson and 20 three year olds (at the Spire Valley hatchery in Cass county) in addition to 17 survivors at St. Paul.

Fisheries suppervisor Charles Burrows said the accident "has eliminated the Donaldson stocking for this year, set back the brood stock development by at least one year and cut short a research project on selection methods for genetic improvement of the Donaldson strain—with about 75 per cent of the project's objectives achieved."

DNR's Regional Boundaries Are Changed In State

Boundaries of the Minnesota department of natural resources administrative regions have been finalized, it was announced today, and a new metro region created comprising the seven county Twin Cities area.

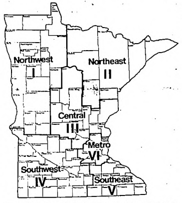
Robert Herbst, commissioner of natural resources, also announced that regional headquarters for the five regions previously established have been made permanent.

These headquarter sites had previously been labeled temporary.

The regions and their headquarter sites are as follows: Northwest, Bemidji; Northeast, Grand Rapids; Central, Brainerd; Southwest, New Ulm; and Southeast, Rochester.

A headquarter site for the new metro region has yet to be determined. Meanwhile the management of the region will be handled from the DNR main headquarters in the Centennial building, St. Paul. Herbst said a regional administrator for the metro region will be selected soon.

Included within the new metro region are the state parks of Ft. Snelling, Afton and William O'Brien; the St. Paul fish hatchery; most of the Carlos Avery wildlife area, game farm and forest nursery, and a small part of the Minnesota Memorial hardwood state forest.



NEW ADMINISTRATIVE boundaries were recently created by the Minnesota department of natural resources—outlined by the map shown here. New regional headquarters were also established, including Bemidji for the Northwest; Grand Rapids, Northeast; Brainerd, Central; New Ulm, Southwest; and Rochester, Southeast. A headquarter site for the metro region has yet to be determined.

Two Line Ice Fishing Is Made Legal In State

It is now legal to fish through the ice using two lines, the department of natural resources noted.

A bill authorizing the use of two lines for ice fishing was passed by the recent session of the legislature and signed into law by Governor Anderson on Fri., April 5.

The provision applies to all species of fish, the announcement said, and is not limited to panfish only.

Campanella To Help Fund Drive At Camp Courage

Roy Campanella, former Brooklyn Dodgers baseball star disabled as the result of an automobile accident, will help honor wheelchair athletes at a special program set for 8 p.m. Friday, April 26, at Courage Center, 3915 Golden Valley Road, Golden Valley. He will be the featured speaker at the program, part of the World of Courage Week at Courage Center, April 23-26.

Timothy Nugent, founder of the National Wheelchair Basketball Association, will bring background information to the program, and help salute the Twin City Rolling Gophers wheelchair basketball and track and field teams. Other guests from the sports world include Paul Giel, athletic director for the University of Minnesota, and Tom Ryther, sports announcer for KSTP-TV.

Campanella, whose story was recently depicted in a television show, is also helping Courage Center launch a fund drive for Courage Center Stage II, adding a residential wing to the existing rehabilitation facility.

As honorary chairman of the fund drive, he stated, "From experience I know the importance of special services to the traumatically injured and disabled, and I heartily endorse plans to complete Courage Center."

World of Courage Week has as its purpose to enrich the lives of the handicapped, by bringing the arts to Courage Center, and by saluting wheelchair sports. The special activities during the week will call attention to the wide variety of services available at Courage Center, as well as point out the need for a residential addition.

LHS Track Team Rained Out Of So. Fargo Meet

Coach Marv Walter's Lincoln high school track team was weathered out of Saturday's scheduled South Fargo invitational meet in the Fargo Stadium.

Originally scheduled to be an indoor meet in the North Dakota State University fieldhouse, the meet was changed to an outdoor competition in the Fargo Stadium. Two events were completed before rains washed out the meet with a girls invitational being conducted in the NDSU facility at the time.

Thief River Falls will close out its 1974 indoor track season schedule tomorrow (Tuesday) when the Prowlers compete in the Pirate indoor meet in the Crookston winter show building starting at 4 p.m.

Walter indicated plans are currently being made to schedule a triangular meet involving Thief River Falls, Detroit Lakes and International Falls to be held on the Thief River Falls track to compensate for the South Fargo cancellation.

Pool Schedule

Kits Available To Help Orioles Build New Nests

Baltimore orioles, beautiful orange-marked songbirds, can become residents of your yard this summer if you entice them with the nesting materials and food they like.

Bell museum of natural history on the University of Minnesota's Twin Cities campus again has oriole kits available to help you attract them to your area.

The kits contain a yard-long piece of sisal rope and a bit of cotton fluff used in oriole nest building.

Orioles make intricately woven nests—shaped like pouches and usually hung from branches—out of string, rope and other fibers. The nests are lined with soft materials, such as the fluff from milkweed, and are usually strong enough to withstand strong winds and weather.

According to Carl Johnson, assistant public education coordinator for the museum, the rope should be separated and left outside with the cotton down early in May. The male returns from his winter migration most commonly between May 10 and 24 to pick a nesting site. The female will follow in three or four days to weave the nest, while the male guards their territory.

The kit also contains two booklets on identifying birds of the Minneapolis-St. Paul region and attracting birds to the yard, and the oriole project book which includes nesting and feeding information, migration dates and a data sheet that can be returned to the museum.

The museum has collected data from persons who have used the oriole kits in the past years and sent in their observations.

It has been found, Johnson said, that some orioles have enjoyed marmalade, strawberry preserves, jello, bread and, in two reported cases, dog food. Oranges are preferred by the orioles, and some people have had good results by filling empty orange halves with fruit juices.

The orioles usually nest in elms, but also use poplars, oaks and maples. They use the rope included in the kit as well as other natural fibers in natural colors. The museum sends a warning, though: Never put out fishline or plastic line, as the birds can't break it and may become tangled, making the line a death trap.

Proceeds from the sale of the oriole kits, which cost one dollar, help support the museum's Touch and See Room, an area with mounted animals, furs, bones and feathers for people to observe by handling.

To obtain an oriole kit, send one dollar to Oriole Kit, Bell Museum of Natural History, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, MN 55455.

A PAIR of ducks jumped into flight when startled by a Times photographer Saturday. The ducks, apparently shovelers, were sitting in a flooded ditch northeast of Goodridge.

Late Smelt Run Is Predicted By Minnesota DNR

Smelt run on Minnesota's North Shore is likely to be late this year, the department of natural resources said today.

Heavy rains last week opened up streams but ice is still packed along the Lake Superior shore from Silver Bay to Duluth. North of Silver Bay the lake is open and observers said the run could begin earlier in this area than along the southern portion of the shore—contrary to the usual pattern.

Before fishermen begin "smelting", the DNR said they should be aware of the following regulations:

Smelt may be taken with dip nets or with seines not more than 25 feet in length or more than four feet in width. Seines may be used only in the lake, however, and not in the streams, nor within 100 feet of the mouth of any stream.

The only exception to this rule is the St. Louis river where seines may be used both in the stream and at its mouth.

It is unlawful to transport live smelt anywhere in the state. Smelt have been discovered in a few inland lakes in recent years—apparently a result of some illegal stocking. The DNR warned that in some lakes smelt could have an adverse effect on sport fishing.

Smelt fishermen must have an angling license, but there is no limit on the number of smelt which may be taken and they can be bought or sold at any time.

The law requires a peddler's license of anyone who uses a motor vehicle in his fish sale business.

The department of agriculture also insists that persons who sell smelt comply with the Minnesota pure food laws. Violations will lead to seizure of the fish and prosecution of the offender.

The DNR asked smelt fishermen to keep their fishing sites free of litter. State laws, explained on page five of the 1974 fishing synopsis, make it unlawful to deposit garbage, rubbish or offal in public waters or on public lands.

11,000 Acres Of "New" Cropland In Pennington

Nearly 1.2 million additional acres of Minnesota cropland will be in production this spring compared to 1973. Pennington county alone will have 11,000 acres of "new" land brought into production. In the state, 800,000 acres of this "new" land will come from lands that were in the "Set Aside" program last year.

"Set Aside" lands are those that had been taken out of production under federal programs to reduce crop surpluses. Such lands have played an important role in providing wildlife habitat in agricultural areas, reports Steve Wilson, district conservationist for the Pennington soil and water conservation district.

The remaining land will come from 239,000 acres of grassland and 37,000 acres of woodland converted to crop this year.

"Not only will this affect wildlife, but the loss through wind and water erosion will be great; 8,900,000 tons of top soil will be lost on the additional land," Wilson said.

Much of this new land is comprised of soils that need conservation practices. These practices, such as minimum tillage, crop rotation, erosion control structure and tree planing, help reduce erosion losses. This situation is described as "critical" for conservation, and it is a challenge to all people.

"With Earth Week set for April 21-28, we must be concerned for our soil and environment," Wilson said. "We all must assist the local people, such as the Pennington soil and water conservation district, in implementing measure to minimize soil loss. We must protect the land we live on and which produces the things we need for survival."

Senate Favors Public Holiday For Elections

U. S. Senate recently approved my amendment making the day on which federal general elections are held a legal public holiday, effective in 1976," states Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey.

"My amendment, co-sponsored by Senator Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) also would set election day on the first Wednesday after the first Monday in November.

"In my judgment this amendment would eliminate one of the major obstacles to greater voter participation in elections by assuring that millions of American working people are not deterred from exercising their franchise.

"It is discouraging to note that 51.2 million eligible Americans did not vote in the general election of 1972, according to the U.S. census bureau. This number represents 37 per cent of the voting-age population in the country at that time," he said.

"The President's promise of submitting legislation to provide an automatic cost of living adjustment in payments to the aged, blind and disabled beneficiaries of the supplemental security income program has yet to be fulfilled," the senator added.

"I have seen no sign of action on this proposal, since it was announced by the President. Therefore, this week I introduced legislation to accomplish this important purpose of protecting the purchasing power of SSI recipients from the income-reducing effects of inflation.

"Congress already has provided automatic cost of living adjustments for Social Security recipients. It is time we extended this income security feature to the estimated 5.1 million Americans who are expected to receive SSI benefits.

"My bill provides that the procedures, data and timing for determining cost of living adjustments for SSI beneficiaries will be the same as for social security recipients," he said.

"It also provides that cost of living adjustments could not be given SSI recipients in any year in which Congress has passed legislation authorizing an increase in basic payment levels for them, such as this year."

Polk County Man To Head NACE

Bernard L. Lieder, Polk county highway engineer, was the unopposed nominee for president of the national association of county highway engineers (NACE) at the 14th annual managment and research conference of the association in Orlando, Fla., February 20-22, according to Ramsey county engineer Deane Anklan, member of the nominating committee.

Among other things the program of the conference, developed by Lieder as NACE's first vice president, dealt with federal highway administration efforts to minimize red tape in the federal aid program for county highway improvements.

Participating in panel sessions, county engineers discussed innovative highway funding concepts and their role in relation to highways and the environment. More than 110 county highway engineers from all over the nation attended the conference.

NACE members will vote for officers nominated by mail ballot, and those elected will be installed at a meeting held in conjunction with the 39th annual conference of the National Associzton of Counties in Dade county, Florida, July 14-17.

Traffic Deaths Lead All Other Accident Rates

Traffic fatalities have increased more than 12 times faster than the United States population increase since they began to be counted in 1913, and relatively faster than any other category of accidental fatalities, a study by the Minnesota department of public safety indicates.

The study points out that an important factor in this regard is greatly increased travel, to 1,186 billion vehicle miles in 1970, approximately double the travel 16 years before.

While this increase was occurring, there was a decline in accidental deaths from all other causes, from 78,233 to 61,400 annually during this period. This decline took place in the face of a population increase from 92 million in 1910 to 203 million in 1970.

While the great increase in the use of motor vehicles was credited as a decisive factor in the positive increase in motor vehicle deaths, the study points out that there were similar factors in other accidental deaths, such as the increase in boating in connection with drownings and water transport deaths.

The study turned up some interesting and difficult-to-reconcile statistics, such as substantial fatality decreases (29.8 per cent and 37.6 per cent in traffic deaths in the years 1941-42 and 1942-43, followed by the largest percentage increase in recent times (29.9 per cent) in 1943-44. The decreases, of course, corresponded with the first two years of World War II when rationing was in effect, manufacture of new passenger vehicles has been suspended, and travel was down. The study does not theorize on the factors involved in the subsequent rise in traffic fatalities.

The study calculates that Minnesota has experienced an average annual increase of traffic deaths of 7.73 per cent since 1910, when 23 persons lost their lives, until 1973, when the toll was 1,024.

Goodridge Buses Pass Inspection

Of nine school buses checked by the state highway patrol at Goodridge public schools last week only one bus used as a spare was indicated to need repair, according to Justin Dahlen, bus foreman.

The spare bus needed a new windshield wiper blade, repair in the exhaust system and on a drag link, Dahlen said. All regular buses passed the test conducted twice a year by the state patrol.

CNC Unit Provides Skilled Nurse Care

(American Hospital Week will be observed beginning May 12 with the general theme this year being: "Get to Know Us Before You Need Us." In keeping with the theme, the Times today continues a series of articles to help acquaint the general public with regular procedures at Northwestern hospital in Thief River Falls.)

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Inside the exteriorly-impressive south wing of Northwestern hospital services a ~~team of workers labors daily to~~ provide skilled nursing care to primarily aged people in need of special assistance. Whenever possible the effort is directed at eventual discharge of the patient to a home situation or nursing home providing a lower level of skilled care.

Mrs. Margaret Torfin, R.N., is supervisor of the 90-bed unit which has patients ranging in age from 19 to 98, with the majority in the late 70's to the early 90's age range. About 10 per cent of the patients have paralysis requiring treatment as a result of strokes, a situation selected for review in this article.

"Quite frequently stroke patients can receive considerable assistance toward recovery through therapy programs," Mrs. Torfin said, "and it is in this area where we are quite often able to witness substantial progress. Our staff receives one hour per week of inservice training and recently has been trained in remotivation of patients by Oscar Elshaug of the hospital's day-night unit."

A patient who has suffered a stroke is generally admitted in an

All parks in the city will be closed to the public at 11 p.m. during the summer months, according to an announcement made today by Kenneth Froschheiser, acting chief of police for Thief River Falls. Persons in the parks after the 11 p.m. hour will be subject to apprehension and prosecution.

Horseback Riders Are Reminded Of Routes In City

With the warmer weather of recent days and reappearance of horseback riders in the community, the Thief River Falls police department has issued a reminder of routes in the city approved for riding horses to the county fairgrounds—the only area in the city in which horseback riding is allowed.

Riders coming to the city from the north on highway 32 may proceed to Eighth street, then go west on Eighth street to State avenue, south on State to Sixth street and west on Sixth to the fairgrounds.

Those entering from the east on highway 1 or from the north on Dewey avenue may proceed west on Eighth street to State avenue, then follow the route listed above. Those coming from west can reach the fairgrounds without entering the city.

Riders from Pennington avenue (airport road) may take Pennington to First street, First west to Brooks avenue, and Brooks north to the fairgrounds. Horsemen from highway 59 southeast of the city are to take Greenwood avenue west to Pennington avenue and then follow the route above. Riders from south on highway 32 are to go west on Greenwood and north on Brooks to the fairgrounds.

"We like to see youngsters enjoying themselves but are concerned for their safety and the orderly flow of vehicle traffic in the city," stated Kenneth Froschheiser, acting chief of police. "Respect of riders for the private property of others will help assure the channels of travel described here. Abuse of the privilege could lead to further curtailment of the use of horses in the city."

School Board Hears Reports On Monday

ART SHOW at the Lincoln senior high school cafeteria Saturday and Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. will include paintings as well as other art forms. Karen Lindquist, who painted the picture shown above, is pictured with Dale Miller in the school art room. Public is invited to the show, according to Don Lerud, art instructor, and coffee will be served.

Formation of a school-community service group will be a result of a combined meeting of school, county and city government bodies Monday evening at the Lincoln high school cafeteria.

City council, county board and school board met to review several suggested possibilities for development of property owned by the school district in the area of the area vocational-technical institute on highway 1 east of Thief River Falls. The school district has contracted for a site development survey on the property and information presented Monday evening was a result of that study.

Report on athletic activities in the district for boys and girls was presented by Russ smith, athletic director, and Mrs. Ruth Onkka, director of girls' athletics. The program for boys showed 2,009 boys involved in 12 sports or programs from elementary through high school with 69 coaches paid by the school district. The girls' program involved 797 students from elementary through high school in 11 programs with 41 coaching positions paid for by the school district.

The detailed report showed participation in school district and other programs in the community, involvement of other than school personnel, practice time and number of games or meets in which students participate.

At the school board meeting following the report session, chairman Curtis L. Charlson appointed vice chairman Wallace Sparby and superintendent Dr. William Corliss to represent the district on the school-community service group. Representatives are also to be named by the city council and county board.

The board accepted resignations from Lenora Johnson, elementary teacher at St. Hilaire, and Ruby Beauchamp, cafeteria worker. Extra-curricular assignments for the 1974-75 school year were approved for Kenneth Moen, 10th grade class advisor, and James Kotz, speech and Lincoln Log.

Authorization was given the administration to budget additional federal funds under Title III ($3,144.30 for audio-visual equipment) and Title I ($20,894 for summer school) and to expend the amounts to be received.

Jorgenson Electric company was awarded the electrical contract for the AVTI carpentry class house project with a bid of $1,665.

The board entered into an

3,000 Sign Co. Seat Petition In Marshall County

With approximately 3,000 signatures in hand on petitions for a county vote to move the Marshall county courthouse from Warren to Newfolden, members of the Marshall county improvement association carried their concentrated campaign into the western part of the county Tuesday, according to Robert Fincher, chairman of the association.

Fincher told the Times last night that he was expecting reports from the 14 workers who were seeking signatures in the western part of the county that day, but that a general report session had been scheduled for tonight (Wednesday) at 8:30 p.m. at the Newfolden village hall. The meeting is open to all who are interested in attending.

Target date for obtaining more than the required minimum of 3,838 signatures remains April 29—last day of the 20-day period during which the Marshall county board of commissioners agreed to take no further action on the proposed law enforcement center at Warren. April 29 is not a mandatory completion date for the petitioning, Fincher affirmed, but the association hopes to reach its goal within that time to further indicate to the county board the interest of county citizens in a vote on county seat location.

The chairman noted that several eastern townships were near 100 per cent in signatures of eligible signers on the petitions. He added that several members of the Viking village council—who were listed on a resolution favoring retention of Warren as the county seat—had also signed the petition asking for a vote.

"I don't consider these actions to be inconsistent," Fincher told the Times. "The council mem-

H. S. Williams Feted On Their 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. H.S. Williams were honored on their 50th wedding anniversary at an open house held recently at the Silver Creek Lutheran church.

The event was hosted by the couple's two daughters and their families: Mr. and Mrs. Bernard (Lucille) Myers of Thief River Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Percy (Doris) Hagen of Wadena. Approximately 250 guests were in attendance. Included were neighbors, friends and relatives from the Thief River Falls area, Newfolden, Ada, Anoka, Wadena and Warroad. Among them was Williams' brother, Clarence, who served as best man at the wedding 50 years ago. He together with his wife, and the honored couple were presented with corsages and corresponding boutonnieres.

The observance began with a program planned by Mrs. Doris Kaushagen, sister-in-law of the couple, and Mrs. Eddy Anderson, a friend. Dean Kaushagen, a nephew, served as master of ceremonies and Jay Borchert gave the devotions. The program, based on the theme, "Love," began with the assembled guests singing "Love, Love, Love," and the Sunday school children singing, "Isn't the Love of God Something Wonderful." Melodee Rupprecht served as accompanist. Greetings and a gift were presented by the great-grandchildren: Cindy, Candy and Craig Pladson. Alfred Solem, representing the Steiner Community Club, gave an account of that chapter in the couple's life; Mrs. Percy Hagen reminisced of happenings years ago; Shari Alby, a member of Mrs. Williams seventh grade confirmation class, read the poem, "This is one day really special;" Yvonne Philipp, president of the ALCW, extended greetings from that group and read an original poem; Ethel Nelson, a long-time neighbor, read the poem, "Friendship is a priceless gift," and John Lubitz, representing the Silver Creek congregation, extended best wishes and presented the couple with a basket of gifts.

Vocal selections were presented by Mrs. Donald Rupprecht, who sang, "Together Life's Pathway We Tread," accompanied by Mrs. David Swartz; and nieces of the couple: Judy Oson and Kristi Kaushagen, sang "Precious Memories." The program concluded with the couple expressing appreciation to all friends and relatives for making their anniversary such a memorable occasion and the assembled guests singing "On Our Way Rejoicing". The Benediction and the Lord's Prayer preceded the reception.

Gold and white streamers and white wedding bells graced the parish hall for the reception. Centering the serving table was a four-tiered anniversary cake, a gift from the ALCW. The cake, baked and decorated by Margaret Rupprecht, a friend of the couple, was trimmed in gold and topped with a 50th anniversary emblem. Between the pillars that supported the two upper tiers was a picture of the couple taken on their 25th anniversary. On either side of the cake were gold tapers and vases filled with gold carnations.

The couple's daughters cut and served the cake as Mrs. Clarence Williams and Mrs. Gordon Kaushagen poured. Waitresses were Mrs. Craig Pladson, a granddaughter, and Sheri Alby, a friend. Grandchildren Eldon Myers and Keith Hagen served the punch. Jerald and Daryl Myers served as ushers and Joel Hagen presided at the guest book. Gregg Hagen helped serve coffee to the guests and Paul Hagen and Cindy Pladson distributed the "thank-you" notes. ALCW women assisted with the serving.

To mark the anniversary, the Williams also received long distance phone calls and greetings from Kalispel, Harlem and Lewiston, Mont., Anchorage, Alaska; and Anoka.

At the morning worship service, Mrs. Williams was honored when the Sunday school children presented her with a flower for her years as Sunday school teacher.

Officers Elected At District WMF Rally Of AFLC

Mrs. Roger Berg of Wannaska was elected president of the Association of Free Lutheran Congregations of Northern Minnesota district Women's Missionary Federation at a rally held recently at the United Luthean church at Greenbush. She succeeds Mrs. Emanuel Seidel of Badger, who presided at the one-day rally.

Other officers elected were Rebecca E. Anderson, Badger, secretary, who replaced Mrs. Clara Nelson of Karlstad; and Mrs. Bernard Dalager of Wannaska, who will serve as district cradle roll secretary. Hold-over officers are Mrs. Ingvald Rokke of Strandquist, vicepresident; and Mrs. Norris Fugleberg of Badger, treasurer.

The theme of the rally was "The King is coming," based on Matt. 24:44, "Therefore be ye also ready: for in such an hour as ye think not, the Son of man cometh." The them song was "What a Day that will be."

Art Grimstad of Thief River Falls led the morning Bible study on Titus 2:11-14. He stressed "living soberly, righteously and godly in this present world." The afternoon Bible study leader was Rev. Clarence Haaland of Gonvick. Based on the rally theme and especially the theme verse he stated that "the signs of the coming of Christ are given in the Bible from Genesis through Revalations. In moments of busyness, Christ will come and be gone." He concluded by saying, "The Bibile says, ' be ye ready' and not to get ready. There will be no time to get ready when the trumpet sounds."

Of special interest to the group was the report on the AFLC Brazilian mission field given by the executive secretary of the AFLC Judith Wold of Thief River Falls, who recently toured the fields.

Mrs. Ben Danielson of Roseau led the morning devotional session and Mrs. Roger Berg of Wannaska, the afternoon devotional. Mrs. Larry Wold of Salol and Mrs. Daryl Haugen of Strandquist were the soloists. Mrs. Gerald Berg of Greenbush led the group singing, and Miss Heather Sundby of Greenbush served as pianist. A trio composed of Mrs. Dallas Erickson of Greenbush and Mrs. Rocky McFarlane and Kerri Erickson of Badger provided music at the morning session, and a rally choir sang at the afternoon devotional. Rev. Gerald Mundfrom of Grafton, N.D., was in charge of the book nook and Rev. Karl Stendal, interim pastor of the United Free Luthean church, gave the closing devotions. The noon meal was served by the United Free Ladies.

Variety Of Events Noted By Oakland Park Residents

Easter, birthdays, Sunday dinners, and a graduation party highlighted the April activities at Oakland Park nursing home. To usher in the Easter season, Rev. Roy Malde, pastor at Trinity Lutheran church, and Rev. John F. Marsh of St. Bernard's, visited the home and gave communion to the residents.

Also in preparation for Easter, Tammy Thrane, eight-year-old, visited the home and gave sugar-loaf cross favors to all the residents on first floor. Favors were also brought by members of the American Legion junior auxiliary of Middle River. The girls presented a brief program and also visited with the residents in their rooms. Participating in the project were Betsy Abrahamson, Brenda Abrahamson, Diane Black, Cindy Black, Wanda Johnson, Kim Skoglund, Nadine Hemp and Becky Jesme. They were accompanied by their leader, Mrs. Arne Tuura.

Decorations in keeping with the Easter season were provided by Miss Kathy Nelson's first graders at Knox school, who brought an "Egg tree" for their adopted grandparents.

The monthly birthday party was hosted on April 16 with the Rebecca circle of Zion Lutheran church as host. Chairman Mrs. Merle Lindberg was in charge of the games. Lunch served featured buns and cream puffs.

Residents, whose birthdays were noted, were Alida Pederson, Jennie Olson, Ed Erickson, George W. Johnson and Edwin Holum.

Two of the residents were honored later in the month at private birthday parties. George W. Johnson was feted at a coffee party with his sister, Mrs. Nettie Dahlstrom of St. Hilaire and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mexell of Maryland, as guests. Honoring Mrs. Jennie Olson at a birthday party were her sisters-in-law, Mrs. Hilda Borg Olson and Mrs. Martha Olson, and a niece, Mrs. Helmer Pearson, all of Alvarado. They brought a birthday cake in observance of the event.

Three of the residents have been hosts at private Sunday dinners during the month. On April 7, Ed Erickson was host at a dinner with Mr. and Mrs. James Erickson of St. Hilaire as his guests. The following Sunday, Charlie Hanson had as his guests Mr. and Mrs. Art Lofberg, Neil Lofberg and Denise Swedenberg. On Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Nomeland of Grygla were Gustav Pete Hanson's guests.

Tuesday the Altar guild of Trinity Lutheran church with Mrs. Hilda Wennberg in charge, visited with the residents and served sweet breads and coffee. Mrs. Emil Sanders entertained the residents by playing several piano selections.

The residents, as well as the staff, were treated to cake at the graduation party of the remotivation class instructed by Oscar Elshaug of the Day-Night unit at Northwestern hospital. Following the awarding of pins that concluded 10 two-hour sessions, the graduation cake was served by Myrtle Marks, the inservice director at the home. Decorating the cake was a turtle, a symbol of the home's motto, "Make Haste Slowly."

NW Bell Applies For Increase In Rates

Northwestern Bell Telephone company has applied to the Minnesota Public Service commission (PSC) for rate increases on most services the company provides in Minnesota, designed to supply $56.7 million in additional yearly revenue.

Bruce G. Schwartz, chief executive officer, said the increases were "urgently required if we are to continue providing the facilities to serve the rapidly growing communications demands of our Minnesota customers."

The new telephone rates proposed would increase basic one-party local residential service in Thief River Falls from $5.40 to $6.55 per month, and would hike coin phone rates for the first time in 23 years, from a dime to 20 cents. This reflects the increase in costs of coin service since the last change in 1951, Schwartz said.

Schwartz said $24 million of the revenue produced by the increases would be left for company operations after paying $32 million in federal and state taxes on the added income.

President rates, approved by the PSC in January of 1972, were "developed on the basis of the costs of providing phone service in late 1970 and early 1971," he pointed out. "Skyrocketing costs since that time have affected us the same as everyone else.

"As a result, the rate of return on Northwestern Bell's Minnesota property dropped to six per cent in 1973 and, at present rate levels, would fall to 5.5 per cent in 1974. This is perilously below the 7.5 per cent level authorized by the public service commission and now affirmed by the Supreme Court. This decreasing return jeopardizes the company's ability to provide good service in the face of heavily increasing demand.

"In fact, the 7.5 per cent return, which was allowed on the basis of 1970-71 costs, is far short of current requirements. To justify the capital financing needed to pay for new facilities in today's economy requires that we need to earn at a level of at least 8.5 per cent.

"Taxes, wages, equipment and construction costs all have soared since the 1970-71 test year on which our present rates are based. The $34 million rate increase over 26 months ago—lowered to $33 million last month—was used up before it was granted, through tax and wage increases occuring after the 1970-71 test year but before the January 1972 rate order.

"In the past three years, our total investment for each main telephone has grown from $913 to $1,139. The cost of the company's outstanding debt is also rising rapidly. The cost of borrowed money passed 8.7 per cent on the most recent Bell system bond issue, and the prime interest rate on bank lending has risen to 10 per cent."

"The coin phone itself cost $34 then," he added. "Today, the equivalent phone costs $216.60, not including installation, costs for the phone booth, etc."

The current single lump-sum charge for installation, moves or changes in service would be altered under the plan to a three-part system more closely aligning these charges with the work done and costs of providing the service.

Effect of the proposed increases, averaging about 21 per cent, would vary for customers depending on individual service options.

Most long distance calls would increase by about 12 per cent. Charges for the initial calling periods of the Gopher State Bargain Rate would go up from $1.30 to $1.45. Calls to other states would not be affected.

The company also asked the PSC to authorize interim rate relief sufficient to bring its earnings up to the previously authorized 7.5 per cent level. This would amount to $28.7 million of the $56.7 million total, and would be effective during the period in which the remainder of the request was being investigated by the Commission.

"I cannot emphasize enough the urgency of this request," Schwartz declared. "Our 1974 construction program has already been reduced because of the uncertainties of our revenue situation. We still plan to spend $194 million this year, but we can do that only if rate relief is obtained promptly.

"We intend to keep providing high quality telephone service in Minnesota, but in working to do so, we face some key decisions. There are buildings to build, telephone cables to bury, trucks to buy and many other decisions requiring extensive investments. These require hiring, more people, as well. Current revenues will not support the forecast level of activity necessary to meet customers' demands adequately."

The interim relief required, Schwartz said, would amount to about 12 per cent across-the-board on nearly all services provided by the company in Minnesota.

The company asked the PSC to schedule immediate hearings on the request for interim relief, and to place those rates in effect while the rest of its case is considered. The interim rates would then be subject to refund with interest if they were not finally approved by the commission.

agreement with Northwestern hospital for the 1974-75 practical nursing program for the area vocational-technical institute. Rev. Paul Biegner was reappointed to the professional growth committee for the 1974-75 school year.

Authorization was given for district payment of a national certification test fee of $50 each for auto mechanics instructors Ray Olson, Dunne Brown, Don Hermanson and Alvin Aaseby.

Bernard Buchholz, supervisor of transportation, reported that he was purchasing a fuel additive for the school bus fleet which would save an estimated $1,618 in gasoline costs for the next school year. Tests on school district buses showed a six per cent reduction in gasoline consumption with the additive. The district uses about 100,000 gallons of gasoline per year.

Agreement was given by the board to granting of an easement of 10 feet along the east boundary of Lot 3, Block 1 of Arthur's second addition upon notification by the city engineer that such easement meets all building specifications and upon evidence that all legal fees concerned have been paid.

library card is returned at the same time.

Miss Croteau also announced that a special federal grant of $45,000 will be received this year to strengthen the resources of all the library facilities. This includes the central library, bookmobile and the branches in Red Lake Falls, Warren, Greenbush, Roseau and Warroad.

This money will be used with $58,000 in state aid funds to strengthen and expand existing services; to purchase bibliographic, indexing and reference materials; to provide audio-visual services and equipment to all agencies of the library; and to purchase other equipment.

Among the specific purchases, which will be announced in more detail when they are received and available for use, are the acquisition of microfilm prints of various Thief River Falls newspapers from 1895 to date, a substantial collection of phonograph records and cassettes to supplement the small collection available now, and additional periodicals, 8 mm films and 16 mm films.

In addition to the federal and state funds, the regional library also receies approximately $62,000 in local funds from participating governmental units.

bers may prefer the Warren site and still believe the residents of the county have a right to vote for their preference. That's all our petition asks for—the chance to vote."

He added that his association was disappointed in the attempt by the Marshall county courthouse committee to prevent having the question brought to a vote. The committee had discouraged county residents from signing the petitions which would—if 3,838 or more signatures are obtained—mandate the county commissioners to call a special election on the courthouse location.

Hospital CNC Unit Provides Nursing Care

unconscious state to the medical floor of the hospital. In two weeks to a month's time, depending on severity of the ailment, the patient's condition is stabilized and he or she is transferred to the convalescent and nursing care (CNC) unit.

The move is a financially beneficial one for the patient since the daily room rate of $21.50 in the CNC unit is less than the rate in the acute unit of the hospital. Patients are charged for medications and therapy treatments with the exception of occupational therapy which is included in the daily rate. The CNC unit currently has 23 private pay patients with the remainder receiving medical assistance from the county social services department.

As the stroke patient recovers, physiotherapy is initiated into the daily program. Muscle-strengthening exercises are given and gait training (walking) is emphasized where possible. Occupational therapy, while often diversional, helps to strengthen muscles and maintain patient interest.

Therapy given is prescribed by the patient's physician with consultation from the physical therapist. The latter initiates the gait training program which is also carried on at the floor level within the unit in addition to the therapy department. Whirlpool and other therapeutic equipment is also available to assist in recovery.

"We try to make people as independent of others as we can," Mrs. Torfin said. "Our staff must constantly be on the alert not to give assistance where and when assistance is not needed. We must learn to recognize capabilities of the patients and determine their potential by observation. If we are accused of withholding help, it is because we intentionally hold back to allow the patient to gain independence. The easy way would be to do it ourselves."

The CNC unit ties in with nearly all hospital services necessary for hospital operation—physical therapy, occupational therapy, pharmacy, laundry, dietary, housekeeping, physicians, day-night unit, several levels of nursing, ambulance and others.

Many phases of the community have taken an interest in people in the CNC unit, Mrs. Torfin said. Candystriper volunteers assist in feeding and visiting with patients. The Catholic Daughters have taken on the task of doing personal mending of clothes for the patients. Church groups make regular visits, including one group of ladies which has provided a number of lap robes and other items. Clergymen call at the unit often.

A recent project is the Community Action Program initiated through the social studies course at Lincoln high school where students visit with patients at the unit. Visits from young people are usually greatly appreciated by CNC residents.

"With a total effort and cooperation by physicians, staff and community we hope to make life more comfortable and enjoyable for the people we serve," Mrs. Torfin said.

Pvt. Craig Kruse Completes Army Basic Training

Private Craig A. Kruse, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kruse Jr., St. Hilaire, recently completed the first phase of training under the modern volunteer army program at Ft. Ord, Calif.

The program combines basic and advanced individual training (AIT) into an average 16-week program, depending on the AIT the soldier receives after completing basic. Decentralized instruction at the unit level and a reduction of formations and inspections give the soldier more time to train and increased off-duty time. Fewer restrictions on off-duty travel and improved living facilities are other benefits of the program.

Rev. Wurmbrand Will Speak At LHS Auditorium

Rev. Richard Wurmbrand, a Romanian Lutheran minister who was held as a communist prisoner for 14 years, will be speaking at the Lincoln high school auditorium Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

Wurmbrand, a Chirstian leader, author and educator, taught Old Testament history in the seminary in Bucharest before the Communist takeover. In 1945, following the Communist seizure of Romania, Wurmbrand began a secret "underground" ministry to captive Romanians and to Soviet soldiers in the invasion force.

Arrested in 1948, he was committed to prison where, according to his testimony before the U.S. internal security subcommittee in May, 1966, he served three years in solitary confinement and five additional years in "mass" cells, during which time he was subjected to medieval tortures. As proof of these tortures, he bared his body above the waist, where committee members viewed more than a dozen of his Communist-inflicted scars.

His wife, Sabina Wurmbrand, was also arrested in 1948 and separately imprisoned for three years, during which time she served as a slave laborer on the never-completed Danube canal.

Following his 1957 release, Wurmbrand resumed his underground work. Arrested again in 1959, he was sentenced to 25 years in prison. A general amnesty in 1964 brought his release and resumption of his underground work. Finally, in 1965, in great danger of a third arrest and imprisonment, he was "ransomed" out of Romania by Christian friends in Norway, who paid $10,000 to the Romanian Communist authorities for his release.

In the United States, Wurmbrand is pursuing his support of the underground church activities, which are being continued vigorously in Communist countries.

Translated into 29 languages, Wurmbrand's books are best sellers in many countries.

The public is cordially invited to hear Rev. Wurmbrand's message.

LHS To Present Two-Act Comedy

"The Mouse That Roared" is a satire featuring a small, mythical European nation, Grand Fenwick. The country is on the verge of economic collapse because an American company has started manufacturing a cheap imitation of the nation's only export, Pinot Grand Fenwick wine.

The intolerable situation prompts the country's leaders (all three of them) to declare war on the United States and their army sails (via commercial passenger service) to launch an attack with bows and arrows. Arriving during a civil defense exercise, the Grand Fenwick army captures four prisoners including a general and a scientist with his newest discovery. This latest invention of Professor Kokintz, the "Q" bomb, is the "ultimate weapon" and shifts the balance of power to the little duchy.

TCD Committee Lists Possible New Priorities

Total Community Development (TCD) committee of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce met Thursday at 7:45 a.m. at the Rex cafe to discuss potential priorities for community consideration. Gene Belto is committee chairman.

Belto reviewed how the committee had evolved from a community effort in 1965 which involved hundreds of community citizens in establishing a system of priorities for action. Some of the priorities established at that time have been accomplished, he said, some of the problems have changed and perhaps additional priorities or rearrangement of priorities is necessary.

Among potential new priorities to be considered were future site development for the public schools, outdoor swimming pool, downtown parking, traffic control at First street and highway 59 intersection, retention of state ownership of the airport and need to keep informed on workings of the regional development commission.

Members of the committee, which meets on the third Thursday of each month at 7:15 a.m., include the following: Gene Belto, chairman, Norman Peterson, Dr. William Corliss, Wallace Sparby, Vic Kalinoski, Jerry Wedul, Norris Melander, Marvin Lundin, Morris Owen, Edgar Naplin, Gerald Wigness, Roger Worth and Albert Koop; Also Don Knutson, Vern Isaacson, Dr. Arnold Berg, Victor Charles, Arnt Aune, J. J. Womack, Merle Lindberg, Mark Larson, John Penn, Dr. A. E. Jacobson, art Heinze, Terry Courneya, Bob Carlson, Si Hanson, Annette Bergan and Gayle Walter.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

Just a reminder about a letter that I wrote to the Times about a year ago, in case you have forgotten it. Here are the words I wrote in 1973:

Here back in months of January and February 1973, the talk was out about fuel oil shortage: Then the price went up a few cents a gallon; doesn't sound like any more fuel oil shortage now does it?

Nowadays it sounds like a meat shortage. But just wait until they screw the price upward sky high. Then they will tell you this: "Eat plenty of meat because the meat supply is plentiful."

Suppose next will be gas shortage coming up, so they can shoot the price upward to about 50 cents a gallon. After that happens, then they will say to you: "Why don't you drive more, because the gas supply too is plentiful?"

That is about exactly the words I wrote in my 1973 letter to the Times about one year ago, and all of those words have now been fulfilled. Why did I know then, what they would do or say to you? Because I have learned myself a long, long time ago to know them all! Have you?

Sincerely,
Tom Stolaas

Computer School Held Here For Area Teachers

A computer-in-the-classroom workshop for MECC region one is being held for area teachers in Thief River Falls Tuesday through Friday from 9 to 5 p.m. daily under the sponsorship of the Minnesota educational computing consortium (MECC), Minnesota department of education and Northland community college.

Northwestern hospital is cooperating in this regional workshop by providing its chapel area as the classroom for instruction. Trainers for the four-day workshop are Jack Kramer, Northland community college; Ken Massey, Bemidji state college; and Linda Borrey, from Total Information Educational systems, a metropolitan time-sharing computer network.

Minnesota educational computing consortium (MECC) is conducting these workshops as part of the new statewide effort to provide all elementary, secondary and vocational schools access to educational timesharing. The entire effort, including computer hardware, software, communications and services such as this workshop, is being subsidized by an appropriation from the state legislature for the 1973-75 biennium.

Objectives of the computer workshop are to provide teachers with an overview of how a computer can be used in the schools; to provide teachers with a minimum operational skill in handling a computer terminal; to work through selected activities of computer applications; to obtain a minimal skill in programming competency in the BASIC language; to provide information on how to assemble and present an effective proposal for computer equipment and support activities and to provide information about MECC.

Thief River Falls was chosen as one of the statewide workshop sites primarily because of the efforts of Jack Kramer, Northland college computer science instructor. According to Kramer, 25 area teachers will be participating in the workshop.

Lincoln high school athletic stand-out Tony Dorn was on hand at a giant luncheon in the Twin Cities Friday honoring the NCAA national champion University of Minnesota hockey team.

Dorn, who signed tenders a week ago to play hockey at Minnesota, along with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Dorn, were guests of Gopher coach Herb Brooks at the event.

Dorn was present when his friend Robby Harris of Roseau was named by Brooks as team captain of the 1974-75 Gopher squad. Robby and his brother John were big influences on Dorn's decision to attend Minnesota rather than another WCHA school, Dorn admitted earlier.

The family of Brad Shelstad, the Gopher goalie and out-going captain, entertained the Dorn family after the luncheon, showing films of the Gophers' NCAA championship game win over Michigan Tech. Shelstad, incidently, was named the NCAA tournament's most valuable player.

One-time Thief River Falls hockey star Marv Jorde directed his St. Paul Kostka Electric hockey team to its second straight national senior intermediate U.S. championship earlier this month.

Jorde, player-coach of the Kostka club, scored four goals and added 10 assists in four national tournament games played April 5-7 at Fond Du Lac, Wisconsin, as the Kostka team pounded out successive wins over St. Claire Shores, Michigan, 10-5; Chicago 17-2; Fond Du Lac 10-2 and Eagle River, Wisconsin, 10-0.

The national championship, the first time in the history of the AHAUS that a team has two intermediate titles in a row, completed Kostka's best season in its long history. Kostka finished with a 27-2-3 record, winning the St. Paul senior suburban league championship, the league play-off championship and the national title.

Rudy A. Mehlhoff of Thief River Falls recorded a hole in one Thurs., April 11, while golfing on the Rolling Hills golf course in Tucson, Arizona.

The long time Thief River Falls resident, who returned home today (Wednesday), aced the course's 148 yard fifth hold with a seven iron, an event witnessed by Mr. and Mrs. Townsend of Clinton, Iowa.

Naturally excited about the accomplishment, Mehloff noted, "It was the first one in my life; if it takes that long for my next one I'll be 130 years old.

Les Drechsel of Crookston, whose team had an 8-1 record and tied for the 1973 Northwest Conference football title with Fergus Falls last fall, has been named football coach of the year in region eight.

Drechsel's honor will allow the Pirate head coach to be among the coaching staff members of the north squad in the first annual Shrine high school all-star football game to be played July 27 in the University of Minnesota Memorial stadium in Minneapolis. The game will feature 1974 Minnesota high school graduates.

Drechsel has turned the Crookston football program in his three years there; posting a 21-5-1 record since he took over in 1971. He guided Ada to an 80-19-7 mark in 12 years before taking over the Crookston post.

Crookston & Walker Squads Win Pirate Track Titles

Crookston and Walker, two teams expected to battle head to head for this year's coveted region eight championship, captured first place team honors in Tuesday's 11th annual running of the Pirate indoor track meet in the Crookston winter show building.

Host Crookston swept first places in 10 of the 14 events to easily win the class A portion of the meet while Walker outclassed 16 other class B schools to win the small school competition in impressive fashion.

Crookston finished with 81 points, followed by Thief River Falls with 44 and East Grand Forks with 20 in the three team class A competition.

Walkers topped the class B charts with 63 points, followed by Ada with 35, Fertile 28, Mahnomen 24½, Stephen 23, Fosston and Borup 13 each, Halstad 9, Hallock 7, Gary 5, Hendrum 1½ and Newfolden and Twin Valley 1 each. Climax, Erskine Goodridge and Karlstad failed to score in the class B division.

Coach Marv Walter's youthful Thief River Falls thinclads closed out their 1974 indoor season with their strongest effort of the current spring campaign. Although virtually conceding any head to head confrontations with the powerful Pirates this season, the still inexperienced Prowlers have shown continued improvement this spring, capped by yesterday's three first place effort.

Premiere junior hurdler Jerry Sandahl continued his productive season by winning both the 70 yard high and low hurdle events and senior Brian Phelps captured a first in the grueling mile run.

Sandahl won the highs in 9.6 and added a first in the lows with a meet record 8.6 clocking. Phelps was timed in 4:51.2.

Sandahl matched Crookston's speedy Don Moore as the only class A double event winners. Moore won both the 70 and 220 yard dashes.

Thief River Falls picked up five second place finishes, including Joel Sorvig, low hurdles; Jeff Johnson, long jump; the 760 relay team of Jim Elleson, Tom Barry, Greg McEwen and Tim Carlson; the medley relay team of Sandahl, Sorvig, Jeff Houfek and Phelps; and the mile relay unit of Dave Cork, Dick Johnson, Mike Burstad and Carlson.

Prowlers third places included Elleson, 70; Houfek, 440; Cork, 880; Sorvig, high hurdles; and Tony Dorn, shot put. Point scoring Prowler fourth places included Barry, 70 and 220; Houfek, high jump; and Jeff Johnson, long jump. Thief River Falls fifth places included Dan Heleren, mile; Jeff Hendickson, high and low hurdles; and Mark Haroldson, pole vault.

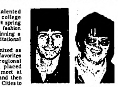
NCC Golfers Win Pair Of Invitational Titles

Coach Al Adams' talented Northland community college golf team opened its 1974 spring season in impressive fashion earlier this week by winning a pair of back to back invitational meet titles.

The Northmen, recognized as one of the pre-season favorites for both state and regional championship honors, placed first in a three team meet at Fergus Falls Monday and then hurried down to the Twin Cities to win the prestigious 13 team Anoka-Ramsey invitational title Tuesday.

Northland's next scheduled appearance will be Wed., May 1, when the Northmen host their own Northland invitational on the Thief River Falls golf club course.

Despite cold windy conditions, Northland golfers registered the four lowest scores during Monday's season opening meet at Fergus Falls. Sophomore Lee Sorensen captured medalist honors with an 83, followed in order by teammates Jim Strandemo 85, Mark Metusalem 88 and Jay Moum 89.



Sorensen Moum

The four low Northland scores totaled 345; 31 strokes better than second place Fergus Falls with a 376. Crookston Tech completed the day's match with a 475.

Other Northland golfers included Dick Penning with a 92 and Dave Kjos with a 93. Kirk Whalley also golfed for Northland, but dropped out of the competition.

Moum, another Northland sophomore, claimed first place medalist honors in the Anoka-Ramsey invitational on Tuesday as he took advantage of the favorable weather conditions to card a 73.

Sorensen shot a 77 to tie Mark Peterson of Mesabi and Lee Maamum of Willmar for the second medalist honors while Penning recorded a 79 to tie Tim Froge of Rochester for the day's fifth lowest score.

Northland's three places among the meet's six lowest scores enabled the Northmen to win the team title with a 309 stroke total, 17 strokes in front of second place and defending region champion Rochester with a 326. Willmar finished third with a 336, Mesabi was fourth at 339 and Vermilion was fifth at 352.

Other Northland scores from Tuesday's meet in Anoka found Metusalem shooting an 80, Strandemo 82, Kjos 85 and Whalley 86.

Adams, extremely pleased with his team's season opening performances noted, "The kids did very well for our first competition, it looks very promising for us this year."

Adams was particularly satisfied with Tuesday's Northland showing since the Anoka-Ramsey meet was held on the Bunker Hills golf course in Anoka—the site of this year's state and regional meets. "I think our performances gave a good indication of what we can do this year. It's still early though, so the kids should still continue to improve and do better as we go along."

Two Prowler Home Games Postponed

Lincoln high school baseball team, already rained out of its 1974 season opener at Red Lake Falls Saturday, was handed another set-back Tuesday when soggy conditions of the Thief River Falls fairgrounds diamond forced postponement of the Prowler home opener against Kennedy that was scheduled to be played today (Wednesday) at 4:30.

Thursday's Thief River Falls-Warren game scheduled to be played on the Thief River Falls diamond has also been canceled, according to Lincoln high school athletic director Russ Smith. Plans are currently underway, however, to try changing the site of tomorrow's game to the Warren field for a 4:30 p.m. game if the Ponies' ball park can be made playable.

The Prowlers are also scheduled to play at Newfolden on Friday in another 4:30 p.m. contest.

According to the present schedule, the Prowlers won't play at home until Fri., May 10, when the squad will host Breckenridge in a double-header at 4 and 6 p.m.

Thief River Falls will be on the road Tues., April 30, when the Prowlers play a split double-header at Warroad at 2 p.m. and at Roseau at 4:30. The Prowlers will play a twin-bill at Bemidji on Fri., May 3, before coming home to play Breckenridge.

The rest of the current Prowler schedule will find Thief River Falls playing at home Mon., May 13, against Roseau; and on Tuesday, May 14, a double-header against Crookston.

Other Thief River Falls road games include Fri., May 17, a double-header at Fergus Falls; and Tues., May 21, a double-header at Red Lake Falls.

Lincoln Golfers Open Saturday

Lincoln high school golf team, coached by Jack Boyer, will open its 1974 spring season schedule Saturday when the Prowlers travel to Fergus Falls for an invitational meet starting at 9:30 a.m. on the Fergus Falls golf course.

The defending district 31 champion Prowlers boast plenty of experienced talented golfers this spring, prompting Boyer to say, "We're going to be contenders," more than once in any conversation concerning his current squad.

Only Dick Penning, currently a member of the strong Northland community college golf squad, was lost through graduation off last year's championship caliber Prowler squad.

"With a little luck we should have a shot at winning it this year," said Boyer. "It" means the coveted region eight championship, pointed out the Prowler coach who scoffed at the mention of the district 31 tournament by saying, "Of course we'll win that."

"Roseau and Bemidji will be strong again," pointed out Boyer, "but if we play half-way decent we'll be right in there with a good chance to win."

The 11 regular season Thief River Falls invitational tournament appearances will include one home course meet, scheduled to be held Tues., May 21. Thief River Falls will also host the 1974 district 31 tournament on Fri., May 24.

The rest of the Prowler regular season schedule includes invitational meets slated Tues., April 30, at Bagley; Fri., May 3, at Fargo; Sat., May 4, at Mahnomen; Tues., May 7, at Fosston; Thurs., May 9, the NWAC meet at East Grand Forks; Fri., May 10, at Grand Forks; Sat., May 11, at Breckenridge; Tues., May 14 at Detroit Lakes; and Fri., May 17, at Bemidji.

The 1974 region eight tournament will be held at Walker on Fri., May 31.

Other Franklin seventh grade first places included Mark Molstre, 570; Jeff Oseid, high jump; and the 760 relay team of Bryan Peppin, Jim Schuneman, Kosel and Dan Winjum.

John Albrecht supplied the Franklin eighth grade with its only individual first place finish with a winning 2:09 clocking in the 760 yard run. The Franklin eighth grade 760 relay team of Tim Sorvig, Joel Bren, Marty Olson and Peter Lee was also a first place winner.

STUDENTS from Lincoln high school will be visiting a number of residents in Thief River Falls next week, with approval of the city council. The young people will be conducting an unofficial census to help determine the advisability of requesting a new official census. They will be visiting homes located primarily between First and Eight streets and from the river west to the city limits, inaddition to Countryside mobile home court. (A map of the area involved will be carried in Monday's Times.) Mrs. Francis Oski of 507½ North LaBree avenue was contacted early for the benefit of the Times camera. Among the students participating will be (left to right) Grant Erickson, Ginny Goulet, Mike Barry, Marilyn Olson, Carol Nelson and Jon Gibson.

Grand Forks Red River snapped Thief River Falls season opening tennis winning streak at three matches Tuesday as the Roughriders topped the visiting Prowlers 3-2.

Coach Whitey Olson's Lincoln high school netmen face challenging back to back assignments today (Wednesday) and Thursday with the Prowlers scheduled to face region eight powers Bemidji and Crookston. NCC Hopes To Open Season On Saturday Against Fergus Falls

Coach Chet Engelman's Northland community college baseball team was weathered out of its fourth straight double-header Monday when wet grounds at Crookston forced postponement of an already twice rescheduled twin-bill against Crookston Tech.

The delayed Northland season opener is now scheduled for Saturday when the Northmen hope to be able to host defending Northern Division champion Fergus Falls on the Thief River Falls fairgrounds diamond. Saturday's double-header is scheduled for a 1 p.m. start.

Johnson, another lefthander, will probably get the starting call in Saturday's second game.

Northland will also be playing in Thief River Falls Tuesday when the Northmen host Crookston Tech in a 2 p.m. double-header. The other two scheduled Northland home twin-bill' are slated Tues., May 7, against Brainerd at 2 p.m.; and Fri., May 17, against Itasca of Grand Rapids at 1 p.m.

The Northland road schedule includes double-headers Fri., May 3, at Ely against Vermilion; Sat., May 4, at Hibbing; Fri., May 10, at Grand Rapids against Itasca; Sat., May 11, at Grand Rapids against Itasca; Mon., May 13, at Fergus Falls; and Wed., May 15, at Crookston Tech.

LHS Track Team Will Open Outdoor Season At UND Sioux Relays

Lincoln high school track team will venture outside for the first time this spring on Saturday when the Prowlers open their 1974 outdoor track season by participating in the 28th annual Sioux relays in the University of North Dakota Memorial stadium in Grand Forks.

Coach Marv Walter's youthful Prowler thinclads concluded their indoor track season yesterday (Tuesday) at the Pirate relays in the Crookston winter show building.

Thief River Falls was scheduled to run outside at last weekend's South Fargo invitational, but the meet that was originally scheduled to be run inside the North Dakota State University fieldhouse, was rained out of the Fargo stadium.

Preparations are currently being made for the upcoming Quentin Jones Jaycee invitational meet to be held in Thief River Falls on Sat., May 4, pointed out Walter who expects 18 teams to be entered in the annual event.

The Quentin Jones meet was originally scheduled to be the only home track appearance for the Prowlers this spring, but another home meet has been added to the Prowler schedule to compensate for the rained out South Fargo event. Thief River Falls will host International Falls and an as of yet unnamed third team in a triangular meet Tues., May 28, at 4 p.m.

Saturday's Sioux outdoor will start at 9:30 a.m. and continue until a noon lunch break. The afternoon finals are scheduled to start at 1:10.

The three-deep Thief River Falls Sioux line-up will include Jim Elleson, Tom Barry and Scott Steedsman in the 100; Elleson, Steedsman and Greg McEwen, 220; Jeff Houfek, Jeff Johnson and Tony Brosseau, 440; Dave Cork, Mike Burstad and Jay Narverud, 880; Dan Heleren, Brad Brown and Dick Johnson, mile; Brian Phelps, Dan Kezar and Lonnie Olson, two mile; Jerry Sandahl, Joe Sorvig and Tom Barry, 180 yard low hurdles; and Sandahl, Sorvig and Jeff Hendrickson, 120 yard high hurdles.

The Prowler field event entries will include Jim Carlson, Greg Leach and Burstad, long jump; Mark Haroldson, Tim Benedict and Kevin Anderson, pole vault; Tony Dorn, Kent Ehrenstrom and Arlie Engelman, both shot put and discus; and Carlson, Brad Swanson and Keith Johnson, high jump.

The Thief River Falls relay team line-ups will include Tim Loeffler, Benedict, McEwen and Steedsman, 440; Elleson, Barry, Houfek and Carlson, 880; Cork, Dick Johnson, Burstad and Jeff Johnson, mile; and Sandahl, Sorvig, Houfek and Phelps, sprint medley.

National Guard Enlists First Policewoman

Miss Rita Kruchowski of South St. Paul became the first military policewoman in the Minnesota army national guard's 118-year history on April 1, when she enlisted in the 47th Military Police company, headquartered in the St. Paul armory. The guard in Minnesota has been enlisting women since February of 1973.

When asked if she considers her enlistment as a victory for women's liberation, Private Kruchowski said that while she naturally, is in favor of equality for women in such things as equal pay for equal work, she is hoping that no one will feel that her decision to join the guard has anything to do with the women's lib movement.

The big motivating factors, she remarked, were the extra pay, the chance to fly free of charge all over the United States, and the experience she will get from working on an important, satisfying part-time job with people from all walks of life.

Although Private Kruchowski, a senior at South St. Paul high school, is planning to go into the field of medicine as a physical therapist after attending the College of St. Catherine in St. Paul, she feels that getting into part-time military police work with the guard was a wise choice. Her father, Michael Kruchowski, she explained, is a detective on the South St. Paul police department and from her unique vantage point she has learned that police work is one of the best ways of being able to help people in need.

Her new job will not only provide her with an interesting and exciting alternate life style for one weekend per month and two weeks in the summer, but it will also give her a chance to serve others. This, she has found, is one of the real keys to happiness and success.

Lieutenant Colonel Edward Hoeller, 47th Infantry division provost marshal, conducted the swearing-in ceremony and will be Private Kruchowski's commanding officer. Commenting on the latest addition to his section's personnel roster, he said that Rita will find military police work to be challenging and rewarding. He went on to say that the trend in law enforcement all over the world has been to accept women as equals. He personally has found that women can do as good a job in police work as men, and in some cases, better.

Colonel Hoeller, a veteran of 30 years in the military and 25 years with the St. Paul police department, stated that he time served as a national guard military policeman will assist greatly in a civilian law enforcement career. He stated that as past director of the St. Paul recruits academy he could say that, combined with a two-year law enforcement degree, service in the national guard military police would be one of the best ways to prepare for a civilian career in that field.

He went on to say that he knows that both the St. Paul police department and the national guard are taking applications and that young men and women interested may call the National Guard representatives office in St. Paul at 296-5736.

CAUGHT IN POSES typical to youngsters experiencing their first day in the classroom are these youngsters who attended the pre-school round-up at Newfolden school on Friday.

Card of Thanks
During the past few months the people of Thief River Falls have shown so much kindness and concern for us, we find it impossible to thank everyone personally as we would like to do. Both people we have known and complete strangers have shared our problems and given help and encouragement in many, many ways. We want to thank everyone involved in the benefit, as well as everyone who showed their thoughfulness in other ways.
There are times when many of us probably feel that TRF doesn't have all the things that a larger city would have to offer. However we've found that the people here offer much of themselves and show true concern for other people. We will never be able to adequately thank all the people who have helped us, but we will never forget how kind everyone has been.
Sincerely,
Jim and Debby Fremstad

We would also like to thank the kind neighbors, friends and relatives for their expression of sympathy.
Sincere thanks to Pastor DeBoer and Pastor Stueland, organist, singers and pallbearers. Also the ladies who served lunch at the church and to the Green funeral home for their kind and excellent services.
Our sincere thanks to everyone from the family of Ben Bengtson. 1t33c

Card of Thanks
During the past few months the people of Thief River Falls have shown so much kindness and concern for us, we find it impossible to thank everyone personally as we would like to do. Both people we have known and complete strangers have shared our problems and given help and encouragement in many, many ways. We want to thank everyone involved in the benefit, as well as everyone who showed their thoughfulness in other ways.

There are times when many of us probably feel that TRF doesn't have all the things that a larger city would have to offer. However we've found that the people here offer much of themselves and show true concern for other people. We will never be able to adequately thank all the people who have helped us, but we will never forget how kind everyone has been.
Sincerely,
1t33p

Card of Thanks

We would also like to thank the kind neighbors, friends and relatives for their expression of sympathy.

Sincere thanks to Pastor DeBoer and Pastor Stueland, organist, singers and pallbearers. Also the ladies who served lunch at the church and to the Green funeral home for their kind and excellent services.

Our sincere thanks to everyone from the family of Ben Bengtson. 1t33c

Hydra-Mac Has Celebration For Record Sales

Following announcement of record setting production and sales for the first nine months of its fiscal year, Hydra-Mac, Inc. of Thief River Falls honored all employees of Hydra-Mac and its affiliates Friday evening at a gathering at the golf club. Attending were about 450 people including employees of D and E machining of Wahpeton, N.D. and Steiger manufacturing of Red Lake Falls, in addition to people from the local plant.

Douglass W. Steiger, president of Hydra-Mac, announced that the company's sales for the year are now expected to reach $10,000,000, nearly 2½ times last year's total of $4,300,000. Earlier predictions were that this year's sales might reach $7,000,000.

Steiger also announced plans for doubling the size of the company's local manufacturing facility by adding 30,000 square feet to the present building. Another building of 10,000 square feet would also be built for parts and service space. The new facilities are expected to be completed in August at a cost of $250,000.

Hydra-Mac is an outgrowth of efforts begun by John Steiger and his sons, Douglass and Maurice, who developed and built a four-wheel drive tractor on their farm west of St. Hilaire during the winter of 1957-58. Neighbors soon became interested in the machine which the brothers built from salvaged parts to serve the needs of the 3,400 acre farm. Orders for the machine soon followed and in 1960 the Steigers produced five tractors from new components and the operation continued to grow. In 1969 Steiger Tractor, Inc. moved to Fargo with the Steiger family retaining an interest in the firm.

The Steiger brothers, Douglass and Maurice, began operation of Hydra-Mac in 1970 on their grain farm near St. Hilaire. In the summer of 1972 Hydra-Mac outgrew the Steigers' dairy barn and a building in the Thief River Falls industrial park was purchased to house the firm. Steiger manufacturing with its 55 employees continues to operate in the farm facilities.

The Steiger brothers expanded their operation again in December 1972 when they purchased D and E manufacturing which presently supplies gears, gear drives and assemblies for Hydra-Mac's tractors. D and E formerly produced pole jacks and machined small parts for other manufacturers. Maurice Steiger is treasurer of D and E machining and serves as general coordinator between Hydra-Mac and the Wahpeton plant which employs about 50 people.

Hydra-Mac presently markets three models of four-wheel drive skid steer loaders under the brand names of Big Mac, Mitey Mac and Mitey Mac II. The company also manufactures loaders for other companies under their own labels.

THIEF RIVER FALLS TIMES

Volume 63 Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota Wednesday, April 24, 1974 Number 33

YOUTH TEMPERANCE education week is being observed in Thief River Falls April 21 through 27 to help make young people aware of the harmful effects of alcohol and drug abuse. A copy of material being distributed through local schools and churches was presented to Robert Carlson, mayor of Thief River Falls, by (left to right) Julie Gilbert, Debby Mortrud, Randy Moe and Arne Berg. One of the statements in the pamphlets indicates that drunk driving arrests of young people (18 to 20) increased alarmingly in Minnesota, Michigan and New Jersey after the drinking age was lowered in these states.

Mowers And Power Tools Cause Injury

Springtime means gardening time, and the U.S. consumer product safety commission cautions that some 123,500 consumers will wind up in hospital emergency rooms nationwide as a result of accidents associated with home yard and garden equipment.

Heading the l st of products involved with serious injuries and deaths are power lawn mowers, riding mowers and garden tractors.

There are now some 45 million power mowers in use by American families. Annually, they are associated with 60,500 injuries that require hospital emergency room care—serious cuts, punctures, fractures, amputations, loss of sight and other permanent disabilities.

The greatest percentage of power lawnmower accidents is attributed to rotary power mowers.

The hazards of blade tips that move at over 200 miles per hour and can hurl projectiles into a neighboring yard with deadly velocity as well as several reports of product defects involving more than 47,000 rotary power mowers and almost 18,000 garden tractors have placed this product among the first selected by the commission for the development of mandatory safety standards.

In-depth investigations of accidents over the past few years reveal two major hazard patterns associated with rotary power mowers:

(1) Direct contact with moving blades—A clump of grass clogged in the discharge chute has lured many a gardener to pain and misfortune as has a quick adjustment while the motor is on. A foot slipping under the mower while mowing on an incline or in tall grass and encountering an obstacle such as a rock has accounted for numerous injuries.

(2) Propelled objects—Operators, bystanders, children and neighbors nearby have been severely injured by small pieces of wire, small rocks, stones and bits of wood and metal shot from discharge chutes.

Many accidents could be averted by careful attention to instruction manuals, proper maintenance and the use of common sense. The U.S. consumer product safety commission offers this safety checklist as a reminder of operators of power mowers:

(1) Wear sturdy shoes.

(2) Never mow when tired or in a hurry.

(3) Rake the lawn carefully prior to mowing to remove any debris.

(4) Be sre that others are but of the area before starting.

(5) Never remove any of the safety guards and shields that should be attached to the mower.

(6) Use caution when starting the mower. Do not stand in a direct line with the discharge chute.

(7) Never leave the mower running and unattended.

(8) Never refuel the mower while it is running or hot. Store gasoline in a safety container away from living areas.

(9) Never tip or lift the mower when it is running.

(10) Turn the mower off and make sure the blades have stopped rotating before clearing the discharge chute. Disconnect the spark plug before further maintenance or repairs.

(11) Wear safety glasses to protect eyes.

(12) Never permit children to use a mower and supervise inexperienced operators very carefully.

Slopes are a major hazard for riding mowers. Operators of riding mowers and garden tractors have been injured and killed when the mower overturns or when the driver or extra rider, sometimes a child, falls off.

Children also have been severely injured when a careless operator goes into reverse without looking behind first.

Power hedge trimmers—both single and double edge—also are convenient but potentially dangerous garden aides. An estimated 8,400 persons required emergency room care last year for injuries that included severe cuts and amputations. Many gardeners find it necessary to remove the left hand from the trimmer to hold branches away from the cutting blade or to direct branches into the cutting blade and inadvertently injure themselves.

Trimmers often are heavy and unwieldy, and the removal of one hand can limit control and direction. Fatigue, hand cramps and standing on a chair or box while trimming have all contributed to some reported accidents.

In several cases, the cord was cited as another contributing cause. The cord can limit direction and distance, and accident victims have reported they were distracted while pulling the cord or while trying to keep the cord from being cut.

Consumers who use hedge trimmers or similar equipment should observe the following tips:

(1) Read instructions. When renting a trimmer, be sure to receive thorought oprating instructions and safety guidelines.

(2) Don't hurry.

(3) Keep hands out of the way.

(4) Use specially designed extension cord connectors so the cord will not pull out when tension is applied. A belt hook to keep the cord away from the blades also would be a good idea.

When purchasing a trimmer, seek one that is lightweight, easy to maneuver and incorporates safe design features. Check to see that the position of the forward grip handle is located above and away from the cutting blade. Look for a trimmer with a pressure-sensitive switch that cuts the power immediately when the pressure is released.

Minnesota Army Reserve Starts 3-Month Drive

A massive three-month recruitment campaign is underway in Minnesota and Iowa for all units of the 88th U. S. army reserve command (ARCOM), it was announced recently by Major General Merrill B. Evans, ARCOM Commander.

General Evans stated "Our goal is to qualify 1,000 applicants who are interested in being paid to learn a skill as members of the Army Reserve."

Setting an example for the 6,000 men and women in his command, General Evans contacted and enlisted Gary L. Kruse, of 2525 Southwest 80th Street, Des Moines, Ia. recently.

Kruse, a service station employee in Des Moines, Ia., said that high on the list of reasons why he joined the Army Reserve are the financial benefits. As a private he will earn $48.00 each month for 16 hours of training, plus active duty training pay. By the end of the first year Kruse will have added over $1,200 to his annual income.

"As a result of the Army reorganization last year, almost 50 per cent of the nation's ground forces are made up of reserve components," General Evans said, "and recruiting is a top-priority mission."

General Evans said "Those units which are now at full strength will recruit against projected losses."

In addition, General Evans directed all army reserve centers where ARCOM units are located to remain open evenings—Monday through Saturday—during the campaign to receive visitors and answer phone inquiries.

General Evans called attention to the many qualified Vietnam veterans being honored by Presidential proclamation March 29. "They have a high degree of skill and experience and would be an asset to any element of this command," General Evans said.

"For the high school graduate," General Evans continued, "the Army Reserve offers an opportunity to learn a trade or job skill and be paid for it at the same time. The Army Reserve teaches over 300 job skills—from communications to aircraft mechanics, inventory control to medical specialties," he said.

All persons interested in joining the reserve, veterans and non-veterans, men and women, may inquire at their local Army Reserve Center—listed in the yellow pages of the telephone directory.

The Senior Citizens met at the Legion hall on Thursday, April 18, and it was a lovely day. Most of the members were there and spring brought many visitors. Thirty-six registered. Everyone was busy, and the men played cards as usual. Some of the women sewed the crocheted squares together, and some sewed them onto stuffed sofa pillows, and some pulled fluff. Others tied and sewed a quilt. There was never a dull moment. Visitation went along with the work. The visitors were Mrs. Boyd Johnson of Middle River, Mrs. Norman Berg and Marlene, Clara Nelson, and Albin Wikholm of Karlstad, Mrs. Robert Vik, Carol and Cindy of Halma, Henry and Ida, Bruce, Jeanette Onger, Evelyn Lefrooth, Donna Donarski, Sherri Dalgre, Mrs. Donald Larson, Tina and Dion, and Seth Borsvold. The Center wants to thank Mrs. Delores Wikstrom of Karlstad for all the lovely material given to us and much thanks to her mother, Mrs. Hahn, for giving the Center that nice piece quilt top. We can sure make use of it. Thanks also to those who gave lunch tips. Henry Bruce gave us some nice violin music with Inga at the piano. Evelyn Lefrooth won the door prize that was donated by Clara Nelson. Lunch was hosted by Ruth Anderson. I want to take these few minutes to tell the Lancaster Senior Citizens reporter that I read her article and was gald to see she reads our column. While she once weighed only three pounds, she's done quite well, too. I, a reporter, can't lose any weight for eating too much at the Center. Would like to see you here sometime. Mabel Borsvold, Reporter.

I believe this universe is no accident.
I believe all life comes from God.
I believe He cares about ME . . . and wants me really to care about Him.
I believe I have fallen short of pleasing God . . . yet He still lets me live in freedom. I am not his slave.
I believe that Jesus Christ revealed God's forgiving love when He—the Son of God—sacrificed His perfect life for my imperfect life.
I believe that Jesus rose from death, assuring me that it is God's desire that I, too, may reach eternity.
And because I believe—I want to share with you my Faith . . . and the inspiration I have found as I worship every Sunday in church.

'U' Summer Arts Study Center To Be Expanded

University of Minnesota's annual summer arts study center at Quadna Mountain lodge in Hill City, will be larger this year with 30 workshops and short courses offered in music, theater, studio arts, literature and humanities.

The study center, in its sixth year, is open to anyone—either those with a general background in the arts or those seeking advanced study with experts in their fields.

The two-month session, sponsored by University of Minnesota continuing education and extension in cooperation with the Grand Rapids performing arts council, attracts students from all parts of the country who wish to combine summer vacation with study.

This year's workshops—most last one week—will run from June 17 through August 16 and are available for university undergraduate and graduate credit.

Orff Schulwerk techniques, classical guitar, mime, theater, drawing and painting, photography, weaving, landscape painting, glassblowing, pottery, silkscreen, sculpture, humanities and poetry are some of the offerings available. Tuition for each workshop ranges from $60 to $75.

David Feldshuh, associate artistic director for the Guthrie theatre, will conduct a workshop on the basic techniques and vocabulary of mime from July 1 to 5. Feldshuh has studied mime with Jacques LeCoq in Paris, in the London academy of dramatic art, the University of Minnesota and Dartmouth college.

Theory and practice will be combined in an intensive workshop on creative dramatics for children's theater from Aug. 5 to 9. Improvisation with children, uses of media, new theater techniques from Europe and North America and the relationship of drama to child development will be covered in the course.

Faculty for this workshop is Margaret Faulkes, co-founder of the London theatre centre; Dorothy Heathcote, teacher of creative dramatics at the University of Newcastle on Tyne; and Kaoru Yamamoto, educational psychologist at Arizona state university, Tempe.

Available recreational facilities at Quadna include indoor and outdoor swimming, golf, water skiing, horseback riding and tennis. A shuttle service will furnish transportation to all areas at Quadna, making automobiles unnecessary. Itasca Aviation also provides air transportation, twice daily, between Minneapolis-St. Paul Metropolitan air port and Grand Rapids.

Accommodations are available at Quadna Mountain resort lodge and there are campgrounds about one mile from the lodge.

For more information write Summer Arts Study Center, University of Minnesota, 1128 LaSalle, Ave., Minneapolis, Minn. 55403 or call (612) 373-1925.

Ocean Dumping Of Waste Given Further Study

U. S. Environmental Protection agency did something that government agencies seldom do: it changed its mind.

The Region II office of the agency had previously announced a tentative determination to grant ocean dumping permits to 42 New Jersey and New York firms to haul industrial, sewage and construction wastes—amounting to over one and one-fourth billion gallons a year—to four disposal sites located 100 miles from shore.

Twenty-two of these permits were to be loosely-conditioned, three-year, readily-renewable "special" ocean dumping permits. The rest were to be more tightly-regulated, one-year, nonrenewable "interim" permits.

The about face was announced at an April 2 public hearing, convened to consider the 42 applications. It took the form of a new tentative decision based, according to surveillance analysis director R. T. Dewling, on technical and legal decisions and on public comments. Special ocean dumping permits would be given only to two haulers of inert construction debris. The rest would receive interim permits good for no more than one year. One special permit application would be denied altogether.

In addition, most dumpers would be required to submit detailed engineering reports on alternatives to ocean dumping due, generally, within several months. Most dumpers would also be required within one year to submit implementation plans for phasing out their ocean dumping. Finally, 12 dumpers would have to terminate their dumping entirely within 15 months, five others within 27 months, and seven others, including N. L. Industries (National Lead), Allied Chemical Corp. and E. I. duPont de Nemours and Co., within 39 months.

The action followed a March 11 letter from the National Wildlife federation to Region II administrator Gerald M. Hansler and March 25 and 26 meetings between federation counsel and Region II officials at the agency's New York City and Edison, N.J., offices. In those communications, the federation argued that EPA has not yet established the qualification requirements for a "special" permit and so could not legally or technically justify the grant of other than "interim" permits.

40 MPH Proved To Be Best Speed For Top Mileage

Increasing speeds from 40 to 50 miles per hour increased gasoline consumption an average of 8.11 per cent on 13 test cars in a recent demonstration project the Minnesota department of public safety reports. However, the higher speed actually improved the performance of three of the cars as to fuel consumption.

Increasing speeds from 50 to 70 miles per hour upped gasoline consumption an average of 17.1 per cent ranging from a low of 14.3 per cent by a 2,250-pound car to 53 per cent by a 3,900 car.

The tests were run by the federal highway administration in a study of the effects of highway speed on gasoline consumption. Best performance was 35.19 miles per gallon at 40 miles per hour by a 2,350-pound car. Poorest was 11.06 miles per gallon at 70 miles per hour by a 3,990-pound car.

Seven vehicles improved their gasoline mileage by increasing speed from 30 to 40 miles per hour, and three were more efficient at 50 miles per hour. Fuel efficiency declined in all vehicles at speeds above 50.

All vehicles with air conditioning used more fuel when it was turned on. Differences ranged from under one mile per gallon to as much as 4.5 miles per gallon. Fuel savings with the air conditioning turned off averaged 11.4 per cent at 50 miles per hour.

A tuneup on one car in the tests improved gasoline economy by 2.4 miles per gallon at 40 miles per hour.

Thought For The Day

Are you, as so many are, seeking for positive proof of the fact that Jesus Christ is the Son of God, that He came in the flesh to live and die amongst men and that He's alive today?

The Resurrection, which we have recently commemorated, was meant, in part, to substantiate these facts. Romans 1:4 states that Christ was "... declared to be the Son of God with power, ... by the resurrection from the dead". Do you think that God would have raised Christ from the dead if Christ was not truly God's Son, as He claimed to be?

Acts 1:3 indicates to us that Christ spent 40 days, after His resurrection, giving to people unquestionable proof of the fact that He was indeed alive and thus was the Son of God. The only way anyone can know of assurity that Jesus Christ is the Son of God and that He lives is for them to accept Him into their heart and thus receive eternal life through Him! "You ask me how I know He lives; He lives within my heart."

Time To File

Although considerable interest has been evidenced in the two vacancies on the Thief River Falls city council by filings to date, others who may be interested have the rest of today to enter their names on the ballot. Today is the last day to file for either fourth ward alderman or alderman at large.

School District 564 also has an election approaching and filings are open for three positions on the seven-member board. These filings will remain open through Tuesday, April 30. The three incumbents have all indicated they will file although only one had done so at this writing.

In the interest of good elections, however, there should be a choice of candidates for every position. The special city election already has that situation assured. More candidates are needed for the school district election to provide at least two candidates for every position.

It is somewhat common for potential candidates to wait until the closing days of a filing period to enter their names on the ballot. Since there is sufficient time between the final filing date and the date of election, there is nothing to prevent a throughout discussion of issues prior to election.

As has been our custom in past elections held locally, we again plan to make public service space available to each candidate for a personal background history and statement of policy or platform. The offer will be made to all candidates for both the city council and the board of education. We encourage our readers to watch for the issues containing these items and to consider and compare the candidates seeking office.

And we would encourage anyone considering candidacy for any of the positons to enter the race and make the elections truly representative ones. Participation is the backbone of democracy.

Sharing The Sins

Following editorial appeared in a recent issue of the Morris Sun:

Robert Maheu, one-time employee of billionaire Howard Hughes, has announced that Hubert Humphrey was the recipient of $50,000 in $100 bills, a "campaign contribution" from Hughes in the 1968 presidential election. Humphrey denies any knowledge of such a contribution, but Maheu's attorney has promised that there are three witnesses who will confirm Maheu's story.

Meanwhile, Common Cause, the citizen lobby, recently declared that, "There's another political scandal in town, but this one belongs to the Democrats." Common Cause noted that Democrats were staging a big fund-raising dinner to take in contributions from some of the same fat cats who had financed Watergate.

Senator Humphrey has taken $199,153 in tax deductions for contributing his papers to history. Furthermore, Senator Humphrey, Rep. Wilbur Mills, and the late President Lyndon Johnson all received huge sums of money from dairy cooperatives that expected and got higher milk price supports in return.

Of course, the scandals involving the White House make for more interesting reading than the less spectacular corruption of Democratic congressmen. It is understandable that the Nixon administration's troubles have received more media coverage than the Democrats' political excesses.

The Nixon administration does not have public support, nor does it deserve it. It would be equally absurd, however, to place our faith in Humphrey, Mills, and many of their fellow Democrats. Indeed, it is nothing short of incredible that the Democrats would base their appeal on the sins of the Nixon administration, when many of them are guilty of the very same sins.

Now Is The Time

Bill Adams of the Roseau Times-Region is a recent past president of the Minnesota Newspaper association and acutely aware of strenuous efforts by the press to retain openness in government. In the following editorial, he gives some of his views about a recent situation where such openness was totally ignored:

The University of Minnesota Board of Regents apparently considers itself above the law. The board recently met in a three-hour closed-door session, closed to the press and public, in direct violation of the Minnesota Open Meeting Law. Reporters from metropolitan media reportedly sat meekly outside the door.

Minnesota's open meeting law says that there shall be no closed door meetings by public bodies. The law was reaffirmed in a recent Supreme Court dicision, where "exceptions" sought were knocked down. It was again reaffirmed by the Legislature which said it meant what it said. To make the point clearer, those in violation of this law are to be fined $100 for each offense and upon the third offense, are to be removed from office.

That's pretty plain. It is also plain that notice of meetings are to be given so the public can know when its business is being conducted. The Board of Regents is plainly in violation of the law. The first $100 fines should be levied without favor and without exception.

The Minnesota Newspaper association and the media in the Twin Cities should bring suit. The Times-Region, if funds are needed, will contribute. Secrecy in the conduct of public affairs should not go unchallenged.

Wallace Flexes Muscle

Following editorial is from the Rochester (Minn.) Post Bulletin:

The wealthy liberals who funded the Gene McCarthy campaign in 1968 and the George McGovern drive in 1972 are looking for another knight to carry their banner into the '76 nomination battle.

And what a battle it is shaping up to be!

For George Wallace has served notice on the Democratic party, and most particularly those left-wing types, that they can't win without him and that they aren't going to have him unless their candidate and their issue positions are acceptable to him.

Thus a violent joust is already in prospect.

Wallace, it must be remembered, won more popular votes in the 1972 Democratic primary elections, prior to his wounding, than any other candidate. And next time around, he and his supporters will be much better prepared to turn out for party caucuses right down to the precinct level, where the liberals were so successful in '72.

Last Friday as he announced his quest for a third term as governor of Alabama, Wallace also hinted strongly of his interest in another presidential race, and warned both political parties that neither can win in '76 without the voters who believe in him.

Voters will "send a message loud and clear to every politician from top to bottom that times are going to change," the partially-paralyzed Wallace told a cheering, foot-stomping crowd at a kickoff rally in Birmingham.

And he added, ominously for the left-wingers, that citizens are "going to send a message to the national Democratic party that it better get in the middle and start talking common sense."

The definitions of "common sense" as rendered by Wallace, on the one hand, and the left-liberals on the other bear no relation to each other.

So, while the serious political problems of the Republican party are well-known to everyone, it is also worth noting, even at this early stage, that the Democratic party is a very long way from achieving the kind of "unity" that it so sadly lacked in 1972.

Borrowed Nonsense

A mother was astonished when her young son began his bedtime prayer with the solemn greeting, "Dear Howard..."

"That's not God's name," protested the mother. "Yes, it is!" the boy assured her. "They taught us in Sunday School: 'Our Father Who Art in Heaven, Howard be Thy Name.'"

It was Mrs. Smith's turn to entertain the bridge club. This was an important day to her. She served only the best food, and her farm house was spotless that evening. While they were playing bridge, a patter of little feet was heard in the other room. Mrs. Smith put down her cards and said, "Now the children are going to say goodnight to everyone."

There was a long silence. Then a small voice said, "Mamma, Billy found a bedbug."

Husband: "Are you ready to go, dear!"

Wife: "I wish you would stop nagging me. I told you an hour ago I'd be ready in a few minutes."

Al Pacino pins Don Billett, a fellow detective who has threatened him because he would not accept graft money in Paramount Pictures' "Serpico." The Dino De Laurentiis Presentation, directed by Sidney Lumet and produced by Martin Bregman, is based on Peter Maas' best-seller that detailed the true story of Frank Serpico who would not accept the corruption that was rampant among his fellow lawmen. Opens in color May 24, at the Falls Theatre.

notes from the governor

In late 1972, more than 1,400 persons attended the Governor's conference on the new federal rural development act at Moorhead state college.

People from virtually every area of Minnesota were at the conference, as well as from states as far away as South Carolina, Idaho, California, New York and Texas.

At that conference, I pledged to utilize the resources of state government to improve life in rural Minnesota.

In January of 1973, we formed the Governor's rural development council. Its purpose is to improve the ability of state government to respond to the real needs of rural Minnesota. The council has held public meetings to determine rural priorities and is working closely with regional commissions in developing rural development strategies for the state.

One of the first objectives of the council was to determine how the approximately $375,000 a year that is available from the rural rehabilitation corporation trust liquidation act of 1950 can be effectively used to support rural development activities in Minnesota.

We were especially concerned that a grant program be established in Minnesota because of the administration's failure to fully fund the various elements of the rural development act of 1972. It is my judgement that grant monies must be available if rural development activities are to succeed.

The council is now accepting applications for the rural development council grant program. The program's objective is to fund a series of demonstration projects which illustrate new and innovative methods of attacking such rural problems as communications, health care, housing and transportation. Projects are not limited to these areas. However, all projects must involve farm-connected families.

Further informaton about the grant program is available through the Governor's Rural Development Council, 100 Capitol Square Building, St. Paul, Minnesota 55101.

I am confident that this new program, when combined with existing rural development efforts, can provide an incentive for improving the quality of rural life in Minnesota.

"WHERE THE SIGN FLASHES TIME AND TEMPERATURE TWENTY-FOUR HOURS A DAY"

University Of Minn. Students Have New Gov't.

There've been some changes made in student government at the University of Minnesota.

For one thing, there is no longer a Minnesota student association (MSA), the often-controversial organization with an annual budget of about $150,000.

MSA went out of existence April 12 when students voted to recognize the already-existing Twin Cities campus assembly as the only student governing body on the Twin Cities campus.

That means Kathy Kelly, MSA's only woman president in the organization's 15-year history, is out of a job.

It does not mean, however, that there will no longer be a student body president. Ten students have applied to run for the presidential post in an election to be held in early May.

The new system will be somewhat comparable to the federal government, with an executive branch and a legislative branch (the TCSA).

According to Mark English, the student who headed the committee which drafted the student government restructuring plan, the old system had other similarities to the federal system.

"The presidents of MSA had been extremely strong in the last couple of years," he said. "They were taking powers which were never specifically given to them."

English said when the restructuring committee looked over MSA's constitution it found that the assembly had all the powers MSA had. When it considered ways to cut down on duplication it agreed that MSA could be the first to go.

English said the committee considers what it did was essentially a "streamlining" of student government. He called MSA a superfluous and confusing layer of student government, which tended to ignore many areas of concern to students, such as academic matters.

"We saw a need to work more closely with the university structure," English added.

Without the added layer of MSA, student government will work much the same way it has in the past. About 60 students elected during the spring campus elections will make up the Twin Cities campus assembly which considers student issues. The student members will meet periodically with faculty members in the assembly to considering issues that affect the entire university.

English said that during consultations before the restructuring he found a lot of students were discontented with MSA and with some of the highly-visible stances taken by its presidents.

"Under the new system, the president will still be visible," he said. "But he'll be president of the entire student body, not just one organization."

English said the new government system should cost students less. Students have been paying $1.25 each per quarter to finance student government, while the new plan should cost less than 50 cents each per quarter.

MSA's several service corporations are still in existence, but will be seeking funding as separate entities next year.

English said the restructuring committee sees the changes as only a first step in efforts to make student government more effective.

"The structure is still slow and cumbersome at the moment," he said. "Students are going to have to work at it."

But English said he feels the new plan will allow students to do more long-range planning, instead of being "merely reactionary."

Early Childhood Education Has Appropriation

Minnesota legislature has appropriated $250,000 for the funding of local projects dealing with early childhood and education programs. Projects will be financed which concern themselves with seeking out potential barriers to learning, education of parents on child development, educational material libraries, family services, education for parenthood in secondary schools, in-center activity, home-based programs and referral services as well as other areas.

No fewer than six pilot early childhood programs will share in this funding at the local school level and the projects will be selected, reviewed and administered by the Minnesota council on quality education.

Mrs. B. J. Mahling of Little Falls chairperson of the council, stated, "C.Q.E. is a 17-member group of Minnesotans from all over the state. Lay people from each Congressional district plus a member at large are appointed by the governor. The other eight members represent various educational organizations. We all serve with out compensation.

"The projects selected will be distributed as evenly as possible among cities of the first class, suburbs and communities outside the seven-county metropolitan area. We expect all projects to be in operation by the first of September," she concluded.

Senator Jerome M. Hughes, author of the legislation, states "This appropriation is a continuation of Minnesota's efforts to provide educational and community service to all ages of people. These efforts were emphasized first though the community education act and now will be expanded though the early childhood programs."

"The emphasis of these early childhood programs will be preventive service for children and programs for parents," Senator Hughes continued.

"Early identification of barriers to learning such as physical handicaps and learning problems will be one important aspect. All participation will be voluntary and each pilot program will be limited to the attendance area of one elementary school. The services of each program will be available to anyone living in that attendance area. All programs will have an advisory committee consisting of a majority of parents with participating children. These advisory committees will help emphasize the basic concept of the early childhood program which work with the child in the context of the family and the community," the senator concluded.

Application information and program guidelines will be mailed to all school districts and other interested organizations about May 1. Anyone wishing this information should contact Mr. Eugene Kairies, Council Coordinator at (612) 296-3885. The tentative deadline for submitting completed proposals to the Council is May 31.

English Trifle Goes Tropical

Tropical Fruit Salad inspires an elegant Tropical Trifle. The old English trifle featured spirit-soaked sponge cake combined with raspberries and a baked custard, then covered with whipped cream and handsomely decorated to the nth degree.

Tropical Trifle is a less elaborate version which combines ladyfingers and jam with convenient canned Tropical Fruit Salad, gelatin and pudding. It need only be accompanied by coffee or tea for a perfect finale for any occasion.

Although this fruit is delicious just as it comes from the can, it can be used in almost any recipe that calls for mixed fruits or canned fruit cocktail. Serve it dramatically flaming over ice cream for Tropical Jubilee. For Bali Hai Crepes, thicken the syrup with cornstarch, add fruit and serve over cream cheese-filled crepes. It can be parfaited with ice cream, pudding or left-over cake. A simple addition of coconut makes it Tropical Ambrosia.

Fruit compotes, gelatin and tossed fruit salads and many desserts are enhanced by Tropical Fruit Salad. The product combines exotic papaya chunks, pineapple tidbits, banana slices, passion fruit juice, guava puree and cherry halves.

Tropical Trifle

1 pkg. (12) ladyfingers	1 cup boiling water
Raspberry jam	1 pkg. (3¼ oz.) vanilla pudding mix
¼ cup dry sherry	¾ cup whipping cream, sweetened and whipped
1 can (16 oz.) Tropical Fruit Salad	¼ cup toasted sliced almonds
1 pkg. (3 oz.) orange-pineapple flavor gelatin

Split ladyfingers; spread with jam and put back together, sandwich-fashion. Arrange in glass bowl or 9-inch pie plate. Saturate each ladyfinger with sherry. Drain fruit, reserving syrup and several cherries. Spoon fruit over ladyfingers. Dissolve gelatin in water; stir in reserved syrup. Pour over fruit and ladyfingers. Chill 1 hour. Cook pudding mix as package directs. Cool 5 minutes. Pour over gelatin-fruit layer. Chill. Top with whipped cream; garnish with reserved cherries and nuts. 6 to 8 servings.

The fair will feature bagpipers, sword dancers, highland games, a kite flying contest, foot races, children's theater and game, puppeteers, strolling ministrels and a large craft fair. The public is invited to come to enjoy competiton in the traditional Scottish sports such as the caber toss and to browse through the many art and craft displays.

Norwegians in Spring Grove will celebrate Norwegian independence day on May 17-19. The festival, called Syttende Mai, includes coronation of a queen and king of the Trolls, Olympic runners, a parade, a smorgasboard, fiddlers bee and many more fun activities.

Scandinavians come together to celebrate on May 24-26 in the Cedar-Riverside area of Minneapolis. The celebration called the Snoose Boulevard festival focuses on the entertainment heritage of the Scandinavian-Americans in days gone-by through reconstructing the Scandinavian entertainment life of the Cedar-Riverside area.

Mayor And Police Chief Criticize Rock Concert

TEEN-AGE CITIZEN awards were presented by the Thief River Falls Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary last week to three winners in the first local competition. Winners were (top photo) Greg Sorenson, first place award accepted by his mother and sister, Mrs. Yvonne and Jodi Brennan; Joel Folger, second place, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Folger; and Julie Onken, third place, daugher of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Onken. Competition is open to students 13 through 19 years of age and Greg Sorenson will now compete on the district level of the state-wide competition.

Acting police chief Ken Froschheiser and Mayor Bob Carlson reported to the council Tuesday concerning problems which developed at the rock concert held in the municipal auditorium on April 19. According to Carlson and Froshheiser, the concert, which was attended by young people (some were known to be 12 years old or under), the atmosphere of the event and the conduct of the crowd was not suitable, particularly for the younger spectators. The language used by the performers was also offensive to the sensibilities of adults who witnessed some of the activities, according to Carlson.

Following the conclusion of the performance by "Hard Road", a rock group from Illinois, police found liquor and beer containers strewn about the auditorium and witnesses reported observing improper conduct of young people (as young as 12 or 13) who were visibly intoxicated. (Details reported at the meeting are not contained in this article because they are not suitable for a family publication.)

Chief Froshheiser stated that members of his department were not aware of the extent of the problem and were unable to see specific violations necessary for police action. The extremely poor lighting used for the event complicated the problem by drastically limiting visibility. Froshheiser explained that state law requires police personnel to be on duty at "dances featuring a live band". However, this program was scheduled as a concert and policing is not normally deemed necessary for this type of event. Froshheiser stated that future "concerts" will be policed.

Business conducted by the council included eliminating one of the two "smile faces" previously authorized to be painted on the city's new water tower. The one remaining face will be painted on the northeast side of the tower.

The second reading of an ordinance was approved allowing sale of 3.2 beer until 1 a.m. as provided for in state law.

A request for an off-sale 3.2 beer licese for Eighth Street service station was approved unanimously (Councilman Fred Sorenson was not present). However, Mayor Carlson stated

Oakland Park To Proceed On Plans For New Building

SCOUTS AND ADULTS alike were interested in the demonstration on artificial resuscitation Sunday at the annual Penn-Ro-Shall district Boy Scout exposition held at the national guard armory in Thief River Falls. The event was attended by approximately 3,500 people and this year, for the first time, all participating troops received blue ribbon awards. The packs and troops compete against a standard rather than against one another.

Authorization for the administration of Oakland Park nursing home to proceed with application for a certificate of need for construction of a proposed new home for the aged was given by the Pennington county board of commissioners in special meeting Thursday evening at Oakland Park. The meeting was held jointly with the Marshall county board of commissioners since Marshall county is presently involved in joint operation of the home for the aged.

Mrs. Sherryll Irvine, administrator of the home, was authorized by the board action to make application for a certificate of need from the Agassiz health planning council. Proposed is construction of a 75-bed nursing home at an estimated cost of $1,176,000 for building and equipment. Issue of general obligation bonds in the amount of $1,200,000 is proposed to finance the building project.

Marshall county board members agreed at the Thursday meeting to withdraw from participation in operating the home upon approval of a bond issue in Pennington county. Marshall county will continue to participate in the home pending approval of a certificate of need and subsequent bond election.

Gene Jax, representing the accounting firm of Robert G. Engelhart and Company of Minneapolis, presented financial projections at the meeting Thursday. He noted that the proposed plan provides for construction of a new nursing home containing 75 beds and space for ancillary services. At present the home has a licensed bed complement of 52, with new construction resulting in an increase of 23 beds.

Assumptions made by the accounting firm are that construction would begin Jan. 1, 1975 and be completed May 31, 1976. Estimate is that a tax levy of 3.6 mills would be required to meet debt service requirments as they would come due.

Projections were also made on rates, wages, population, resident days and other factors in the study. "The proposed construction plan appears to be financially feasible if the stated assumptions and related projections along with tax levy revenue become a reality," the accounting firms study stated.

New Company To Build In T.R.F. Industrial Park

Custom Processors, Inc., of Thief River Falls have authorized construction of a 100x200 food processing and cold storage facility at the Thief River Falls industrial park.

The 20,000 square foot structure, to be built this summer, will utilize a construction technique which will make it the first of its kind in this community. Original stockholders of the company are Irvine Forsberg, John Dyrseth and Audrey Johnson.

Consulting general contractor, Johnson & Sons of Renton, Wash., will employ the tilt-up construction method. Exterior walls of the building are poured as panels of reinforced concrete on top of the concrete floor slab. After the panels have dried for approximately seven days, they are lifted by a crane into their permanent vertical position and welded into place.

Once the walls are secured, the roof structure is assembled and the balance of the work will be accomplished by conventional methods. Design consultants for the project are Lawrence M. Campbell and associates of Kent, Washington, and Engineers Northwest of Seattle.

The contractor will be negotiating with Thief River Falls sub-contractors for labor and materials for the project. Construction phas is expected to last approximately 120 days and employ approximately 50 persons in related fields in the area. When the project is completed it will create permanent employment for an undetermined number of community residents.

Custom Processors, Inc., will be primarily engaged in cleaning and bulk packaging of beans, sunflowers, popcorn, seed grain and other items. Of the 100x200 building, 40x100 will be cold storage capable of being converted to a freezer area.

WCTU Topic Stresses Youth As Greatest Asset

"Youth, Our Greatest Asset," was the topic of the Alice Mae Stuart Thief River Falls Women's Christian Temperance Union meeting held recently at Our Savior's Lutheran church.

The theme was emphasized in the devotions given by Mrs. Olga Larson, who read II Timothy 3:14-17. She compared the life of Paul with the lives of today's youth. Although he was well educated, in that he was a master in speaking and writing, and that he had a good trade, he, like the young people of today, was not happy. Until his conversion, he laced faith in God and true knowlege of the Scripture which is given for doctrine or instruction, reproof and conviction of sin, correction and improvement and instruction in righteousness for perfection or completeness.

Mrs. Larson concluded by reading Dr. Fred Helsabeck's article: "Take time to live, it is the secret of success; take time to think, it is the source of power; take time to play, it is the secret of youth; take time to read, it is the foundation of knowlege; take time for friendship, it is the course of happiness, take time to laugh, it helps to lift life's load; take time to dream, it hitches the soul to the stars; and take time for God, it is life's only lasting investment."

In observance of Youth Temperance Education week, members packaged 4000 youth bulletins which were distributed after the meeting to the schools and churches in this city.

Lunch as served by Mrs. Mons Engelstad and Mrs. Edwin Hanson.

'U' Researcher Gets $100,000 Leukemia Award

Dr. Toni Mariani, a University of Minnesota researcher, has received a $100,000 scholar award from the Leukemia society of America, Inc.

Mariani, an assistant professor of laboratory medicine and pathology, will use the five-year award to further her investigation of the dynamics of viruses and the immune system in leukemia.

One of only seven medical scientists throughout the country to receive the Society's highest honor, Mariani has spent more than eight years in cancer research.

In particular, she has explored immunologic functions pertaining to aging, the acceptance or rejection of tissue and the susceptibility of inbred mice to a cancer-inducing virus.

Her accomplishment in the areas of immunobiology, transplantation, tumor immunology, leukemia, and their application to clinical medicine, were the bases for the Leukemia society's award.

In the late 1950's Mariani was one of the first to overcome the skin graft rejection phenomenon between male and female mice of the same inbred species by injecting the newborn female with viable spleen cells from the male. She was also the first researcher to induce "tolerance" to foreign skin grafts in adult mice.

Examining the role of aging in "tolerance" she found that young females did not reject the male skin grafts as frequently as older females.

"These early studies proved to be the foundation for concepts in human organ transplantation," Mariani said.

For the past five years she has been delineating the theory that a virus that caused leukemia in mice also triggered the skin graft rejection phenomenon. In her experimental model she proved the virus had no role in the graft rejection but implicated the viable tumor cells as the causal agent.

During these investigations she also discovered that leukemia could be induced in adult animals by grafting them with skin taken from a preleukemic mouse.

"This is an animal that was injected with a leukemia-inducing virus shortly after birth but has not yet shown evidence of the leukemia at four or five weeks," she explained.

Mariani has found a direct clinical application of her basic research animal model. Development of skin graft rejection and tumor growth in the virus system under study closely resembles some of the known characteristics of lymphoma cutis, a type of leukemia in humans.

"I hope that continued study of the animal model may provide clues for the treatment of human malignancy," she added.

A member of the University's Leukemia Task Force, Mariani took a predoctoral National Cancer Institute Fellowship at the University in 1958. She obtained her Ph. D. in kidney physiology from the University of Michigan in 1966.

Her laboratory is currently supported by the National Cancer institute and the Minnesota Medical foundation. Past support has come from the American Cancer society and the Minnesota Division of the ACS.

Besides the scholars, the Leukemia society is funding 14 new special fellows and 17 fellows this year. The additions bring the society's roster of leukemia investigators to 103 individuals. They will be supported by grant payments of $1,530,000 compared to a similar expenditure of $1,300,806 last year.

SLOW DOWN AND SAVE!

Cooling Foods At Room Temp Is Hazardous

A current suggestion for saving energy by leaving hot food to cool at room temperature before being placed in a refrigerator has met with the disapproval of state health commissioner Dr. Warren Lawson.

Disease-causing germs grow most rapidly at body temperature. Although this is the best temperature for growing, they will reproduce from a low of 40 degrees. Any time foods which degrees. Any time foods which will support the growth of disease-causing germs are between these temperatures it is possible for the growth of such organisms to occur. Growth is slower at the lower and higher ends of the scale and fastest near body temperature.

Hot foods left at room temperature to cool will spend more time in this dangerous temperature zone than hot foods which are placed into a refrigerator to cool. Therefore, the Minnesota department of health advises that you do not keep foods at room temperature before cooling. It is important to cool foods in the refrigerator. This can best be accomplished using shallow pans for the storage of potentially hazardous foods.

Faster cooling of foods will occur when a large amount of food is reduced in size. As a rule of thumb when storing or cooling, no amount of food should be more than two inches from center to outside edge.

Foods that are most apt to grow disease germs are called potentially hazardous and include milk, milk products, meat, fish, eggs and poultry.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

United States Senate, in passing the resolution proclaiming Tuesday, April 30, as National day for Humiliation, Fasting and Prayer, calls upon the people of our nation to humble ourselves as we see fit, before our Creator to acknowledge our final dependence upon Him and to repent of all our national sins."

It seems odd that in this supposedly Christian country that we need to be reminded to pray for our nation. There are many that would dispute that our nation needs to repent of any sins.

During the past months the Watergate finsco has been the main topic in newspapers, on radio and television. To date, the only thing settled is that anything that took place at Watergate has been done before. In other words, according to their way of thinking, if someone else has committed the wrong before, it is not a wrong for the second person or party to do the same thing.

That our nation needs prayer is evident. While repenting of our national sins on Tuesday, in addition to Watergate, we should also repent for lowering the drinking age, for letting an atheist persuade us for taking prayer out of the schools, and for allowing the murder of unborn children.

Then while the prayer lines are open, we could make requests for stronger backbones to fight for what is right and for the knowlege to know the difference between right and wrong. We could ask for greater love. Not the general love of loving people of other countries or races. That is too easy. When we learn to love the neighbor on the other side of the hedge, or that co-worker that gets under our skin, love for other races will follow. We could also ask for greater tolerance and understanding. We send millions overseas to missions and balk at giving a donation to a family that has lost everything in a fire because the mother is a "barfly" or because the father had once served time in jail.

We could also interceed for people going through trying experience. When praying for President Nixon, also remember Mrs. Nixon and the other members of that family. Then slip in a few prayers for the family whose mother is critically ill, for the little pee-wee born with a bone deformity, for the families who have just lost a loved one, for the couple who broke their engagement, for the young boy who is leaving for service or the young couple about to be married. The list is endless, you won't be able to finish it on Tuesday.

But above all, remember to thank God for our many blessings.

GIRL SCOUT ACTIVITIES

Brownie Troop 160 of Northrop elementary school visited the art department of Northland community college Wednesday. The 11 girls, led by Mrs. Jane Anderson, also went on a nature hike on their way to and from the college.

Recent projects include making marble bags out of wash cloths. The girls also made decorative crosses at Easter.

The troop meets each Wednesday in the Northrop music room and mothers of the scouts take turns assisting Mrs. Anderson. Mrs. Dee Trudeau is helping this month.

St. Hilaire

Girl Scout cookie sales were very successful in St. Hilaire. Troop 66 sold 191 boxes of cookies and Troop 67 sold 289 for total cash sales of $480. Both troops will donate two cents of their profit per box of cookies to a home for retarded chilren at Willmar.

Troop 67 has completed its first aid kits and on April 30 a policeman from the Thief River Falls police department will give a brief first aid demonstraton.

Troop 66 was invited to the Boy Scout exposition at the armory in Thief River Falls on Sunday, April 28. Kris Treitline, Debra Erickson and Shari Jo Larson deomonstrated three different craft projects that they have done in Scouts.

Spouse's Income Included For GI Home Loans

Veterans administration reminded married homeminded veterans recently that it is now easier to qualify for GI home loans.

John R. Good, loan guaranty officer, VA Center, Fort Snelling, noted that VA now accords full recognition to incomes and expenses of both veteran and spouse in determining ability to repay loan obligations.

Good said VA is required by law to determine if contemplated terms of repayment bear a proper relation to the veteran's anticipated income and expenses before approving the loan.

"But while the spouse's income has always been considered," he said, "local rules sometimes had the effect of discounting the spouse's income. Now, however, no such local rules are imposed, and the spouse's income is given full consideration."

The VA guarantees 60 per cent of GI home loans, to a maximum of $12,500 that private lenders make to servicemen, veterans and eligible spouses of World War II, Korean and post-Korean Conflicts and the Vietnam-era.

Hospital At Princeton Joins Fairview System

Trustees of Princeton community hospital have entered a three-year management contract with the Fairview Community hospitals, Minneapolis.

Terms of the contract, according to Eldon Kobbervig, board chairman of the Princeton hospital, will bring management services to the facility which it would have great difficulty providing on its own.

"While retaining ultimate control over all hospital operations," Kobbervig said, "we will be able to draw on Fairview management expertise and experience in many areas."

Carl N. Platou, Fairview president, noted that joint purchasing, data processing and management service affiliations now involve the metropolitan hospitals with Naeve hospital, Albert Lea; St. Olaf hospital, Austin; Northfield city hospital; Divine Redeemer Memorial hospital, South St. Paul; Northwestern Hospital services, Inc., Thief River Falls; and Bemidji hospital.

USDA Reports No Payments On '73 Wool And Mohair

U.S. department of agriculture (USDA) recently announced that there will be no payments made to growers on their 1973 sales of wool and mohair.

USDA explained that payments are unnecessary because the prices received by growers in the marketplace for wool and mohair last year were higher than the support level established for these commodities for 1973 under the national wool act of 1954, as amended.

National average price of 82.7 cents a pound received by all producers who sold wool in 1973 was 10.7 cents above the support level of 72 cents a pound. The National average price of $1.87 per pound received by producers who sold mohair in 1973 was about $1.07 above the support level of 80.2 cents a pound.

The 1974 support prices are 72 cents a pound for wool and 80.2 cents a pound for mohair, the same as for 1973. The average prices received by producers during the first three months of 1974 are 72.5 cents a pound for wool and $1.73 per pound for mohair.

This is the first year in the history of the wool act in which market prices for wool have exceeded support prices. In recent years, annual payments on wool and unshorn lambs under this program have ranged from about $50 million to $100 million.

Otter Tail Asks For Electric Rate Increase

Otter Tail Power company recently filed new electric tariffs with the North Dakota public service commission and requested that the adjusted rates be effective for energy used thirty days after filing. The proposed rate increase would average 4.8 per cent for Otter Tail customers.

However, because of modifications in the rate schedules based upon the costs of serving various types of customers, there would be numerous variations up or down from the 4.8 per cent figure for particular categories of customers and for specific electric uses.

In commenting on the rate filing Albert V. Hartl, president of the electric company, said, "Mushrooming costs, particularly those for labor, materials and borrowed money, make this modest rate increase absolutely necessary so that we can continue to provide high-quality electric service to meet the needs of our customers.

"But it's significant," he added, "that Otter Tail has not asked for a general increase in its electric rates since 1970 despite four years of galloping inflation."

The company shortly will file similar electric tariffs with local municipal authorities where required in the Minnesota and South Dakota portions of its service territory.

Here's why we sell JACOBSEN® Turbo-Vent™ Rotary Mowers!

Ordinary rotary mowers draw air only from underneath the deck. Jacobsen engineers designed the Jacobsen Turbo-Vent aerodynamic deck with upper vents to draw air in from the top too. The Jacobsen stabilized gull wing cutter bar, operating within this Turbo-Vent cutting chamber with upper AND lower air flow produces a remarkably efficient grass blade agitating action; this results in an improved, smoother, more even cut, highly compact bagging action and an under-deck "air suspension" system to help prevent clogging — particularily in thick, moist grass.

That's the scientific explanation . . . . In down-to-grass terms:

Northland To Sponsor Second European Tour

Northland community college in Thief River Falls will offer area people an opportunity to travel and study in Europe this summer—the second time that the European study tour has been offered by Northland. Last year people from Oslo, Argyle, Kennedy, Mentor and Thief River Falls participated in the program which visited Switzerland, France, Belgium, Holland and England.

This year's program, which is also 21 days, will go from Munich to Venice, Rome, Florence, Nice, Geneva, Paris and London.

"We're not staying very long in any one place," said program director Chet Engelman, "but we're running the program the way our students wanted it."

The group will depart for Europe on June 24 and return on July 16. The price is $855 which includes transportation, lodging, food and some activities.

"We could take eight to 10 more people," said Engelman, "but any more than that would make our group larger than we want this year."

The people now going range in age from 18 to 40 plus. Anyone who might wish to participate or obtain additional information should contact Engelman at Northland.

Participants may earn three college credits if they so desire.

Unemployment May Be Extended To Farm Workers

Administration's proposal to extend unemployment insurance to those who work for large farm employers would bring financial aid to many migrant and minority workers excluded from existing social programs, according to Under Secretary of Labor Richard F. Schubert.

"Through this special effort special target groups would be materially assisted without the need for special new federal programs," Schubert said.

He said the proposal, included in the proposed job security assistance act, would be self-supporting in most states, in that contributions from farm employers would generally be sufficient to pay benefits to involuntarily unemployed farm workers.

The proposed act, which also includes proposals for extending benefit duration in areas where needed, and minimum standards for state jobless amounts, would expand unemployment coverage to about 635,000 farm workers at large agricultural enterprises.

Included would be employers of four or more farm workers in each of 20 weeks in a year, or those who paid $5,000 in farm wages in a calendar quarter.

A study completed in 18 states last year showed that about 25 per cent of all farms employed 77 per cent of all farm workers.

Schubert said additional standards covering farms were being developed under the occupational safety and health act of 1970.

Emphasizing that the provisions of this law cover all farmers with one or more employees, except those with only family members working, Schubert said four standards were originally made applicable to agriculture: Sanitation in temporary labor camps; storage and handling of anhydrous ammonia; pulpwood logging; and slow-moving vehicles (requiring the display of a warning emblem).

Safety and health standards being developed for farms include: Rollover protective structures for agricultural tractors; guarding of farm field equipment, farmstead equipment and cotton gins; and employment-related housing.

Others under consideration by the standards advisory committee on agriculture, Schubert said, include: Personal protective equipment, electrical hazards, walking and working surface hazards, hand and portable tool hazards, nuisance dusts, livestock handling and noise.

Schubert pointed out temporary emergency standards on the handling of organophosphorous pesticides developed by the labor department's occupational safety and health administration have been set aside by court order.

The Environmental Protection Agency is preparing a proposed standard with requirements similar to the one set aside, and the labor department does not expect to promulgate a permanent standard for these pesticides, Schubert told the farm group.

He pointed out the standards advisory committee works closely with the department of agriculture and farm organizations.

Schubert added that the labor department has a wide range of programs for migrant workers, including law enforcement and services provided through the federal-state employment service system.

Stenvig Will Seek Secretary Of State Post

Charles Stenvig, former mayor of Minneapolis, recently announced his intentions to seek the Republican endorsement for Minnesota secretary of state.

Stenvig, in making his announcement, said he has received wide-spread support from Republicans across the state to seek endorsement on the state ticket this year.

"I feel that my administrative experience as mayor of Minneapolis for two terms will bring some of the necessary talents to the office that are needed. In addition, I have some very deep concerns about Minnesota's new election laws, passed by the DFL controlled legislature and signed by the DFL governor, which are unfair and favor the DFL. Since the Secretary of State is the chief election officer of the state, I feel that it is here that I can make a positive impact through my campaign for statewide office."

Stenvig, 46, received a bachelor's degree in sociology and education from Augsburg college. He has served on the Minneapolis police force for over 17 years, including 4½ years as mayor of Minneapolis.

Special Offices For Unemployed Set Up In Minn.

At the direction of Gov. Wendell Anderson, the Minnesota department of employment services has set up special work forces at Silver Bay and Babbitt to take unemployment insurance claims from persons out of work as a result of the closing of the Reserve Mining company taconite plant at Silver Bay.

Commissioner Emmet J. Cushing of the Minnesota department of employment services said a five-person force has been established at Silver Bay while a group of four is at work in Babbitt.

The department's Duluth office supplied the personnel at Silver Bay, Cushing said, while the Babbitt work force was drawn from the Virginia, Ely and International Falls offices.

In addition, claims are being taken at the Virginia, Ely and Duluth offices. Cushing estimates between 2,000 to 2,500 claims will be filed by the end of this week.

"The governor has instructed our department to give this matter top priority," Cushing said. "We are doing everything we can to make sure that all of these unemployed workers get their unemployment checks on time."

Most of the workers will be able to collect $85 for 26 weeks, Cushing said. Specifically, each unemployed worker will be able to collect 50 per cent of his average salary for a period equal to 70 per cent of the weeks worked during the prior 52 weeks, if he meets other qualifications.

Cushing said estimates indicate the unemployment rate in lake county, which is sparsely populated, could go as high as 29 per cent as compared with a 6.7 per cent average during 1973. In northern St. Louis county (excluding Duluth), the unemployment rate is expected to increase from the 7.1 per cent average in 1973 to about 10 per cent.

"We are going to do everything we can to help these people find employment," Cushing said. "However, the immediate chances for reemployment are not very promising."

Although the beginning of construction of a new taconite plant at Hibbing will help take up some of the slack in northern St. Louis county, mostly workers with construction skills will be employed, Cushing said.

When Construction is finished in from 18 months to two years, the plant will provide employment for workers with taconite plant experience, he said. In the meantime, every attempt will be made to find jobs for as many workers as possible, he added.

North Central Airlines Shows Record Profit

North Central Airlines achieved earnings of $1,007,000 in the first quarter—the greatest profit for this period in the company's history, announced Hal N. Carr, chairman of the board and chief executive officer.

"Although quarterly earnings of $25,000 were reported in 1973, heavy losses usually occur in the first three months," Carr said, "because traffic is at its lowest level and adverse weather conditions increase operating costs.

"This year, quarterly revenues and traffic rose to new highs. Operating revenues of $33,528,000 were 21 per cent ahead of 1973, and traffic went over the one-million passenger mark for the first time. These results reflect anticipated growth plus substantial passenger gains on short-haul flights from the trend to fly rather than drive," he commented.

The airline also benefitted from increased public service revenues and a five per cent fare boost effective Dec. 1, 1973.

Nevis Settles 1973-74 Salary Negotiations

With most school districts in Minnesota already well into negotiations for new teachers contracts for the coming school year, the last contract dispute surrounding the 1973-74 school year was settled this past week. Termed by officials of the Minnesota Federation of Teachers as the "highest teacher settlement in Minnesota," the contract will give teachers in the Nevis school district more than a 16 per cent pay increase for this past year.

Nevis Federation of Teachers had negotiated with the Nevis school board on a number of occasions before both the school board and teachers agreed to enter arbitration proceedings. The process continued for more than a year.

The arbitration panel awarded the NFT $25,000 to be paid to Nevis teachers.

Oakland Park Proceeds With Building Plans

Mrs. Irvine told the Times that approval of the Agassiz health planning council is a necessary prerequisite to proceeding with plans locally. The accounting firm report and other supplementary material will be used in presenting the Oakland Park project to the council. It is expected that the application will be ready within 30 days for and submitted to the health council for consideration.

Should the council approve the plan, it is expected a bond election would be held at the same time as the general election in November of 1974.

Gov. Proclaims May As Mental Health Month

Governor Wendell Anderson has proclaimed May as mental health month and asked all Minnesotans to join in the observance.

The governor, in so designating the month, is recognizing the contribution to fight against mental illness of the Mental Health association of Minnesota. The association, a citizen volunteer organization, was instrumental in securing passage of the community health services act, which established community mental health centers throughout Minnesota. Since that time, it has worked to obtain a comprehensive program of stte and local mental health services that will have a maximum impact on communities.

The 1974 programs of the associaton include greater citizen involvement in community mental health programs and continued development of plans to coordinate various state and local mental health services.

Mrs. Miriam Karlins, Minneapolis, is honorary chairman of the association's membership and bell ringer fund drives, which are taking place this month.

Thought For The Day

Napoleon's French armies were poised on the hills ringing a little Austrian border town, Selkirk. The French generals gave an ultimatum: Surrender or die. All through that Easter Eve night the town council debated the choice of surrendering or defending.

Toward dawn the preacher of the church spoke: "So far we have been counting on our own strength. Today is Easter Day. This is the Lord's day of victory. Let us ring the bells, summon the people from their homes and have services as usual. We know too well our weakness, but we have forgotten the Lord's strength."

The town council followed his advice. The bells of the church began to ring in the early mists of an Easter dawn, and people began moving in the streets toward church. From the movement and noise the French concluded that the Austrian army had arrived in the night. The French broke camp and retreated before the Easter bells stopped ringing.

The Easter bells are silent.

But doesn't Easter mean to stop running and start believing? To start living as though God is for real and Christ is our lively Lord? What a way to live!

There's Good News, Too

Sen. Richard Fitzsimons passed the following article by Dan Murphy along to us, noting that it appeared in the "Iowa Farm Bureau Spokesman" publication and coincided with his own opinion:

Most news commentators, looking back on 1973, found little of value to offset their non-stop listing of woes. This one-sided picture of daily life is a matter of attitude rather than of accuracy. Those who deal in the so-called "national news" have decided that mankind's faults and mistakes are newsworthy. . .but that the good, the kindly, the monorable are not worth reporting.

Fortunately, we still have an excellent source for balanced news. . .local radio and hometown newspapers. Treasure these, because they tell us how people and people institutions really are.

It's important, I think, that we read the many contributions of a senior citizen. . .about a service club distributing food. . .about vo-ag boys planting trees. . .about the boy who served honorably in uniform.

We need to be reminded that beauty exists as well as ugliness. . .that many are building while a few destroy. . .that business people are amazingly ethical and usually public-spirited. . .that for every dollar some kid steals from a gas station, ordinary people give $100 for the charitable purposes.

I liked 1973. Farm income, for once, went up faster than farm costs. We learned to move food into world trade. City people became interested in conserving natural resources. We sent more and more young people into higher education, many through the excellent new community colleges.

We got ourselves out of one war, and are trying to prevent another. We all enjoy good friends, good neighbors, good communities. Nearly everyone does something to make life a little better. . and most suceed.

Even the energy crisis has a good side. Almost universally we have responsded to a request to stretch the energy which is available. In fact, not since World War II have we the people worked so hard... together...in a common cause.

No evidence of a fractured nation in this crisis. Read your local paper. Listen to that nearby radio station. I'm betting that they'll tell you what happens in 1974—and that most of it will be good news.

You Sell?

Fancy yourself to be a pretty good salesman? Then maybe you would like to hear about a super salesman as reported by John Pfund in his column in the Norman County Index:

So you think you are a good salesman? Well, gang, let me tell you about the world's greatest car-truck salesman! He calls himself the Babe Ruth of the U.S. auto business. His boss thinks he's "unbelievable." And his competitors say he's the most unpopular guy ever to sit in a car showroom. To his customers, however, he's simply "Joe."

Joe Girard has been the world's No. 1 car and truck salesman for the last eight years in a row; the man who sold 1,425 Chevrolet cars and trucks last year and earned $180,000 by offering deals on cars no one else could match. So far this year his sales are down 10 per cent from his record pace in 1973. "It's getting better though," he says. "Most dealers are down 30 to 50 per cent."

On a recent Thursday, he sold three cars and two trucks within a four-hour span. While other salesmen in the dealership were sitting around waiting for customers, Girard has prospective buyers lining up outside his office.

Born to an impoverished Italian family on Detroit's Lower East Side, he began working at age 10 as a shoeshine boy. He dropped out of high school and tried his luck at a variety of jobs, but nothing clicked until 10 years ago when he was given a chance at selling cars. Today, he, his wife, and two sons live in an expensive home in Grosse Pointe Woods, a posh Detroit suburb. He drives a white Cadillac Eldorado and wears a $7,000 diamond ring.

His fame even has spread overseas. Last year a Japanese automaker held a national sales contest. The top prize was a trip to Detroit and a personal visit with Joe Girard.

Thinking Straight

Following editorial is from the Murray County Herald at Slayton:

Ancher Nelsen of Minnesota's second district may be retiring from the congress this year, but he is still thinking straight. Last week he proposed that federal air quality standards be relaxed in certain rural areas so that electric power companies can build coal-powered generating plants in those areas.

The Herald agrees with Nelsen's thinking. In fact, we feel that the entire area of pollution should be re-examined in this time of shortage even though the whole concept of pollution control is still in its infancy. The infant, we believe, needs a change.

Pollution control in all areas is a necessary thing, but there are times when firm and fast rules must be modified to meet current needs and demands. This is one of those times.

It is not possible to set up a firm set of rules regarding pollutionas it affects air, water or land. Different areas should be zoned, and different rules should apply in the different zones. A hot mix bituminous plant, for example, operating without pollution control devices in sparsely populated areas is of little consequence. The same unequipped plant operating in Los Angeles or New York or other metropolitan areas adds greatly to an already unbearable situation. Water and land use represents a similar problem. In some cases, for example, it might be necessary to bring our minor pollution problems in order to ease the current energy crisis. A myriad of examples could be noted.

As Nelsen said, it is time to ease air quality rules. It is also time to ease a lot of others as human needs and times demand. We do not believe the people of the country should be allowed to run hog wild in the desecreation of our air, lakes, land and streams—but we do believe that the nation may have gone just a bit overboard on this subject. It is time for re-evaluation.

Reading Habits

Following editorial is from "The Teller" at Milner, N.D.:

Some among us are not too old to remember the time when it was widely assumed that television was going to make reading obsolete. When television sets became common, it was predicted, books, magazines and other reading material would no longer be required.

Well, it hasn't quite worked out that way, although it is true that 94 per cent of all households in the United States now have at least one television set, and many homes have (two or more. The Christopher News Notes reports, in their February, 1974 issue, that U.S. consumption of reading material is booming. Here are some of the) figures:

Last year, over 18 billion pounds of newsprint were used—and the demands are increasing.

There are now 4,255 newspapers in our country, in addition to 2,037 other periodicals and publications. Last year nearly 22,000 new books were published, with circulation in the millions. Clearly, Americans have not stopped reading. Indeed, as leisure time increases, people will have more opportunity to read.

In light of these facts, The Christophers offer some guide lines; and they suggest that you ask yourself these questions:

Do I read with a critical eye, trying to distinguish between fact and fiction?

Do I remain open to new insights? Or do I limit myself only to newspapers and magazines I agree with?

Do I support—and use—my public library?

Do I back worthwhile publications with my purchasing dollar? Or do I merely complain about the lowering standards in reading material?

Of course it is good news to us that people still look to their local newspapers as their major source of day-to-day information. We suggest that the reason is that in spite of the widespread complaints of "news slanting" and "bias in the press," most newspapers are doing a good job in bringing to the people what they want; accurate and up-to-date news stories of importance to the community, and to the country.

Mother's Day Is Special Day For CARE Recipients

Splendor of Mother's Day as we know it has the people at CARE devising ways of exporting some of that love and tribute. They are thinking of the starving mothers and undernourished children overseas. Particularly the victims of famine in West Africa, the refugee children in Cambodia, the mothers without drinkable water in Latin America.

CARE has come up with the idea of combining a Mother's Day greeting with help for mothers not so lucky as our own. It works this way: With a contribution check to CARE goes the name and address of the person to be honored—Mother, grandmother, mother-in-law, like-a-mother-to-me, wife, mothers of friends, etc. They get a Mother's Day greeting saying mothers overseas are helped in her name. The person making the contribution signs the notice-card.

CARE suggests $2 or more per name because that amount will result in 600 bowls of high-protein porridge for children, for example. $5 equips a CARE-MEDICO team with suturing materials for 20 simple operations; $10 delivers seed for 5,000 lbs. of fresh vegetables.

CARE's Midwest Regional office at 125 East Wells St., Milwaukee, Wis., 53202, where the idea began to catch on, reports a growing interest from the 'spiritual' standpoint. Says director Harold Gauer: "With the added dimension of helping others, the annual tribute to Mother has become more meaningful. Donors like to add the CARE touch to whatever they buy for this occasion."

He noted, however, that donors would rather have CARE put their names in the notice-cards and mail them direct to Mother as the May 12 deadline nears. With an eye on CARE's reputation for pinching every penny to make the delivered aid stretch to its maximum, he hopes donors will help with the extra postage involved.

Gas Conservation Measures Are Still Important

Lifting of the recent oil embargo, more gasoline stations pumping fuel longer hours, Sunday gasoline sales and the disappearance of long gas lines have given many motorists the feeling that the gas shortage is behind us, and the days of unlimited carefree driving are just around the corner.

Unfortunately, such is not the case.

Oil experts indicate that the U.S. still faces major long-term energy problems. Our country is still dependent on oil imports—both crude and refined—to meet our demands.

The current situation regarding the availability of oil is unstable because the oil producing countries have lifted the embargo on what they call a trail or temporary basis, and a firm price structure for oil has not been formulated.

While many motorists have faced hardships the past few months, excellent cooperation, generally, by motorists practicing fuel conserving measures helped prevent the fuel shortage from becoming critical nationwide. Car pools, gas-saving driving habits and regular maintenance to keep cars performing at peak efficiency all helped to reduce the consumption of fuel by about 15 per cent from anticipated levels, according to industry sources. The fuel shortage, by the way, made many motorists realize how dependent they really are on the automobile for essential needs.

As we approach the traditionally heavy driving season, the time of vacation trips, graduations, weddings, etc., plus other energy-consuming leisure time activities such as boating, fuel supplies are expected to be about the same as last summer. But in the meantime we have added about four million cars on our nation's highways.

Based on the best available facts, there are about 10,000 more licensed drivers in the U.S. every day and about 8,000 more cars in use per day, therefore, consumption requirements continue to increase.

In order to have fuel for the things you want to do this summer, fuel conservation measures that you followed during the fuel crisis are still necessary.

Unemployment Rate Goes Down From February

Minnesota's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate for March was 5.1 per cent, down 0.2 of a percentage point from February but up 0.4 of a percentage point from March a year ago, according to commissioner Emmet J. Cushing of the Minnesota department of employment services.

The Minnesota unemployment rate for March is the same as the national rate, he added.

The number of persons unemployed in March totaled 100,200, down 2,300 or 2.1 per cent from February. However, the number of unemployed was up 10,900 (11.4 per cent) compared to March 1973, Cushing said.

Nonagricultural wage and salary employment in March was 1,451,300, an increase of 10,900 (or 0.8 per cent) over February and 67,000 (4.8 per cent) over March of 1973.

Cushing said manufacturing employment (336,900) advanced 2,700 from February and 18,200 from March of last year. Nonmanufacturing employment (1,114,400) was up 8,200 (0.7 per cent) from February and 48,800 (4.6 per cent) from March of 1973. Greatest increases came in the Trades and Services Industries categories.

The Automotive category, which had been averaging over-the-year employment increases of about 350 for the past five years, showed a loss of 1,000 workers since March of 1973. Transportation Equipment employment also declined 1,100 from the previous March. Cushing said the uncertain gasoline supply situation and the switch to smaller cars contributed to the downturn but the exact impact cannot be determined.

During March, production workers in manufacturing received an average wage of $179.86 for working 40.6 hours at $4.43 per hour, unchanged from February but up $9.30 from March a year ago primarily due to a 27 cent increase in the hourly wage.

Minnesota junior college athletic association (MJCAA) announced Friday that Ken Wiebolt, dean of students at Northland community college in Thief River Falls, has been elected president of the MJCAA for the 1974-75 school year.

Wiebolt, active in his association with the MJCAA for a number of years while representing Northland, served as the league's president-elect during the 1973-74 period.

The MJCAA, organized for the supervision and promotion of intercollegiate athletic competition throughout the state, is a 22 member organization that includes 18 state community colleges, two private junior colleges and two University of Minnesota technical colleges.

Leon Elseth, a 1966 graduate of Newfolden high school where he starred in both football and track, was recently named head football coach at Rothsay high school.

Rothsay athletic director Bill Rose made the announcement of Elseth's hiring on Friday.

Elseth, a Moorhead State College graduate, served as an assistant basketball coach at Strandquist for three years and has been an assistant basketball coach at Rothsay the last two years.

Rose pointed out that Elseth, who will be replacing Gerhard Meidt, will be taking over a football program that won the first nine-man state football championship in 1972 before bowing in the state semifinals by eventual champion Lake Benton last fall.

Rothsay, hometown of Minnesota Twins pitcher Dave Goltz who is currently pitching triple AAA ball this season after sticking with the Twins last year, is generally recognized as one of the prized smaller school coaching spots in the state.

Lincoln high school head basketball coach Lee Swanson announced Thursday that the 1974-75 Prowler basketball schedule has already been finalized.

Two new opponents will appear on next year's Prowler schedule, with Thief River Falls adding perennial sub district 31 power Alvarado and 1974 North Dakota state champion Grand Forks Central.

The 11 Thief River Falls 1974-75 home games will feature Alvarado, Grand Forks Central, Breckenridge, Fosston, Ada, Bemidji, Crookston, Mahnomen, Warren, East Grand Forks and Argyle.

Prowler road trips next season will include games at Roseau, Grafton, East Grand Forks, Stephen, Fergus Falls, Crookston, Bemidji, Warren and Moorhead.

Although two new opponents will appear on the new Prowler schedule, Thief River Falls will still face everyone on the 1973-74 schedule.

Thief River Falls will host a Christmas classic Friday and Saturday, December 20 and 21. Friday's games will have Fosston playing Karlstad and Thief River Falls facing Breckenridge. Saturday's encounters pit Breckenridge against Karlstad and Thief River Falls against Fosston.

It should also be noted that all regular season 1974-75 Prowler games will start at 7:30 p.m. instead of the old 8 o'clock starting times.

NCC Net Team Triumphs 6-3

Northland community college tennis team opened its 1974 season on a winning note Thursday as the Northmen stopped visiting Fergus Falls 6-3 on the Thief River Falls courts.

The two MJCAA foes split four singles and two doubles decisions, but Northland picked up three points by forfeits to open the spring campaign with a win.

Northland singles winners included Ken Lindblom who defeated Jeff Mitzell 6-2, 7-6 in the second single and Mike Engen who posted a 6-1, 6-1 win over Pam Ness in the fourth singles.

Fergus Falls picked up singles wins when Jeff Heyer beat Vern Lindquist 7-6, 6-4 in the first singles and when Rod Anderson stopped Richard Skallet 6-4, 6-3 in the third singles.

Northland's second doubles team of Engen and Skallet defeated Fergus Falls' Anderson and Ness 6-3, 6-1. Fergus Falls won the first doubles decision with Heyer and Mitzell beating Lindblom and Lindquist 4-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Fergus Falls forfeited the fifth and sixth singles and the third doubles matches.

Other members of the 1974 Northland tennis team coached by Orrin Bendickson include Rod Schmidt, Merlin Nelson and Tom Kays.

Northland was scheduled to be back in action today (Monday) against Crookston Tech on the Thief River Falls courts, starting at 1 p.m.

NEWFOLDEN PTICHER Dan Magner was tripped up by Thief River Falls base runner Cliff Shumway on this play at the plate in the first inning of Friday's baseball game played at Strandquist. Shumway scored the first run of the game and the first run of the 1974 season for the Prowlers on a wild pitch. Thief River Falls won the game 18-4.

Prowlers Beat Newfolden 18-4

After three season opening postponements, coach Ralph Skay's Lincoln high school baseball team made the most of an opportunity to play Friday as the Prowlers belted Newfolden 18-4 in a game played at Strandquist.

With its season opener tucked away, the Prowler will tackle an ambitious four game schedule this week, beginning tomorrow (Tuesday) when Thief River Falls plays a split double-header against Warroad and Roseau. The Prowlers play at Warroad at 2 p.m. and then hurry to Roseau for a 4:30 contest. Thief River Falls will be on the road again Friday when the Prowlers face defending state champion Bemidji in a 3 and 5 p.m. double-header. The Prowlers won't open their home field schedule until Fri., May 3, when Thief River Falls hosts Breckenridge in a 4 and 6½ p.m. twin-bill on the fairgrounds diamond.

Friday's season opener found the Prowlers in complete command all the way as Thief River Falls opened up a 10-0 fifth inning lead to lay claim to a ten-run rule triumph, but both coaches decided to take advantage of the sunny weather to play a complete seven inning game that ended 18-4.

Shortstop Cliff Shumway scored the first Prowler run of the season in the first inning as he walked, stole second, advanced to third on a passed ball and scored on a wild pitch.

That first inning formula was copied throughout the game's early innings as the Prowlers opened up a 6-0 second inning and 7-0 third inning lead despite getting just one base hit. The Prowlers did eventually pick up 11 hits in the game, but only six off Newfolden starter Dan Magner who was victimized by 11 walks, five wild pitches, two passed balls, two hit batters and three errors.

The only time Prowler hitters got a good piece of the ball against Magner came in the fifth inning when Joel Folger lashed a hard hit single through the left side and scored moments later scored when Randy Dallmann smashed a long homerun into a plowed field behind the fence-less Strandquist rightfield to push the Prowlers in front 10-0.

Kevin Sethre replaced Magner on the mound to start the sixth inning and the Prowlers plated seven more runs for a 17-0 bulge. Prowler reserves touched Sethre for five hits and the Newfolden righthander walked five others in an elongated inning.

The Nordics got on the scoreboard in the bottom of the sixth when a run producing single by Randy Hanson was followed by a long three run homer to right field by Magner.

Senior righthander Jeff Langlie started on the mound for the Prowlers and picked up the win. Skay employed three different pitchers in brief two inning stints as Langlie, Folger, Chris Biegner and Shumway all pitched for the Prowlers. Shumway pitched the final inning.

"We got a chance to play; that's the big thing," surmised Skay who became increasingly frustrated at the season opening delay. "I thought the first part of the game was pretty well played," said Skay. "We didn't hit the ball to well at the start, but that will come along. We were able to get 17 ball players in the game and that's another big plus for us."

NCC Rained Out; Will Face UMTC At RLF Tuesday

Northland community college baseball team weathered out of yet another scheduled season opening double-header Saturday when wet grounds forced postponement of a Northland-Fergus Falls twin-bill on the Thief River Falls fairgrounds diamond.

Coach Chet Engelman's Northland ball club was originally scheduled to open its 1974 season two weeks ago, but wet spring weather has caused postponement of five straight scheduled double-headers.

Northland is currently scheduled to open the delayed 1974 season tomorrow (Tuesday) against Crookston Tech on the Red Lake Falls diamond-weather permitting-beginning at 2 p.m.

The Northmen are also scheduled to host Fergus Falls Wednesday at 11:30 a.m.; travel to Ely to face Vermilion Friday at 2 p.m.; and then journey to Hibbing Saturday to play at 1 p.m.

All four of the scheduled Northland games will be MJCAA Northern Divison double-headers.

TRF 0

Defending region eight champion Bemidji displayed why the veteran Lumberjacks are a near shoo-in for another region title this spring by handcuffing the Prowlers 5-0 Wednesday in the Bemidji State College arena.

Playing with senior lettermen at every position, Bemidji swept through all five encounters against the Prowlers.

Bemidji's Scott Bjella stopped Thief River Falls' Tim Engelstad 6-1, 7-5 in the first singles and Lumberjack teammate Lyle Lolie added a 6-4, 6-1 win over the Prowlers' Dale Miller, who switched from doubles to singles play for the first time this season, in the second singles. Bemidji's Sam Deweese outpointed Thief River Falls' Brian Waale 2-6, 6-3, 6-4 in the third singles.

In doubles competition, Bemidji's Dale Kullhem and Virgil Mallbratten combined to beat Thief River Falls' Scott Engelstad and Keith Brieland 6-0, 6-2 in the number one doubles and Lumberjack teammates Kirby Shofner and Terry Menge defeated Gary Laidley and Terry Sullivan of Thief River Falls 6-0, 6-2, in the second doubles.

Thief River Falls and Crookston split two doubles events, but the strong Pirate squad captured two of the three singles matches to edge the Prowlers 3-2 in Thursday's meet on the Thief River Falls courts.

Crookston ace Brent Reichert, a junior who's been playing in state tournaments since his freshman year, powered his way past Tim Engelstad 6-0, 6-2 in the first single and Crookston's Chuck Olson got by Breiland 6-4, 6-3 in the decisive second singles. Waale scored the lone Prowler singles win by beating Crookston's Guy Marten 6-1, 6-0 in the third singles.

Crooksoon's Mike Wilkins and Pat Shanahan stopped Scott Engelstad and Miller 6-2, 7-5 in the first doubles before Laidley and Sullivan registered a 6-1, 6-2 triumph over Crookston's Paula Hirsh and Mick Butenhoff in the second doubles.

PROWLER TEAM captain Tim Engelstad became twisted while trying to return a shot by Crookston stand-out Brent Reichert during Thursday's high school tennis action on the Thief River Falls courts. Reichert, a junior who's already won two individual region eight championships, registered a 6-0, 6-2 number one signles win over Engelstad to help lead the Pirates to a 3-2 triumph.

Lincoln high school track team ventured outside for the first time this spring Saturday when the Prowler thinclads participated in the annual Sioux outdoor invitational meet, held this year at Cushman field in Grand Forks.

Grand Forks Central won the Sioux title with 50½ points, followed by Grand Forks Red River with 39½, Fargo North 34, Grafton 29, Fargo Shanley 24, Moorhead 21, Dilworth 20, Thief River Falls 15, Bemidji 14, West Kildonan 12, Langdon 9, Stephen 8, Park River 6, Cavalier and East Grand Forks 2 each and Bagley and Crookston 1 each.

Area track fans noticing the low point totals of the strong Moorhead and Crookston squads should be reminded that most of the Spuds' and Pirates' top performers spent the weekend taking part in the Burnsville relays in the Twin Cities while skeleton teams competed at Grand Forks.

For the first time since the season opening Shanley invitational, Thief River Falls failed to pick up a first place meet finish Saturday.

Second place finishes by Jerry Sandahl in both the 120 yard high and 180 yard low hurdles and by Tony Dorn in the discus competition were the top Prowler Sioux performances. Sandahl was clocked in 15.5 in the highs and 20.1 in the lows. Bemidji's Jay Aakhus won the highs in 15.1 and Max Feight of Fargo North nipped Sandahl in the lows with a 20.0. Dorn tossed the discus for the first time this season and registered a new Lincoln school record 153-2 effort. Rod Ulland of Central won the event with a toss of 163-10.

Other Sioux point producing finishes included a fourth by Joe Sorvig in the low hurdles with a 21.0 clocking and a fifth by Brian Phelps in the two mile run with a new Lincoln record time of 10:16.

Prowler coach Marv Walter also pointed out performances by Greg Leach in the long jump and by Mark Haroldson in the pole vault for strong Sioux efforts. Leach turned in his best jump of the spring at 18-11½ and Haroldson cleared the 10 foot mark for his best spring performance.

The Prowlers are scheduled to be back in action Saturday when Thief River Falls hosts the annual Quentin Jones Jaycees invitational meet.

NCC Golfers Host Invitational Meet

Northland community college will host its fifth annual Northland invitational golf tournament Wednesday, starting at 11 a.m. on the Thief River golf club course.

Community college golf teams from Fergus Falls, Crookston, Itasca and Northland will compete in the four team meet.

Coach Al Adams' Northland squad will be seeking its third straight season opening invitational title in Wednesday's outing. The Northmen claimed earlier meet championships at Fergus Falls and Anoka Ramsey invitationals, establishing themselves as one of the top teams in MJCAA state and NJCAA region XIII competition.

The entire Northland squad is expected to golf Wednesday, but only five players can compete as a team, with the low four scores counting in the final team standings.

Adams pointed out that players are still jocking for positions on the Northland squad. Sophomores Lee Sorensen and Jay Moum were medalists in the first two Northland meets this spring. Other Northland varsity candidates include sophomore Mark Metusalem and freshmen Dick Penning, Jim Strandemo, Dave Kjos and Kirk Whalley.

Northland will also be in action tomorrow (Tuesday) when the squad takes on the Moorhead State College junior varsity on the Moorhead county club course.

Adams announced a pair of additional meets were added to the Northland schedule recently. Northland will host the Bemidji State College junior varsity Thurs., May 3, and will travel to Bemidji for a triangular meet against the Bemidji JV's and Itasca Tues., May 7.

Northland will also compete in an invitational meet at Crookston Wed., May 8, before taking part in the MJCAA Northern Division meet at Gand Rapids Tues., May 14. The MJCAA state and NJCAA region XIII meets will be held simultaneously at Anoka on Monday and Tuesday, May 20 and 21.

Bass Season

Minnesota's bass season on inland waters opens on June 1 and runs until February 15, 1975.

There is a law on the books which would give the commissioner of the DNR the power to open the bass season the same time the walleye season opens. In fact, there are some areas in the state where you may catch the bass beginning on May 18. These areas include the Canada-Minnesota boundary waters. There is no closed season on the Mississippi river and Lake Pepin.

The opening day for bass fishing on the South Dakota-Minnesota and the Iowa-Minnesota boundary waters is May 4.

Bass fishing in Minnesota should get more publicity. Minnesota has some of the finest bass lakes in the nation. It is said that Basswood Lake at Ely is the finest smallmouthed bass lake in the world.

A large female bass will lay as many as 35,000 eggs. Once the eggs are hatched the swarm of bass fry stays around the nest for a week or so with the male bass on duty as a guard. After that, its every little bass for himself, since the male bass turns cannibal and begins to feed on his own offspring.

Chuck Burrows, Minnesota's fisheries supervisor, and one of the nation's top authorities on the bass, will tell you that 15 to 20 successful nests are all that are necessary to stock a 300 to 600 acre lake.

Waterfowl Association

While visiting at the recent northwest sportsmen's show we became acquainted with the Minnesota waterfowl associaton. This organization was first founded in southern Minnesota with Albert Lea as its corporation address. Since it's inception many chapters have been founded in other counties in Minnesota. The association has made a major breakthrough in legislation that brought to Minnesota its first waterfowl managment lake.

Those interested may obtain more information by writing to the Minnesota waterfowl association, box 72, Albert Lea, Minnesota 56007.

Earth Week

The week of April 21 through April 27 is Minnesota earth week. This is a period of time when all Minnesota citizens are urged to review and assess environmental progress and determine what further steps must be taken to continue the nationwide effort of education on environmental problems.

Governor Wendell Anderson in proclaiming Minnesota earth week said:

"WHEREAS: Minnesota is endowed with a great variety and abundance of natural resources including 15,000 lakes, 25,000 miles of rivers and streams, fertile soils, lush green forests and clean air and water; and

WHEREAS: the key to preserving and protecting our bountiful natural gifts is an informed and educated public, aware of the effects of their adopted lifestyles on these resources; and

"WHEREAS: for the past years, earth week activities in thousands of colleges and universities, high schools and grade schools and communities throughout Minnesota and the nation have enlightened and involved a wide spectrum of Americans of all ages, interests and political persuasions; and

"WHEREAS: these earth week activities represent and promote a greater awareness and understanding of the urgent environmental and energy-related problems facing the state of Minnesota and the nation; and

"WHEREAS: there is a continuing need for our educational institutions, stte and federal agencies, civic and private organizations and dedicated individuals to observe earth week in Minnesota with appropriate programs, demonstratons and ceremonies designed to rededicate ourselves to the task of wise use of our energy and natural resources and to perpetuate the search for new approaches and programs to ensure Minnesota's environmental wealth and quality of life for the future.

Now, therefore, I, Wendell R. Anderson, governor of the state of Minnesota, do hereby proclaim the week of April 21 through the 27, 1974, to be Minnesota earth week.

Governor's Fishing Party

The 1974 governor's fishing party will be held the weekend of May 17-19 at Quadna Mountain Lodge at Hill City.

This column has suggested on several occasions that this party be held after the bass season opens in as much as the bass is a very popular fish among outdoor writers. Under present arrangements the walleye, northern, crappies and blue gills will be the targets; bass caught must be returned to the lake. Minnesota has some of the finest bass lakes in the nation and bass deserves the publicity the walleye gets.

More than 150 outdoors writers are expected to join governor Anderson in the annual event.

Jerry Sevada, regional fisheries manager for the department of natural resources, said that lakes within a 20-mile radious of Quadna "are excellent" and are well stocked with northerns and walleyes. Among the lakes to be fished are Sugar, Big Sandy, Pokegama, Split Hand, Big Bass, Hill and Minnewawa.

Among the highlights of the three-day event will be an awards banquet on Saturday night in which economic development commissioner James R. Heltzer will address the outdoor writers group.

Goodridge Baseball Squad Splits Pair Of Season Openers

Goodridge completed its first week of the 1974 baseball season with a 1-1 record Thursday by beating Red Lake Falls 11-10 after the Huskies dropped a season opening 13-11 decision to Redlake on Tuesday.

Coach Mike Borgman's Goodridge squad was scheduled to be back in action today (Monday) at Fisher.

Goodridge jumped out to a 10-6 fourth inning lead and then held off a seventh inning Red Lake Falls rally to post a high scoring 11-10 Polar Conference win on the Red Lake Falls diamond Thursday afternoon.

Howard Vigen duplicated a first game four for five performance at the plate against the Eagles to lead a 13 hit Goodridge attack. Don Grabowska shared the game's offensive spotlight with a three for five effort and Steve Paulson collected two hits in three at-bats for the Huskies.

Goodridge earned a 5-4 first inning lead, stretched the margin to 9-4 after two innings and enjoyed a comfortable 10-5 cushion after four complete innings. Red Lake Falls narrowed the gap to 10-7 in the fifth and picked up three more runs in the last half inning to make things close.

Tom Bendickson withstood a nine hit Red Lake Falls attack to pick up the pitching triumph, with the senior righthander turning in a complete game effort.

Redlake exploded for nine runs in the fourth inning to Tuesday's season opener and the host Warriors held on to defeat the Huskies 13-11.

Five Goodridge errors helped the Warriors who collected nine hits off Bendickson and reliever Arden Hyland. Bendickson pitched the first five innings and suffered the loss.

The two teams traded first inning runs before Goodridge moved out to 4-3 and 5-3 leads at the second and third stops. Redlake bolted in front 12-6 in the fourth inning, but Goodridge rallied to trim the margin to just 13-11 in the Huskies' half of the fifth. After combining for 24 runs in the first five innings, surprisingly, neither team scored in the game's final two frames.

Vigen sparked an 11 hit Goodridge attack by going four for five at the plate. Bendickson and Rick Easthouse both picked up a pair of hits in four at-bats, with Bendickson driving in three runs.

CROOKSTON TENNIS ace Brent Reichert, a junior who has already won the region eight singles title for the past two years, returned a shot by Thief River Falls' Tim Engelstad on the play during Thursday's match on the Thief River Falls courts. Reichert defeated Engelstad 6-0, 6-2 as the Pirates won the match 3-2.

NCC And AVTI To Hold Education Career Day Tues.

Tomorrow (Tuesday) Northland community college and the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute will be sponsoring an education career day for high school students from Bagley, Clearbrook and Waubun.

The career day will be held on the Northland campus from 9:45-1:30 p.m., beginning with an opening welcome by president Victor Charles.

Beginning at 10 a.m. the students will hear presentations on a number of career topics by panel members: Employment counseling, Gary Peterson (Minnesota Manpower Services); financial aids program, Martin Ela (Moorhead state college); University of Minnesota, Ken Johnson (University of Minnesota technical college, Crookston); Minnesota state colleges, Mike Merrick (Moorhead state college); Minnesota area vocational-technical institutes, Robert Reeve (Thief River Falls AVTI); Minnesota community colleges, Ken Wiebolt (Northland community college).

From 11-12 noon, the students will be assigned to six group discussion sessions with an opportunity for students to ask questions pertaining to career education. At noon, lunch will be served to students at the Thief River Falls AVTI with building tours of the AVTI and Northland following the lunch. Group discussions will continue from 1-1:30 p.m. and adjournment is scheduled for 1:30 p.m.

This is the third career day that will be held for area high school students during this school year by Northland and the AVTI. It was one year ago that the first education career day was held at Northland and because of its popular reception it will be expanded to include more area schools in the future.

Road And Bridge Building Hurt By Revenue Cut

Road and bridge construction in Minnesota during the first quarter of 1974 fell to about half of what it was during the same period last year. Soaring materials costs and reduced highway user revenues have seriously limited the capabilities of local road-building authorities, whose construction accounts for almost 50 per cent of such work under normal circumstances.

Typical of the problems faced by county highway authorities are those of county highway engineer Larry Schaub of Stearns county. Ordinarily, 52 per cent of the county's road budget comes from state highway user fund revenues. Two-thirds of those revenues are derived from the state tax on gasoline of seven cents a gallon. With gasoline consumption down, the 29 per cent of state highway user fund proceeds shared by the counties has shrunk correspondingly.

As an example of how materials costs have increased, Schaub told Stearns county commissioners that the cost of road oil had risen from $42 a ton just last October to $90 a ton today.

The county road and bridge property tax levy usually provides 42 per cent of Schaub's budget. As state law forbids increasing it more than six per cent a year, little help can be expected from that quarter. Only two of the 10 road improvement projects programmed in 1972 have been completed, Schaub said. Normally, the county would complete two or three projects a year. Federal aid, which usually makes up the remaining six per cent of the budget, is of no help. The money may be used only on federal-aid routes, and all of them are in good condition.

"The availability of funds continues to run far behind our needs," Schaub said, "and as time passes we are falling further and further behind."

He warned that if nothing is done to alleviate the situation, road maintenance will consume more and more of the funds available, with less remaining for improvements.

According to the latest figures on road improvement costs published by the Federal Highway Administration, construction costs have risen nearly 70 per cent in the last six years. There has been no increase in the state gasoline tax since 1967.

UFF DA DAYS chairman Phil Hess (right) presented a plaque to Les Torgerson (center) on Wednesday recognizing his efforts and those of Heidi Bornholdt and other members of the community college choir for their contribution to the recent UFF Da days sales promotion sponsored by the chamber of commerce. The college's music department wrote and performed "Uff Days Are Here Again", a song used in the sales promotion's radio advertising. Miss Bornholdt wrote the lyrics while Les Torgerson arranged the music and directed the recording prepared by the choir. Bill Duckworth, chairman of the chamber's retail committee, also participated in the plaque presentation.

33 Appointed By HECC To Head New Commission

Minnesota higher education coordinating commission has appointed 33 persons and invited them to serve on the new Minnesota state post-secondary education planning commission.

The new commission was established under executive order number 82 which Governor Wendell Anderson issued on April 9. Purpose of the new commission is to fulfill responsibilities designated under Sections 1202 and 1203 of the federal higher education act of 1965 as amended. The two sections provide funds to support post-secondary education planning by state commissions.

According to the executive order, the new planning commission must periodically report on the status of its activities to the higher education coordinating commission with formal reports due before Sept. 1, 1974 and June 30, 1975. Reports must include results of any planning activities and any data and recommendations which members of the planning commission think should be considered by HECC.

The commission includes 15 members "broadly and equitably" representative of the general public, as required by federal law.

In addition, it includes 18 members representing post-secondary education institutions in Minnesota. They were selected from nominations submitted by the state's six systems of post-secondary education—three from the University of Minnesota, three from the community college system, three from the state college system, three from private nonprofit and proprietary post-secondary vocational institutes, three from private two and four-year collegiate institutions and three from public area vocational-technical institutes.

At least one of the three from each post-secondary group is a student or faculty member without administrative responsibilities. Members will serve for a term of not more than two years.

Congress has appropriated a total of $1 million for fund applications for fiscal year 1974 for states which qualify.

Higher education coordinating commission is a state agency created by the Legislature in 1965 to study and analyze all phases of post-secondary education in Minnesota and to administer several state and federal programs.

Need Less Proof To Apply For Vets Benefits

Veterans administration advised veterans recently not to allow loss of a birth certificate or marriage license to stop them from applying for benefits.

Leo A. Bodde, acting director of the VA center at Fort Snelling, cited a regulation in effect since October of 1971 under which less formal proof of marriage and birth are acceptable in establishing claims for higher benefits.

A veterans's or widow's certified statement of marriage is sufficient on applications for compensation and education benefits for veterans, widows and orphaned children, provided neither he nor his wife has been married before, and the VA has no contradictory information on file, he said.

Also, a certified statement is now acceptable regarding birth of a child, in a veteran's marriage, and as proof of age and relationship in disability cases. Before the regulation change, VA required all statements of marriages and births to be supported by formalized documentary evidence.

He said that certified statements also are sufficient in death cases where a claimant's statements corroborate those of a veteran in connection with a claim for any VA benefit.

Food Disposal Helps To Solve Garbage Problem

Garbage disposal problems of many families are acute. Collection services are very expensive and, in some areas, they're unreliable or virtually nonexistent.

For over 20 million homemakers, however, garbage poses little or no problem, the plumbing-heating-cooling information bureau points out. They're the owners of automatic food waste disposers. This compact appliance is installed beneath the kitchen sink, connected to the waste line. To operate, the user simply puts the food waste down the drain, turns on the cold water and flicks an electric switch on the wall to start the motor.

The modern disposer handles every type of food waste. It uses little water and electricity and never has to be cleaned because it's self-cleaning.

Moreover, you don't have to worry about waste clogging your pipe. Research has shown that the scouring action actually helps to keep pipes clean.

Fifth Generation On Farm East Of Brooks

Since 1888 the Robidoux farm located one-half mile east and one-half mile south of Brooks has been operated by Narcisse Robidoux or his male descendants. The farm is now owned by the founder's great-grandson, Dwight Robidoux, whose son Clayton is the fifth generation to live on the farm.

While it is somewhat unusual for a farm to remain in family ownership through several generations, it is not an entirely unique situation. Rare, however, is the farm which has been transferred from father to son for four generations over a span of 88 years.

Narcisse Robidoux homesteaded the farm in 1888 when he came to Red Lake county from Montreal, Quebec, Canada. He married Azilda Juneau in St. Francis Xavier church in Lambert with Father Fasch performing the ceremony.

First buildings on the farm were a log house and barn, both with sod roofs. Brush and timber were cleared by hand as the pioneer couple worked to farm with oxen. Later they obtained horses and were able to work at livestock and grain farming.

A new four-room log house was built in 1898 and seven of the eight children born to Narcisse and Azilda were born in that house. A barn of lumber boards was built in 1902 and other buildings added later. In 1914 an eight-room house was built and the last of the eight children, Olivene, was born there.

Children included Napoleon, Mary (Mrs. Pat Audette), Albina (Mrs. Louis Desautel) now deceased, Peter, Narcisse Jr., and Olivene (Mrs. John Juneau), all of Brooks, Eliza (Mrs. John Mattala) of Pequot Lakes and Ralph of Thief River Falls.

Narcisse was active in church and community work. He did local blacksmithing for people of the area before the village of Brooks came into being. For many years he was secretary of the school board. His wife was active in church work and a member of the Ladies of St. Anne society.

"Beautify Thief River Week"

Spring Clean-Up Campaign Slated

In an effort to coordinate a community-wide spring clean-up campaign, the week of May 6-11 has been designated "Beautify Thief River Week" in Thief River Falls. Mayor Robert Carlson has officially proclaimed the event and a number of special activities are being planned.

With all citizens being urged to clean up their own areas—both residential and commercial—youngsters of the community will become involved in several different ways. Mayor Carlson and the community symbol of spring clen-up efforts, Mr. Pride, will visit all elementary schools in the city.

Youngsters will also participate in the parade Saturday morning, May 11. A decorated bicycle contest will be held with ribbon prizes to be awarded for the best three entries in each of four divisions—including one for senior citizens.

Parade assembly will be at 9:30 a.m. on May 11 at the city parking lot on Knight avenue and Third street. The parade will start at 10 a.m. and the route will be down Third street to Horace avenue, south on Horace to Second street and west on Second street to the parking lot for dispersal.

In addition to the decorated bicycles (which will be judged following the parade at the parking lot), the parade will include a police car, TRFinettes drum and bugle corps, Mayor Carlson and Mr. Pride, Lincoln high school band, Franklin middle school band, Arctic Enterprises trash collection truck, city street washer and sweeper, city sanitation department truck and merchants dressed in cleaning clothes.

Divisions for the decorated bicycle contest include ages six through nine, 10 through 13, 14 and over and senior citizens.

In proclaiming "Beautify Thief River Week", Mayor Carlson noted that the citizens of the community have "excellent reasons to be proud" of Thief River Falls.

"There are areas of our community that need attention," he said, "both residential and downtown, which are now cluttered with debris of all kinds

RESIDENTS in the area between First and Eighth streets and west of the Red Lake River to the city limits are being visited this week by students from Lincoln high school who are conducting an unofficial census for the city council. This area plus Countryside trailer court is being counted to determine if there has been a substantial increase in population since the last census or if a significant number of people were missed. Information gathered by these students will be used by the council to determine the advisability of requesting a new census for the city. Any increase in population gained by a new census would result in a sizeable increase in revenue for the city. The students will be asking for the number of people living at each residence and whether they were living at that address when the last census was taken. The mayor and members of the council are asking city residents to cooperate with these students.

County Board To Vote Tuesday On Ditch Project

Vote by the Pennington county board of commissioners on a request for state funds in improvement of ditches 30, 18 and 13 in Pennington county will be taken Tuesday at the regular meeting of the county board.

The ditch question, which involves a large number of property owners in the northern portion of Pennington county, will be first on the board agenda at 10 a.m. That portion of the board meeting will be held in the district courtroom rather than the commissioners' room to accommodate the people expected to attend.

At a meeting with more than 30 farmers last week, board chairman Otto Stenberg assured the group that the commissioners would take action on the request at the meeting Tuesday. It was noted at the meeting last week that 49 persons have signed a request for a pooling agreement on the ditch project and that 13 names remain on a petition opposed to the project.

Proposed is the sloping of ditch banks to 4:1 grade, seeding to permanent cover and depositing the spoil removed to form a dike on the fields adjacent to the ditch. Water control structures at the rate of approximately four per mile would be installed to provide field drainage into the ditch with a minimum of siltation.

County board approval is considered by the group favoring the project as necessary to obtain cost sharing through the state ASCS committee.

Emanuel Sells Paint And Glass Supply Store

More than 300 friends of Charles Emanuel visited the Paint & Glass Supply in Thief River Falls Tuesday from 2-4 p.m. to have a cup of coffee with "Charlie Paint" on his last official day in business in this community.

Emanuel has sold the store which his father founded in 1935 and in which he has been involved since 1946. Beginning today, May 1, the store will be owned by Rodney Brodin, Larry McDowell and Dale Dillon with Dillon to serve as manager.

E.A. Emanuel began the store in 1935 and named it Paint & Glass Supply. Carlie's brother Burt was involved in the store operation and Charlie joined the firm in 1946, later taking over total operation in 1963.

Although Emanuel has announced no definite future plans, he does intend to do some renovation on a house and several acres of land which he owns just south of Thief River Falls.

During his tenure in business here, Charlie has participated in a number of organizations. He has been a Sunday school teacher at Trinity Lutheran church for 26 years and a member of the parish board.

A past president of the Sons of Norway and Odd Fellows lodges, Charlie is also a member of the Eagles, Elks, Chamber of Commerce, Lions, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and United Commercial travelers.

The new owners will continue to operate the store in its current location for the present with expectations of moving into new quarters in the west end of the Kat Haus later this year.

Veterinarian To Be Located At Knutson Farm

Miss Mary Isaacson, 1973 graduate of the University of Minnesota's school of veterinary medicine, is in the process of arranging for the location of her veterinary practice in the Pennington and eastern Marshall county area.

Dr. Isaacson will be headquartered at the Donald Knutson farm east of Thief River Falls on highway one where a mobile home will be located as her temporary office. She later plans to use a building on the farm as a basis for her clinic.

Graduated as a mixed practitioner, Dr. Isaacson works with large and small commerical livestock as well as horses and small pets. She said that a love for animals and a desire to locate in northern Minnesota led to her earning the DVM degree and moving to this area.

Coming from a farm background in the St. Paul area, she is a graduate of St. Joseph's academy in St. Paul and also attended Bemidji state college in addition to the University of Minnesota. She has practicied in the northwestern Minnesota area since last July.

Accreditation Received By LHS

Principal Frank P. Hamerlinck of Lincoln high school announced today that the school's accreditation has been extended through the 1973-74 school year following the review and approval of its annual report at the North Central association's annual meeting. Accreditation is for one year at the time and must be renewed annually.

"Once every seven years each NCA school must undergo a comprehensive self study followed by an NCA evaluation team review," Hamerlinck explained. "This school was last evaluated in 1971. In the interim years, a school is accredited on the basis of its report on conditions existing in the school and on such supplementary information as the commission on secondary schools requests.

"Our report for 1973-74 assures us of ongoing NCA membership and accreditation. This continued accreditation means that the conditions for effective education exist in the school."

SPECIAL EQUIPMENT used in the pediatrics department of Northwestern hospital services in Thief River Falls is this Croupette unit. Mrs. Sarah Kusmak, employee of the hospital for about 30 years as a licensed practical nurse, adjusts the unit which can control humidity and oxygen and is used to relieve congestion in young patients.

Pediatrics Is Vital Unit At NW Hospital

A QUIET MOMENT in the pediatrics department of Northwestern hospital services is shared by Valli Anderson, student in practical nursing, and Paul Qualley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Qualley of Erskine and a patient in the unit. A few minutes with a favorite book in the department's play room helps patient morale.

("Get to Know Us Before You Need Us" is the theme for American Hospital Week which will be observed beginning May 12. In keeping with the theme, the Times today continues a series of articles to help acquaint the general public with departments of Northwestern hospital services in Thief River Falls.)

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

For children from infancy to age 14 who require hospitalization, the pediatrics department at Northwestern hospital services is where they will stay. The department has room for 20 patients but has not often been filled in recent years.

"Length of stay is shorter now than it used to be," says Mrs. Sarah Kusmak, licensed practical nurse who has been a part of the pediatrics department for nearly 30 years. "I suppose it averages about three to five days. And some of the things that doctors used to hospitalize youngsters for—like high fever—are treated at home with medications. There has been a big change in the availability of medications."

Except for the length of stay, improvement in medications and some changes in equipment, routine in the pediatrics department has not changed a great deal during Mrs. Kusmak's term of service.

"We still do our best to give the most and best personal care we can," she said. "The head nurse in the OB (obstetrics) department is also head nurse for peds (pronounced peeds), and the house supervisor is in charge during the supervisor's off duty shifts. If we need more help because of the number of patients we can get it."

Mrs. Kusmak and LPN students who we talked to like their work in the pediatrics department. They like the response of children and are constantly impressed by the rapidity which youngsters adjust to being in the hospital.

"I remember a burn patient we had here when he was about five years old," Mrs. Kusmak recalls. "He was here for about five months—probably as long as we have ever had a patient stay here at one time. He would follow me around every place I would let him when he became well enough to walk. He is living in Alaska now and still writes to me from time to time."

The department has never ruled against parents staying with their children in the unit if

Lutheran Women Gather At Trinity To "Listen"

From churches throughout northwestern Minnesota 380 Lutheran women gathered at Trinity Lutheran church in Thief River Falls on April 20 for the ALCW convention. A schedule including music, talks, displays, business and lunch provided a mixture of inspiration, information and fellowship around the theme "listen".

The atmosphere for worship was set as trumpeter Ron Adams and organist Mrs. Carl Nordvall led the convention in singing "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God." Mrs. Otto Lee, president of the Thief River Falls Conference of American Lutheran Church Women (ALCW), welcomed delegates, members and guests from the Lutheran Church in America (LCA). She reminded listeners that regardless of rain, a good morning is one in which friends gather to worship.

An inspirational address by Mrs. Erland Carlson of Hallock was the highlight of the program. Mrs. Carlson began her talk, "The Pain of A Listening Heart" with a series of scripture quotes including "This is my beloved Son, listen to Him." and "Be doers of the Word, not hearers only." Mrs. Carlson went on to challenge women as mothers, as wives, as friends and as citizens of the world to truly listen to the specific needs and concerns of their children, husbands, friends, lonely acquaintances, the alcoholic, the handicapped and the underprivileged around the world. She warned of the dangers of being too busy to listen. She stressed becoming involved in tiring, often unpleasant, time-consuming problems of those who need a listening ear.

Rev. Berton Hushagen, host pastor, based the morning meditation on a Biblical description of a worthy woman whose virtues include "strength, dignity, wisdom, kindness". Emphasizing the title of his message, "Run Deep, Run Silent", he pointed out the need for "growing in depth" and the need for "silence by which a woman speaks most eloquently." He advised against the modern trend of being excited by shallow things, skindeep investments, fads and gimmicks". Rev. Hushagen explained that human relationships are enduring only if one is able to be silent and really listen. He added, "To have a loving heart means to have a listening ear."

Information about helping and understanding people with visual or hearing handicaps was given by Rev. Gordon Long of Faribault. Speaking from five years of experience as chaplain for students at state schools for deaf and blind, Rev. Long invited his large audience to cooperate with and make use of the services of Ephphatha, an agency of the ALC. He challenged them to imagine what it would be like to be without sight or hearing as he flashed colored pictures on two screens and played a coordinated tape recording. He explained that the attitudes of people are extremely important to the deaf and blind who need to be included in home, community and church activity. His display materials invited those interested to write for more information to Ephphatha, Box 713 Sioux Falls, S.D.

Music for the convention, arranged by Mrs. Bill Penning began with the morning prelude presented by violinists Diane Stollman and Pat Lane. Mrs. Art Stenberg and Mrs. Nordvall played piano and organ duets for the offertory and afternoon prelude. Twelve teenage girls, the Crackerjacks, directed by John Hustad, asked vocally "Ain't it Good to Know You've God a Friend?" and reminded the conventioneers "You'll Never Walk Alone". Mrs. Charles Lund sang a solo, accompanied by Mrs. James Dalager; and Mrs. LeRoy Eliason and Mrs. Bill Penning sang "The New Twenty-third" with guitar accompaniment by Cheryl Snetting. A rhythmic reminder "to be a friend, everybody, be a listener" created the theme of the singspiration, led by Mrs. Gordon Peterson. Also underlining the listen theme were the lyrics, "Lonely Voices". the Melody of "Edelweiss" was borrowed to sing "Praise the Lord".

Mrs. Palmer Oistad, Karlstad, secretary, opened the short business meeting with a devotional encouragement—"Whatever you do in word or deed,—do all in the name of the Lord." The 79 voting delegates re-elected Mrs. Otto Lee of Baudette, as president. Mrs. Joe Yeado, Warren and Mrs. Leland Uden, Grygla, were also elected to second terms, in their respective offices as conference treasurer and secretary of education. Participating in the installation ceremony were the other current members of the executive board: Mrs. Oistad of Karlstad, secretary; Mrs. Gordon Torgerson, Warren, Secretary of Stewardship; and Mrs. Louis Hermansen, Roseau, vice president. TRF Is Added To Flood Insurance Eligibility List

National flood insurers associaton (NFIA) has announced that flood insurance has become available for residential and non-residential properties in 62 more areas of 25 more states.

Damage from flooding is not covered in standard propety insruance policies. Thief River Falls is listed as an eligible community for flood insurance.

Private insurance agents and brokers are authorized to offer flood insurance to interested owners of residential and non-residential properties. Coverage on contents also will be sold to owners and occupants of such buildings.

The insurance industry is participating in this program through the national flood insurers association, an organization representing about 125 insurance companies. These participating companies act as the servicing organizations on behalf of the association for the benefit of all agents, brokers and other companies.

The new flood coverage is being offered in accordance with requirements established by the U.S. department of housing and urban development (HUD) under the terms of the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973. The government also particpates in the flood program through government also participates in premium equalization payments, so that the subsidized average insured's pocketbook.

The federal act requies that communities interested in becoming eligible for flood insurance must take action to restrict unwise land use in flood-prone areas. They must ask HUD to arrange for detailed studies of the flood hazard in the community so actuarial rates can be established.

The amount fo flood insurance available at subsidized rates under the government's emergency program is limited to $35,000 for single family residences, with maximum of $100,000 on all other types of residential and non-residential properties. Low-cost flood insurance for contents is limited to $10,000 for single family residences and $100,000 on all other types of residential and non-residential properties. Tenants may insure contents separately.

Pediatrics Is Vital Unit For NW Hospital

they prefer to do so. In some cases, particularly with very young patients, staff members agree it is easier for the staff and patients if parents stay away. Circumstances will vary, of course, depending upon the parents, the patient and the nature of the illness.

"The younger the patient the more attention is required," Mrs. Kusmak noted. "Reasons for hospitalization include upper respiratory infections and pneumonia, burns, appendix removal or tonsilectomy and accidents causing fractures or other injuries."

All equipment needed for care of children is available in the pediatrics unit, making it unnecessary to hospitalize youngsters in other areas of the hospital. Children who are critically ill or injured may be transferred to other hospitals for specialized treatment.

Particular care is taken in safety measures—such as being sure that sides of cribs are raised. Staff members also use gowns when entering rooms to care for patients under one year old.

Although the department is not in a new area of the hospital, attempts have been made by the hospital auxiliary and LPN students to make the area as bright and cheerful as possible. Redecorating has been done, a playroom created and monthly decorations arranged.

"No youngster looks forward to a hospital stay," Mrs. Kusmak said, "but we try to do the best we can in making him or her comfortable while here and back home again as soon as possible."

C.D. Director Gives Statement On Siren Signal

Following statement was issued by Ellsworth Jorgenson, Pennington county civil defense director, after a meeting of the civil defense, city police and fire and county sheriff's departments:

"There is apparently a need to clarify the use of the siren system in Thief River Falls, particularly its use in weather warning.

"The signal—and only one used for this purpose—will be the steady or continuous tone on all of the sirens for about three minutes. When you hear this sound, immediately tune in to K.T.R.F., 1230 kc on the radio dial. If the station is not on the air, immediately take whatever protective measure you can (go to the basement, etc.). Do not, I repeat, do not call the police or fire department. They have other important obligations to perform and it is extremely important thet they have open telephone communication.

"The steady or warbling siren will be used for fire and will sound from the fire hall only and will sound for about two minutes. If this warbling tone must ever be used as an attack warning for civil defense, all sirens will sound. They will pause after two minutes and continue again and again as long as it is deemed necessary. Again turn on your radio; all the latest information will be relayed to you.

"Let me emphasize one point: There is no all clear signal. Again this information must come through radio.

"We strongly advise persons living in mobile homes to arrange for a place to go if weather threatens. Public shelters were licensed as "fallout shelters" and are not considered tornado shelters.

"If you have inquiries, please contact me before the serious problem is on us. I can be reached at 681-4044 during office hours."

Calvary Members Will Dedicate Rebuilt Church

On Sunday Calvary Lutheran church of St. Hilaire will dedicate its rebuilt structure. The service will begin at 3 p.m.

The worship service will be a service of celebration. Bishop Cecil Johnson of the Northern Minnesota district of the American Lutheran church will officiate at the dedication, with other clergymen of the area participating in the service. Choral music will be presented by the St. Pauli church choir. A coffee hour will follow the dedication service, and the public is invited to share in the worship celebration.

Project planning was begun in February of 1973. Construction began late in September, with the major construction work being completed in mid-February. Skoglund Construction of Holt did the structural work. Rude Electric of Thief River Falls did the wiring with Wilcox of Red Lake Falls doing the plumbing and heating. Finishing work was done by Palmer Forsberg of St. Hilaire, and carpeting was contracted by Marvin's Decorating.

In the course of construction an 18x52 foot addition was added to the south side of the building. The worship area was completely renovated with new windows and insulation installed and a balcony added. Drywall and new lighting fixtures were put in, the building was re-sided and new roofing installed. Painting and carpeting completed the worship area.

First 1974-75 Minn. Teacher Contract Settled

Minnesota's first 1974-75 teacher contract has been settled and teacher leaders laud it as a harbinger of good things.

The one-year contract, according to LeRoy T. Strand, elementary mathematics teacher who heads the negotiations committee for the Minnesota education association (MEA) local, at Olivia, represents an increase of 17½ per cent for 54 teachers. Last year's settlement amounted to slightly more than a four per cent increase.

Olivia teachers with baccalaureate degrees next year will earn from $8,095 to $12,190 in 12 steps—compared with this year's $7,300 to $10,600 in 11 steps. Masters degree teachers will earn from $8,803 to $13,696 in 14 steps—compared with $8,010 to $11,910 in 13 steps.

Teachers also will work two fewer days—one less teaching day and one additional holiday. The new contract also calls for two half-day workshops without pupils.

Other increases are health insurance premiums paid from $160 to $184—a 15 per cent increase; and lane changes (which result from improvements in professional qualifications) also increase 15 per cent.

Emergency Claim Service Halted At Silver Bay

As a result of the court order staying the closing of the Reserve Mining company taconite plant at Silver Bay, the Minnesota department of employment services will not be taking unemployment insurance claims at Silver Bay and Babbitt on an emergency basis, Commissioner Emmet J. Cushing announced today. However, services regularly available in these two communities will be continued, he said.

At the direction of Governor Wendell Anderson, special work forces had been set up at Silver Bay and Babbitt to take unemployment insurance claims from the large numbers of persons, expected to be out of work as a result of the closing.

When and if the plant is shut down, Cushing said, the department will reestablish special offices to give the best possible service to the area.

Cushing noted that approximately 1,500 claims were taken April 22 from persons expecting to be out of work as a result of the plant closing. These claims will be processed, but no benefits will be paid at this time.

Beef And Pork May Be Lowest Buyer Will See

Agriculture commissioner Jon Wefald declared recently that "consumers have the opportunity to buy beef and pork today at the lowest prices they may ever see because disastrous losses livestock farmers are experiencing threaten curtailed production, shortages and a new cycle of retail price increases."

Commissioner Wefald said that prices farmers receive for livestock have fallen sharply while production costs continue at all-time highs, forcing farmers to lose money on virtually every animal they sell, $12 to $20 on hogs and $100 to $200 on cattle.

"Minnesota cattle feeders lost upwards of $26 million on the 259,000 grain-fed animals they sold for beef slaughter during the first quarter of 1974. They sold at an average of barely over 40 cents a pound, while actual production costs ranged between 51 and 53 cents a pound.

"Just within the last week here in Minnesota we've seen the dairy farmers dramatize their losses on income from milk production by selling hundreds of their milk cows for slaughter. Their loss, again, is the consumers' short term gain by increasing beef supplies at bargain prices," he added.

Consumers were cautioned that the currently advantageous price and supply situation on meat and dairy products will be short-lived.

"Farmers are cutting back on both meat and dairy production to compensate for their losses. Both in Minnesota and in 23 major meat and dairy states the April 1 inventory of cattle and calves on grain feed for beef slaughter was eight per cent less than one year ago.

"Estimated cattle marketing intentions for the April-June quarter are for a one per cent drop for Minnesota and a one per cent increase in the other 22 states, compared to last year. April is expected to be the heaviest marketing month because of the large volume of heavy cattle held back by producers hoping to reduce losses on a market upturn that has failed to happen," commissioner Wefald said.

Gasoline Prices And Supplies Stay Stabilized

Average gasoline prices and supplies stablized this past week, according to The Minnesota state automobile association (AAA) and the auto clubs of Minneapolis and St. Paul.

In its weekly survey of gasoline stations around the state, the motoring organization found the average price for a gallon of regular gasoline was 54.6 cents, the same as last week. The price of a gallon of premium dropped by nearly a half-cent to 57.6 cents.

Nearly 20 per cent of the stations contacted said their gasoline supplies had significantly improved over the week before. And 72 per cent said the outlook for supplies of gas were unchanged. Only eight per cent said their outlook for gas was poorer than the week before.

The hours of operation fell off a little from the week before according to the survey. But still better than 60 per cent of the stations reported hours past 7 p.m. on weekdays and Saturdays. Only 20 per cent of the stations said they were open Sundays for sales of gasoline. This figure is down from a high of 33 per cent at the beginning of April.

St. Paul stations reported the highest average prices for gas this week. Minneapolis was next highest, and outstate stations reported the lowest average prices.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Since my last letter in which I indicated that I had my eye on the presidency, I've been doing some ground work, in order to be prepared for the position, in case the movement should catch fire (so to speak).

While wandering around aimlessly on a Sunday morning (looking for votes) I noticed a bunch of cars in front of our local church. Since cars can't get there without a driver I thought it would make good sense politically to see what was going on, that could attract so many people. So—dusting of my shoes, straightening my tie and putting on my best vote-getting smile, I walked in the door.

Would you believe that place was full of Marks? (thats the name we in the profession call voters). Not knowing what else to do I looked for a seat. I finally found one, way up front—a choice spot for a politician.

Almost immediately a handsome young man arose and started talking about brotherhood, honesty, faithfulness and all of those things so foreign to many of us in the political field. I watched the crowd out of the corner of my eye and to my surprise they were listening intently to what he said. It was quite evident they were agreeing with him.

After his speech I stood outside and watched the reaction of the voters and they all seemed happy, not the usual grumbling like there is after a Bingo game. It was beautiful.

I'm gonna have to check this out thoroughly and get acquainted with whoever it he represents, as it is obvious he must have something on the ball, in order to attract such a large group of people, and be endorsed by such a spirited and capable young man.

Who knows—I may have to alter my entire campaign strategy, if I am to continue on with my mad dash to the White House.

Jim Clemenson,
Gonvick, Minnesota

To The Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to say that in spite of all a person reads and hears about dishonesty and lawlessness, I am one—through a small experience this last weekend—who can say all people do not fall in this category.

I accidently dropped a coin purse containing a considerable amount of money at the Country Kitchen at noon on Saturday. After exhausting all other places of looking for it, a couple hours later I called and found someone had found it and turned it in to the girls that worked there. There was no identification in it. After identifying the coin purse and amount of money in it, it was returned to me.

I don't know who found it and turned it in, but I think honesty such as this should be commended. Whoever it was I say Thank You! And to the manager of the Country Kitchen, you are a lucky man to have employees with these fine attributes.

So after all you hear and see, there are still a lot of fine people in this world and God bless them all!

Sincerely,
Don Wahlbeck

Minnesota Dairy Cattle Produce New Milk Record

Minnesota dairy cows produced a new March record average of 1,050 pounds of milk apiece that resulted in the state's biggest volume of milk for that month since March of 1971, according to the state-federal crop and livestock reporting service of the Minnesota department of agriculture.

March production totaled 939-million pounds, second highest state volume in the nation. The 32-million pounds or 4 per cent gain over March, 1973, production was the biggest increase among all states.

Only six other states joined Minnesota in increasing March milk production. The national total was down by 280-million pounds or 3 per cent less than last year.

Minnesota's March milk production came from 894,000 cows, the lowest total for the month in history. That was 27,000 fewer cows than one year ago and 41,000 fewer cows than in March, 1972.

Previous Minnesota high for March milk production was 1971, when 946,000 cows averaged 1,000 pounds each for a 946-million pound volume—only 7-million pounds more milk than 52,000 fewer Minnesota cows produced this March.

March historically is the second best month for milk production in Minnesota, exceeded only by the month of May.

During the first three months of 1974 Minnesota's milk production totaled 2,576-million pounds, second nationally only to Wisconsin, and represents a 34-million pound gain over milk volume from the state's dairy farms during the same three months of 1973. Only California has posted a bigger increase over last year, up by 38-million pounds. Wisconsin, the national leader, cut milk production by 50-million pounds during the first quarter of 1974.

Minnesota's first quarter of 1974 milk production represented 9.2 per cent of the U.S. total, compared with 8.8 per cent for the same period of 1973.

DFL To Raise Funds Through Third Telethon

Minnesota DFL'ers will be taking to the television and the telephone this June as part of a nationwide democratic telethon. The party hopes to draw small contributions from thousands of the state's citizens in an attempt to fill DFL coffers for the November election.

State DFL chairman Hank Fischer said he is pleased that the Democratic national committee and its chairman, Robert Strauss, have committed the party to broad-based fund raising efforts.

"It's encouraging to me", Fischer said, "that there is virtual unanimity among Democratic leaders that the party's financial future rests with efforts similar to the telethon."

The Democrats first telethon in 1972 raised $4 million. In 1973, the telethon garnered over $4.3 million. This year's event is scheduled for Sat., June 29, and Sun. June 30.

Arctic Makes Arrangement For Bank Financing

Arctic Enterprises, Inc., of Thief River Falls has announced it has arranged for its bank financing needs for its current fiscal year totaling $37 million.

Arctic president, John C. Penn, said the company has signed an unsecured revolving credit agreement with four U.S. banks that will provide $34 million over the company's fiscal year ending March 31, 1975. The four banks are Continental Illinois national bank and trust company of Chicago, which will serve as agent; First national bank of St. Paul; Omaha national bank; and Seattle First national bank.

In addition to the revolving credit agreement, Arctic has arranged a $3 million open line of credit for its Canadian subsidiary, Arctic Sports Products, Ltd., from the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce. Borrowings under this line are on a demand basis.

The revolving credit agreement contains requirements that toal borrowings under the agreement and Canadian line of credit be reduced on a scheduled basis beginning on Oct. 31, 1974. By March 31, 1974, bank borrowings must be reduced to $1.5 million. These paydown requirements were tailored to fit Arctic's cash needs during the current fiscal year.

"This total credit package is intended to take care of our needs in the current fiscal year for financing the buildup of inventories that occur each year in advance of the selling season," Penn said. "The package replaces previous open line of credit under which borrowings totaled $22 million at March 31, 1974."

REAP Available To Farmers For Pollution Help

Director of the Minnesota pollution control agency (MPCA) has urged state farmers in need of new or improved pollution controls for animal facilities to take advantage of reinstated funds now available to farmers through the federal rural environmental assistance program (REAP).

Grant J. Merritt said he was pleased that the funds, impounded by President Nixon in December of 1972, have been reinstated as the result of a court order.

Under the program, REAP will pay up to 80 per cent for a pollution control project costing up to $2,500. Farmers may claim a 10 per cent state tax credit on the remaining 20 per cent of costs which they must pay. The REAP funds are available through the remaindor of 1974 and are available for projects "substantially completed" by the end of the year.

The funds are administered by county agricultural stabilization and conservation service offices. Merritt urged farmers in need of funds for detailed information.

For information on MPCA regulations governing animal facilities, farmers should contact Jim Bosch at MPCA headquarters in Roseville (612) 296-7327, or district MPCA offices in Duluth, Rochester, Brainerd, Fergus Falls and Marshall.

Optimism Offered To Resort Owners On Summer Plans

Minnesota's resort industry and related businesses are adjusting and wil survive, some experts say, while some skeptics have been predicting imminent doom for America's recreation-leisure industries.

Gasoline shortages will not doom recreation and vacation travel this summer, says Cary D. Moss, manager of the Minnesota state automobile association's outdoor recreation division.

The future, for Minnesota, "holds a great wealth of rewarding potential—both economically and socially—with the state's wide array of resource related possibilities. Minnesota's lakes, streams, rivers, prairies, forests and wildlife are perhaps our greatest assets," Moss adds.

Minnesota resort managers are receiving information from University of Minnesota specialists to make best use of their resources this season.

Stay with it. If you have a good program, Uel Blank, extension resource economist, advises resort operators on the question of promotion. Tourists who fear that gas may be short will not plan to come to your resort, so make sure visitors know that Minnesota has gas, Blank suggests.

"Concentrate advertising on nearby population centers rather than on more distant ones. Some tourists will take extended trips, but a shorter radius of travel can be counted on," Blank adds in a recent newsletter mailed to Minnesota resort operators by the University of Minnesota cooperative extension service.

Some of the adjustments that resort operators will have to make this season are a result of the end of limitless mobility in this country, Larry Simonson, extension tourist services specialist, says.

"Now families will choose vacation areas more carefully. Probably fewer, but longer-stay trips will be in order. Resort communities will need to provide increased activities for guests from nearby areas," Simonson adds.

This approach is not new, the tourist services specialist says, but more communities may want to increase their attractions. Tourism as it is known now would not exists without attractions, he says.

Communities also need to look deeper within themselves to make accessible and known the history, scenery, geology, cultural events, recreation areas, interesting industries and heritage of their area, Simonson says.

He advises resort operators and other hospitality entrepeneurs that they have an important stake in community attraction development. "You may need to be key people in generating and stimulating ideas and helping find the resources necessary to do the job."

Vets Have Wide Latitude For Study Programs

An undetermined number of veterans, wives, widows and children eligible for Veterans administration educational assistance now have greater latitude in working toward standard college degrees.

Leo A. Bodde, acting director, VA center, Fort Snelling, said new regulations allow trainees to pursue, along with regular college curricula, independent courses or other external study programs away from parent campuses.

During October, 1.4 million people trained under VA's three education programs, including 851,000 at college level, but there is no estimate on the number of current or future trainees who may take advantage of independent study programs.

"For more than 10 years now," Bodde said, "many colleges and universities have provided external degree programs which usually include classroom instruction both at parent schools and other schools.

"A typical independent study program consists of study in the humanities, social sciences and natural sciences, with the school setting a minimum and maximum time for completion. The student proceeds at his own pace, returning to the parent school campus only periodically for required workshops or seminars."

He said the VA will pay allowances to trainees pursuing independent study if courses are offered by accredited schools approved by their respective state approving agencies. Courses must lead to, or be creditable toward standard college degrees.

The VA determines allowances due trainees on the same basis as other college degree programs, with colleges expected to evaluate external courses in semester or quarter hours or their equivalent, and prescribe program completion dates.

Bodde said trainees attending schools which do not use a standard measurement of credit hours will be paid actual cost of courses, not to exceed $110 monthly. Full details on independent study programs are available at the VA Center in the Fort Snelling Federal Building, from service officers of veterans organizations, and from County Veterans Service Officers.

If the Shoe Fits..

How do you properly care for shoes?

Neglected shoes can mar the best of good grooming. Not only is it important to keep shoes in shape for the sake of beauty and fashion, but for health as well.

Here are some easy-to-keep rules which will prolong the life of your shoes:

1. Always use shoe trees. They protect the shape of the shoes and keep them fitting well.
2. Give each pair of shoes at least 48 hours rest between wearings to give them a chance to dry thoroughly.
3. Avoid getting leather shoes wet. Water dissolves the natural lubricating oils in the leather which then squeegee out during walking. Leather fibres quickly scuff and wear away once the natural oils are lost.
4. If shoes get wet, wipe them carefully with a dry cloth. Then stuff them with paper toweling to dry the inside. Dry them only at room temperature.

Fifth Generation Now On Farm East Of Brooks

Peter bought the farm from his father in 1923 and the elder Robidoux couple moved into a home in Brooks where they lived until their deaths. Narcisse Sr. died in 1930 and Azilda in 1958.

Peter was married by Father Bouchart to Deliose Payment in St. Anthony's Catholic church in Terrebonne in 1922. They had two children—Lloyd and Dellas (Mrs. Luverne Felling), both now living at Brooks.

Peter operated the farm as a stock and grain farm, built a dairy barn in 1939 and added new buildings, some of which replaced older structures. A water system was added in 1929 with a hand-made windmill providing power. Electricity was added at the farm in 1940.

Peter was also active in community and church affairs. He served on the township board for 42 years, the ASC committee from its beginning in the 1930's and was one of the organizers of the Farmers Cooperative Elevator association and cooperative oil company in Brooks. He served as president of the elevator board and was on the oil company board for many years.

Mrs. Robidoux was a member of the Ladies of St. Anne, the Sew and Save homemakers club and Hollyhock garden club and was involved in much church and charity work.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Robidoux received the Valley farmer and homemaker award in 1957 at the Red River Valley Winter shows. They now reside at the senior citizen housing units in Brooks.

Lloyd Robidoux bought the farm from his father in 1948, raising beef and dairy cattle and practicing crop rotation. He improved productivity of the land by installing drainage ditches, remodeled the house, built a loafing barn for his cattle, erected eight steel granaries, added a double garage and removed the old log house and log barn.

He was married by Rev. Mullvaney in 1945 to Inez Hickman in St. Stephan's Catholic church in Larimore, N.D. Their five children include Sandrea (Mrs. Steven Quintana) of Broomfield, Colo., Dwight, Zodi and Echo at Brooks and Steven, deceased.

Lloyd served on the elevator board, school board, ASC and FHA boards, is president of the Farmers Oil company and has served on the church council.

His wife was active in community and church work as a member of the Ladies of St. Anne, educational director for the Farmers Union local and a member of the ladies guild. Mr. and Mrs. Robidoux were group leaders for the Mayflower 4-H club. They now live in a new home which Lloyd and Dwight built one-eighth mile north of the home place.

Last year Dwight bought the farm from his father. He raises beef cattle and sheep and produces mostly feed for his livestock from his crop acreage. He and his father are engaged part time in carpentry work and they built a new quonset building on the farm.

Dwight, who served one and one-half years in the U.S. army, married Mary Laumbach in Christ the King Catholic church in Presho, S.D., in 1971 with Msgr. A. B. Grady officiating. Their son, Clayton Peter, is now the fifth generation living on the Robidoux farm.

Wool Crop At Highest Value In Seven Years

Even though Minnesota's 1973 wool crop is now valued at $2,092,000, the highest in seven years, agriculture commissioner Jon Wefald said the state's sheep farmers are netting less than 20 years ago or so.

He said sharply increased production costs wiped out most if not all of the gain from the highest average price, 70 cents per pound, the state's wool producers received in the past 22 years.

"In fact, the 70 cents average is only two-thirds as much, or 35 cents per pound less than the $1.05 per pound Minnesota sheep farmers received for wool way back in 1951. And 1973 production costs were 16 per cent higher on replacement lambs and 75 per cent higher on feeding costs, than in 1951," commissioner Wefald added.

Minnesota's 1973 wool crop is estimated at 2,989,000 pounds, or 13 per cent less than in 1972, according to the state-federal crop and livestock reporting service. It was the sixth straight year of reduced production by the state's depressed sheep and wool industry.

The 1973 reduction again was due to a significant reduction in the number of sheep shorn, 385,000, down 38,000 or nine per cent from 1972. Sharply fluctuating prices for wool in 1973 resulted in shearing more feeder lambs and created the lighter average weight of the fleece shorn, 7.8 pounds per sheep, four per cent less than in 1972.

Previous value high on Minnesota's annual wool crop was $9,529,000 in 1966, when farmers averaged 54 cents per pound for the total yield of 4,684,000 pounds.

National wool production in 1973 was 145,725,000 pounds, down eight per cent compared to 1972. Minnesota's production represented 2.1 per cent of the U.S. total and this state ranked 14th among all states.

Ignored High Blood Pressure Is Dangerous

One of the best arguments for periodic checkups to detect high blood pressure, says Dr. Yang Wang is that a man with systolic pressure over 150 is twice as likely to have a heart attack, and almost four times as likely to have a stroke than a man with pressure under 120. These are poor gambling odds.

Women should take no comfort from this, however, says Dr. Wang, who is president of the Minnesota Heart association. He adds that in older age groups, women are more likely to have high blood pressure than men, and, therefore, have even more reason to continue regular medical checkups.

Does this mean that young people have no concern about high blood pressure:

"Not at all," he replies. "While it's a small part of the total picture, high blood pressure is found in teenage girls and boys and has been detected in children four years old. The earlier it develops, the greater the reduction in life expectancy."

The odds are really not worth anyone gambling that he is immune, Dr. Wang says.

Children with one or both parents having high blood pressure have more reason to see a doctor regularly because some studies seem to say that if your parents have had the disease you may be likely to get it, too.

Black people are up against greater odds. High blood pressure is their major health problem, far outstripping sickle cell anemia, for example. About 3,500,000 blacks are estimated to have high blood pressure, and statistics indicate that almost 2,000,000 of them have not yet been discovered or are not receving proper treatment.

"We don't know why it is, but blacks are twice as likely as white to have the disease," Dr. Wang says. "And those who develop it probably will do so at an earlier age and have a more severe form of it than white people."

among all U.S. adults age 20 and over, 26 per cent of black males have high blood pressure as against 13 per cent white males. Women generally have a somewhat larger prevalence: 28 per cent for black females, 17 per cent for white females.

The continuing drive to encourage more people to have their high blood pressure checked is being accelerated because there are an estimated 23 million Americans who have the disease.

But half of them are hidden cases— they don't know it—and half of those who do know it are not under treatment. There's no big mystery why this is so. There usually are no aches or pains or other problems to serve as early warning of high blood pressure. And for the same reason, a person who is told he has the disease just doesn't feel sick or sick enough to take the daily medication that can control the disease. Untreated, it can lead to heart attack, stroke or other heart and kidney complications.

If there is no mystery in why people fail to care for themselves, there is a mystery in how most of them got to the point where they really should have medical care—how the disease got started. Over 90 per cent of all cases are of a form called essential hypertension, for which the cause is not yet known. Nevertheless, there are drugs to deal with it and many scientists are trying to find its cause.

Asbestos In Lake Superior Fish Is Questioned

Minnesota department of health recently stated that it did not believe fish taken from Lake Superior were unsafe to eat insofar as the possible presence of asbestos-like fibers is concerned. Commissioner Warren R. Lawson said the department had arrived at this conclusion on the basis of the obvious difference between the daily ingestion of Lake Superior water and the occasional meal that includes fish.

However, since absolute answers are not available and since each individual can choose to eat or not to eat Lake Superior fish, Dr. Lawson stated that the final decision and choice is one that each individual must make for themself.

Amplifying his comments, Dr. Lawson stated that an average person drinks about a quart of water each day, whereas a portion of fish is usally only about one fourth to one fifth of that amount, and, in addition, fish are usually only about one fourth to one fifth of that amount, and, in addition, fish are usually only eaten occasionally. Thus eating fish would add only fractionally to any fiber intake. However, he added that the ingestion of even a small amount of fibers considered in light of an unknown threshold for possible effects does raise questions that have no answers at the present time.

There are essentially no data from analyses of fish for amphibole fibers. The difficulties of obtaining quantitative estimates of numbers of fibers in materials analyzed have not been fully overcome. Absolute answers are just no available, Dr. Lawson commented.

The announcement by the department of health was made in response to increasing numbers of requests for information received by the health department and the department of natural resources in view of the impending annual smelt run on Lake Superior.

Dr. Lawson, in conclusion, stated that the department of health is making every effort possible to study and investigate all aspects of the question of health risks that may be associated with amphibole fiber ingestion. Little scientific data is available, he said, and realistically it may be years before definitive information is forthcoming.

LAW ENFORCEMENT CENTER SITES

CITY AND COUNTY officials met Thursday with local law enforcement personnel, legislators and state and regional officials to discuss the possibility of building a law enforcement center in Thief River Falls. Mayor Robert Carlson noted that tentative plans for construction of a facility which would serve as headquarters for the Pennington county sheriff, the Thief River Falls police department, an investigator for the Minnesota bureau of criminal apprehension and possibly the local highway patrol unit. In addition, cells would be provided for 13 prisoners. The need for construction of a detention facility was noted. The state has condemned the city's present facility and local law enforcement agencies will not be able to continue using the present lock-up which is inadequate. Ed Mattson of the governor's commission on crime prevention and control reported that 15 counties have already initiated construction of law enforcement centers and bout seven more counties are preparing plans for this type of facility. As a result, funds which might have been available in the past can not be counted on at this time and the possibility of obtaining construction grants is slim. One of the first steps in planning a law enforcement facility for Thief River Falls is selection of a construction site. Locations discussed include the old hockey arena, the service station at First street and Main avenue, the old library building, Wiener motors, the present fire station and the area near the water plant. These are indicated on the accompanying map which also lists desireable site characteristics and indicates the advantages and disadvantages of each of the primary alternatives.

Stewardship Of Soil Emphasized In National Week

Soil Stewardship week, a nationwide observance which emphasizes man's responsibility to protect and conserve soil, water and other natural resources, will be May 19-26 this year, according to Clair Larson, chairman of Pennington county soil and water conservation district.

This year's theme, "A Different Place," emphasizes how the many changes now occurring in the nation affect our continuing responsibility to be good stewards of the land, Larson said.

Most churches in the district that are scheduling special soil stewardship emphasis at services.

Larson cited the energy shortage, environmental pollution and the growing concern over land use as examples of changes and developments affecting the use of America's natural resources.

"We hope," he said, "that during soil stewardship week, millions of American s will pause for a moment to consider their responsibilities for the protection and use of the Lord's earth."

Also a member of the Pennington county soil stewardship committee is Robert Parnow of Goodridge.

Material was provided by Pennington County SWCD.

To those churches participating. This will be the 19th consecutive year that the Pennington county district, along with almost 3,000 similar districts throughout the nation, has sponsored soil stewardship week. The custom of setting aside special "Rogation Days" for this purpose began more than 1,500 years ago in France, when French peasants prayed for help after crop failures had brought widespread hunger.

Meat "Buy-Up" Urged To Help Protect Prices

Housewives throughtout the country are being urged to participate in a "meat buy-up" to protect future prices and supplies of meat.

In urging housewives to "buy-up" a few extra packages of meat during their next shopping trip, Cy Carpenter, Minnesota Farmers Union president, said, "Consumers can help keep meat prices from skyrocketing in the next few months, by buying more meat today."

Carpenter explained that farmers are losing thousands of dollars on their livestock as the market price stays below their cost of production.

"Much of this problem is the result of a temporary oversell on the market by farmers who couldn't hold their cattle on the farm any longer. Housewives can help themselves and farmers through a "buy-up" of meat at the supermarket."

"Meat prices are predicted by the cattle trade and by the grocery trade to go nowhere but up, so housowives can stock up for the summer barbeque season at lower meat prices, and can help stabilize prices for farmers, too," Carpenter said. "Unless prices recover, farmers will not stay in the livestock business and the result will be a meat shortage and much higher prices."

Carpenter emphasized that prices for most meats are 10 to 15 per cent lower than they were a year ago, in spite of inflationary prices of 10 to 15 per cent on most commodities.

Supermarket executive Stewart Applebaum said, "The housewife doesn't appreciate what has happened to the costs that farmers have to cope with, like machinery and feed, and for some reason she doesn't seem to be taking advantage of these lower meat prices."

Carpenter concluded, "With meat prices down where they are now, and predictions of rising prices, we think the wise move for housewives is to lay in a few extra roasts and packages of ground beef now—also helping the family farmer out of a jam."

MIRACLE WATER

Each civilization has contributed something to the development of bathing. The ritual probably reached its "Golden Age" in ancient Rome, as the famous Roman Baths were actually social centers, and customers spent the entire day at times visiting and relaxing with friends. The Empress Josephine, who had to be the all time bathing champion, took a bath every day, devoting three hours each day to pampering herself by bathing in silver tubs and basins. George Blumenthal of New York owned the most expensive bathtub ever built. It was in black and gold African marble worth $50,000. As a consequence of an inspirational idea that came to Sylvester Graham in the 1830's while bathing, the Graham cracker was born. John Wesley, the founder of Methodism crusaded for cleanliness and summed the whole subject up when he said, "Cleanliness is next to Godliness!"

Too bad that they didn't have Refined Water in Rome. This wonder of our modern society not only makes bathing more pleasurable, but cuts down the homemaker's household chores as well — allows even more time to pamper yourself and visit with friends. With a Miracle Water Refiner in your castle, you'll feel like a Princess, your family like Kings because of a whole new way of luxurious living. For more information about this wonderful water call

Track, like wrestling, is a unique sport where competition is strictly based on an individual basis, but in the end a team score is kept.

Coach Marv Walter's Lincoln high school track team, despite struggling through a so-so 1974 spring season, has produced several outstanding individual performances even though Thief River Falls has never been in a position to seriously challenge for any meet team honors.

Seven new Lincoln track records were set during the recently completed indoor season and two other Prowler marks fell in the first outdoor competition of the season Saturday at the Sioux invitational in Grand Forks.

Premiere hurdler Jerry Sandahl, a junior, established six of the seven new Prowler indoor records this spring. Three of Sandahl's 1974 marks were set in new events and on the other three occasions he bettered his own existing standards.

Running 50 yard distances for the first time in an indoor meet at the University of North Dakota, Sandahl set new Prowler marks with a 5.8 in the 50 yard dash; a 6.3 in the 50 yard low hurdles; and a 6.8 in the 50 yard high hurdles. Sandahl topped his 1973 records in the 70 yard distances during a meet at Crookston with an 8.4 in the low hurdles and a 9.3 in the highs. Sandahl's other record was registered in a 60 yard race as he clocked a 7.4 in the lows during a meet at Moorhead to eclipse a 1972 record he shared with John Wangberg.

Senior distance runner Brian Phelps also set a new Prowler indoor track record this spring with a 4:50.8 mile run at UND. Phelps bettered a two year old 4:53.1 standard set by Greg Bulger.

Phelps and senior weightman Tony Dorn both turned in record breaking performances in last week's outdoor season opener at Grand Forks.

Dorn tossed the discus for the first time in competition Saturday and registered a new Lincoln record of 153-2. The old Prowler discus mark was held jointly by Art Johnson who set the old mark of 147-0 in 1954 and by Larry Joppru who tied the record in 1964.

Phelps recorded a new Prowler two mile record Saturday as he covered the distance in 10:16 to top Bruce Johnson's 1972 record of 10:31.1.

In addition to the outdoor records set by Phelps and Dorn, Sandahl came within one-tenth of a second of matching Paul Klungness' 1962 180 yard low hurdle record of 20.0.

Sandahl finished the indoor season as the top Prowler point producer with 37¼ points in four meets. Senior Joe Sorvig, another hurdler, was a distant second in the final indoor point standings with 13¼ points. Phelps was the only other double-figure scorer with 12¾ points. Sorvig and Phelps accumulated their points in five meet appearances.

Thief River Falls and Bemidji will clash in yet another of their endless ancient athletic rivalry matchups Friday when the Prowlers travel to Bemidji to face the defending state champion Lumberjacks in a baseball double-header scheduled for 3 and 5 p.m. starts.

Playing under new head coach Des Sagedahl who moved up from the assistant ranks to replace Chuck Grillo, Bemidji opened its 1974 season last week by blanking Moorhead 5-0 and Fergus Falls 7-0.

Bemidji ptiching ace Andy Kannengerg, struck out 17 Moorhead batters while giving up only three hits in the Lumberjack opener. Stan Drew, who starred for Bemidji's class AA champion basketball team after being named all-state in football, tossed the second game shut-out. Drew didn't go out for baseball last year as a junior.

In addition to the pitching heroics of Kannenberg and Drew, Bemidji's offense was spotlighted by junior rightfielder Dave Berg who hit two home runs in the two victories.

NORTHLAND BASE runner Burnie Stephens leaps toward the plate to beat the tag of Crookston catcher Gene Kern, scoring Northland's first run of the 1974 baseball season Tuesday on the Red Lake Falls diamond. The Northmen blanked the rival Trojans 3-0 in the first game, but Crookston gained a double-header split by taking the nightcap 15-2.

Northland And UMTC Split MJCAA Baseball Twin-bill

After five straight season opening double-headers were weathered out, Northland community college finally opened its 1974 baseball season Tuesday as the Northmen split an MJCAA Northern Division twin-bill with athletic rival Crookston Tech on the Red Lake Falls diamond.

Northland won the well played first game 3-0 behind the four-hit shut-out pitching of freshman lefthander Pete Sullivan before Crookston coasted to a 15-2 second game win.

Coach Chet Engelman's Northmen were scheduled to be back in action today (Wednesday) with Northland hosting defending division champion Fergus Falls in a double-header on the Thief River Falls fairgrounds diamond beginning at 12 noon.

Northland . . 3
Crookston . . 0

Sullivan's clutch pitching and six Crookston errors enabled Northland to claim a 3-0 first game victory Wednesday.

Northland scored its first run of the belated season opener in the second inning when Burnie Stephens walked, moved to second on an error and scored on a hard hit single to left by Brian Espeseth.

The Northmen plated two more runs in the fourth when four Crookston errors blemished an otherwise well played contest. Rick Vatnsdal walked and scored moments later when Espeseth circled the bases on a series of wild Crookston throws.

Sullivan protected the Northland lead by twice getting out of bases loaded jams with nobody out. Crookston filled the sacks in the second with none out, but Sullivan promptly struck out two batters and forced another to ground out second to short. In the fourth Crookston again loaded the bases with nobody out, but Sullivan retired the side on an infield fly out and two strike-outs.

Crookston jumped out to a 4-0 first inning lead and was never headed in the second game, winning 15-2.

The Trojans picked up only seven base hits off a trio of Northland pitchers, but 12 walks and five Northland errors leveled the Northland season record at 1-1.

Crookston's lead mounted 10-0 in the third inning when Northland starter Bruce Johnson was lifted in favor of Mike Drury.

Northland's only second game runs were scored in the bottom of the third when a walk and a single by Drury and a double by Rob Almquist produced two runs.

Crookston's run production continued to mount to 12-0 when Stephens pitched the five inning game's final inning, giving up three runs.

NCC Golfers Top Moorhead State Junior Varsity

Northland community college golf team posted its third team win in three outings this spring Tuesday as the Northmen defeated the Moorhead State College junior varsity squad on the Moorhead county club course.

The Northmen were scheduled to host their fifth annual Northland invitational meet today (Wednesday) at 11 a.m. on the Thief River Falls golf club course. Northland will face the Bemidji State College junior varsity Friday on the Bemidji course.

Matching only three golfers against the slimmed down three man Moorhead team, Northland won the match 219-252.

Jay Moum of Northland turned in the day's best score to take home medalist honors with a 71 by recording rounds of 36-35 as the golfers played the first nine twice because of the wet conditions of the rest of the course.

Northland teammates Lee Sorenson and Dick Penning tied for second in the meet standings with 74's. Sorensen shot rounds of 39-35 and Penning turned in a 35-39.

Other Northland scores included Mark Metusalem with a 78, Jim Strandemo 81, Dave Kjos 83 and Kirk Whalley 91.

Warroad, Roseau Rally To Edge Prowlers 7-6 & 11-9

Thief River Falls lost a pair of close high school baseball games in the final half inning Tuesday as Warroad edged the Prowlers 7-6 and Roseau followed by claiming an extra inning 11-9 decision over the Prowlers who slipped to 1-2 for the year.

Both games of the Prowler split double-header were originally scheduled to be played at Warroad and Roseau, but wet grounds forced the teams to play at Badger instead.

Coach Ralph Skay's Lincoln ball club will return to action Friday when the Prowlers travel to Bemidji to face the defending state champion Lumberjacks in a 3 and 5 p.m. double-header.

Warroad . . . 7

Warroad erased an early 4-0 deficit and scored two runs in the last of the seventh to clip Thief River Falls 7-6 in Tuesday's first game.

The Prowlers pushed four runs across the plate in the top of the first inning thanks to four walks issued by Warroad pitching, along with run producing singles by Randy Dallmann and Jon Peterson and a run scoring sacrifice by Jeff Langlie.

A one-out two-run home run by Warroad's Jack Ganyo quickly shaved the difference to just 4-2 in the bottom of the first frame, though.

Thief River Falls gained a 5-2 second inning lead on a lead-off home run by Greg Sorenson.

Warroad pulled to within 5-4 in the third inning on a two-run homer by Lyle Estling as gusty winds continued to help fly balls clear the short Badger outfield fences.

The Prowlers scored what looked like an insurance run in the fourth inning when Langlie poked a lead-off triple and scored on a one-out single by Cliff Shumway.

The Warriors trimed the margin to a single run again in the sixth as Gordie Olson singled, reached second on an error, moved to third on a wild pitch and scored on another error for a 6-5 ball game.

Warroad scored twice in the last of the seventh to pull out the triumph when an error and a hit batter eventually found both runners scoring on singles by Estling and Olson.

Senior righthander Joel Folger started on the mound for the Prowlers and pitched a strong complete game, but suffered the loss. Estling gave way to Knutson on the mound for the Warriors.

TRF 9

A two-out home run in the last of the ninth inning provided Roseau with a dramatic 11-9 extra inning triumph over the Prowlers in Tuesday's chilly second game.

Thief River Falls was again the first team on the scoreboard in the second game when Shumway reached base and advanced to second on a throwing error and scored moments later on a single by Jeff Lindquist.

Roseau jumped out in front 3-1 in the Ram's half of the first, though, on two walks and a pair of singles by Bruce and Jeff Olson.

The Prowlers erupted for four runs in the second inning to momentarily enjoy a 5-3 edge. A three run homer by Peterson was the Prowlers' big blow of the inning. A single by Dicken plated another second inning run.

Roseau came right back in the bottom of the second to tie the game at 5-5.

Thief River Falls went in front 7-5 in the fourth on yet another home run, this time a two run shot by Dicken.

An error and a double by Biegner produced a sixth inning Prowler run as the Thief River Falls lead mounted to a nearly comfortable 8-5 margin.

Roseau rallied for three runs in the last of the seventh to tie the game 8-8 and force extra innings, however, with four straight one-out singles by Grafstrom, Davidson, Ammerman and Bruce Olson tying the game.

Thief River Falls scored a go-ahead run in the top of the eighth when Lindquist reached base on an error and later scored on a single by Sorenson.

A Prowler win suddenly disappeared in the last of the eighth, however, when Haugen touched Tunberg for a solo two-out homer to tie the game again at 9-9.

Tunberg sandwhiched two strike-outs around a ninth inning walk before Baumgartner belted the game winning homer to lift the Rams to a 11-9 victory.

Prowler Golfers Compete Tuesday In Bagley Meet

Coach Jack Boyer's Lincoln high school golf team placed fifth in a 13 team invitational meet held Tuesday at Bagley.

Region eight powers Bemidji and Roseau once again claimed the top two places; similar to last week's Fergus Falls invitational finish. Bemidji won the Bagley event with a 318 total, ten strokes better than Roseau's 328.

Red Lake Falls finished third with a 332, followed by Moorhead 338 and Thief River Falls 340, Ada 342, Bagley 346, Fosston 353, Littlefork-Big Falls 358, Walker 375, Warren 393, Blackduck 395 and Fertile 399.

Dick Skay topped the Thief River Falls individual efforts with an 82, followed by Mike Jury and Mike Kosel who each recorded 83's, Bruce Rested 87, Mike Onkka 88 and Jim Olson 94.

The Prowler golfers will see double-duty this weekend when Thief River Falls competes in an invitational meet at Fargo Friday at 9 a.m. and then participates in an invitational event at Mahnonen Saturday at 9:30.

Quentin Jones Meet Scheduled In TRF Saturday

Thief River Falls will host the fifth annual Quentin Jones Jaycee invitational track meet Saturday beginning at 10 a.m. on the Prowler track—weather permitting.

Although the Thief River Falls cinder track is currently partially submerged, Prowler coach Marv Walter is optimistic the event will be staged as scheduled. "They tell me they'll have it ready by Saturday even though part of it is underwater now," said Walter.

If additional rain falls later this week the meet would be changed from its present Saturday running to Thurs., May 9, at 4:30 p.m., Walter pointed out.

A total of four large schools are entered in the class A portion of the meet and 14 smaller schools will compete in the class B division.

Thief River Falls, Crookston, East Grand Forks and Roseau are currently entered in the class A event, but the powerful Pirate squad has already announced that it will not run in the Quentin Jones meet if it's run Saturday. Crookston would compete in the Thief River Falls meet if it's rescheduled for May 9, but the Pirates have indicated they will compete in an invitational meet at Moorhead on Saturday.

The class B line-up includes Ada, Fertile, Fosston, Goodridge, Hallock, Halstad, Mahnomen, Newfolden, Oklee, Stephen, Warren, Warroad, Red Lake Falls, Karlstad and Climax.

Crookston is the defending class A champion. Ada won last year's first event class B competition.

Saturday's schedule would start at 10 a.m. with the preliminary field events. The running events are scheduled to start at 10:15 with the class B two mile run. All other morning running events will be preliminary races.

Saturday's afternoon schedule of events will start at 12 noon following a 30 minute lunch break. All field event finals will begin at 12 noon while the finals in the running events are slated to begin at 12:30 p.m.

Presentation of the two team awards and the announcement of the meet's outstanding athlete is scheduled to take place at an awards ceremony at the conclusion of the meet—about 3:30.

If the "Quentin Jones meet," named after the long time Thief River Falls teacher and coach, is held Saturday the Prowlers would become a favorite to outlast East Grand Forks and Roseau for the class A team title. Thief River Falls won three straight meet titles in 1970-71-72 before Crookston won last year's crown. Bemidji won the first Thief River Falls meet title in 1969. If the meet is changed to Thursday the powerful Crookston squad—a recognized state power—would practically be conceded the meet title. The class B championship scramble is wide open with Ada, Stephen and Mahnomen figured to seriously challenge for team honors.

Walter indicated his Prowler line-up for the Quentin Jones meet would include Jerry Sandahl, Joe Sorvig and Jeff Hendrickson in the 120 yard high hurdles; Sandahl, Sorvig and Tom Barry, 180 low hurdles; Brian Phelps, Dan Kezar and Dan Heleren, two mile; Jeff Johnson, Dick Johnson and Craig Swanson, mile; Jim Elleson, Barry and Scott Steedsman, 100; Elleson, Steedsman and Greg McEwen, 220; Jeff Houfek, Tony Brosseau and Brad Broughton, 440; and Brad Brown, Dave Cork and Mike Burstad, 880.

The Prowler relay team line-ups will include Elleson, Barry, McEwen and Jim Carlson, 880; Sandahl, Sorvig, Houfek and Jeff Johnson, medley; and Greg Leach, Tim Benedict, Brosseau and Carlson, mile.

Thief River Falls field event entries include Tony Dorn, Kent Ehrenstrom and Arlie Engelman, shot put and discus; Mark Haroldson, Benedict and Keven Anderson, pole vault; Leach, Carlson and Barry, long jump; and Carlson, Brad Swanson and Keith Johnson, high jump.

GF Central Tops LHS Net Squad By 3-2 Margin

Grand Forks Central handed the Lincoln high school tennis team its fourth straight dual meet set-back Monday as the Redskins clipped the visiting Prowlers 3-2.

The struggling Prowler net men, after winning three straight season opening matches, have lot four in a row, including three frustratingly close 3-2 decisions. The Prowlers will try to snap their losing streak Monday when Thief River Falls hosts Central in a 3:30 p.m. match on the local courts.

Prowler wins against Central were recorded in the number one and three singles where Tim Engelstad stopped Central's Jim Skinner 6-0, 6-2 in the first singles and Prowler teammate Brian Waale topped Central's Brian Valova 6-4, 6-2 in the third singles.

Central's Rob Juntenen posted a 1-6, 6-4, 6-4 triumph over Keith Breiland in the second single to start the Redskin victory.

The host Central squad won both doubles matches and Gambucci and Jackson defeated Prowler teammates Scott Engelstad and Terry Sullivan 6-1, 6-2 in the first doubles and Carlveau and Wynn combined to beat Thief River Falls' Gary Laidley and Bill LaValley 6-3, 3-6, 11-9 in the decisive second doubles.

Following the rematch with Central, Thief River Falls will compete in the 1974 Northwest Conference tennis meet Tues., May 7, beginning at 9 a.m. on the East Grand Forks courts.

Minnesota's first fishing opner of the summer season will get underway May 4 when angling for stream trout becomes legal state-wide, the department of natural resources noted.

The lake trout season opens two weeks later on May 18.

LHS Girls Claim Conference Title

Lincoln high school girl's track team captured championship honors in the 1974 Northern Prairie indoor track meet held Tuesday in the Crookston winter show building.

Thief River Falls won the meet title by accumulating 58 points, followed by Crookstonwith 45½, Warren 31, Roseau 19½, Red Lake Falls 16, East Grand Forks and Newfolden 10 each and Fisher 2.

Lincoln girls captured five meet first place ribbons, headed by double event winner Twila Merell who won the 70 yard dash in 8.9 seconds and added a win in the long jump with a 14-7 effort. Lori Finstad supplied Thief River Falls with another individual triumph with a 2:47.3 performance in the 880.

Thief River Falls also won two relay races as Jani Swanson, DeeAnn Hoganson, Teresa Nygaard and Brenda Laidley combined to win the 400 in 52.4 and Jodi Ranum, Beth Hamilton, Reta Rantanen and Joan Jury raced to a 1:45.4 winning time in the 880.

Lincoln entries claimed three second places, including Kris Gibson in the 220; Nygaard in the mile; and the 880 relay team of Swanson, Karla Kruschke, Polly Bulger and Gibson.

Other point producing Thief River Falls efforts includes thirds by Hoganson, 60 yard hurdles; Jury, 440; and fourths by Laidley, high jump; Gibson, 60 yard hurdles; Hamilton, 70 yard dash, Rantanen, 440; and Michelle Gerardy, 880.

The Thief River Falls girls are scheduled to be back in action tomorrow (Thusday) when the Cheryl Hinchberger coached Lincoln squad hosts Badger, Greenbush and Baudette in a 3:30 p.m. meet on the Thief River Falls track.

No Moose Season Will Be Held In State This Year

Minnesota will not have a moose season this year, the department of natural resources said today.

DNR game officials said some sportsmen are apparently under the impression that a moose season is to be scheduled for this year, however, the bill passed by the 1974 legislature restricts the season to 1975 only.

The bill provides that those who held moose licenses during either of the last two seasons will not be eligible to apply in the next season.

Officials said that the decision on a 1975 moose season will depend on the status of the moose population as determined by the 1974-75 winter aerial census of moose.

Drop Is Noted In Snowmobile Registrations

Number of snowmobiles registered with the department of natural resources has declined by 30,000 machines during the past two years.

DNR license officials said the number of active registrations is now 270,000 compared to a peak of 300,000 in 1972.

The decline was attributed to the failure of several thousand snowmobile owners to renew expired licenses.

'Gift Of Life' Sign-Up To Be Held In T.R.F.

To permit area residents over 18 years of age to participate in the "Gift of Life" program, Thief River Falls American Legion auxiliary and Mrs. Jaycees are sponsoring a sign-up at local banks on Thursday and Friday.

Representatives of the sponsoring organizations will be at Northern and First Northwestern banks from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. on Thursday and 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Friday. Co-chairmen are Mrs. Donald Hermanson of the auxiliary and Mrs. Darold Godfrey and Mrs. Neil McEwen of the Mrs. Jaycees.

"More than 125,000 kidney patients will die this year and at least 8,000 of them could be saved by kidney transplants," Mrs. McEwen said. "For lack of available organs and facilities, 7,000 of the 8,000 who could be saved will die."

The "Gift of Life" program involves the donation of vital organs upon death for use in transplant operations to help others live. There is no cost to the program and anyone 18 years of age or older may become a member by signing a registration card. These cards will be available from volunteers at the two banks on Thursday and Friday. "Gift of Life" program is sponsored and administered by the Kidney Foundation of the Upper Midwest.

"Kidney disease ranks fourth as a fatal disease in the nation," Mrs. McEwen said. "More people die each year from kidney disease than from auto accidents. Many of these people can be saved from death due to a malfunctioning organ through a simple act of others who care enough to offer their 'Gift of Life'."

Class Of 1954 Seeks Addresses

All Scout Units At Exposition In Blue Group

All Boy scout troops and Cub scout packs participating in the annual Penn-Ro-Shall scout exposition Sunday received blue ribbon awards—the first time in the history of the show, according to Art Heinze, general chairman.

Scout units compete against a standard rather than against one another at the exposition and all were judged to be of blue ribbon caliber this year. An estimated 3,500 persons attended the event held at the National Guard armory from 2 to 5 p.m.

Heinze said the exposition is a service of the Northern Lights council of the Boy Scouts of America and the Thief River Falls Jaycees. He thanked all scouts and leaders for their dedicated efforts in producing the exposition. Due to the excellent participation this year, he said, efforts will be made to have next year's event in the Thief River Falls sports arena.

Receiving blue ribbons at the event were Cub packs 52 of Red Lake Falls, and 57, 60 and 199 plus Webelos unit 199 of Thief River Falls; Boy scout troops 53 of St. Hilaire, 54 of Greenbush, 56 of Roseau, 61 of Plummer, and 57, 59, 60 and 199 of Thief River Falls; and Winnipeg groups including the Seven Oaks Beavers, Cubs, Scouts and Venturers.

New 'U' M President Prefers The Midwest

C. Peter Magrath

Commitment of the people of Minnesota to graduate and professional education was a strong factor in C. Peter Magrath's decision to become the new president of the University of Minnesota this fall.

Magrath was asked about his views on higher education and Minnesota in a news conference during his first visit to the campus since he was appointed to his new position.

Magrath, 40, president of the State University of New York at Binghamton, will succeed Malcolm Moos, 57, who is leaving to become chief executive officer for the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions in Santa Barbara, Calif.

"I've had the sense conveyed to me that contrary to the current fadishness that plays down graduate education, that scorns the Ph. D., that pokes fun at research, the University of Minnesota has to be a leading instrument in graduate education and in research," Magrath said.

Magrath said that although the national trend is to turn away from graduate education, "I don't sense that the people at the University of Minnesota, with whom I've had conversation, are prepared to turn their backs on graduate and professional education. That's one reason I'm here."

Magrath, whose name is pronounced "Ma-graw," spent a busy two days on the Twin Cities campus Friday and Saturday (April 19 and 20).

He arrived with his wife, Sandra, and their 17-year-old daughter, Valerie, at Twin Cities International Airport about 11:30 a.m. Friday. Along with Duane Wilson, secretary to the Board of Regents, the Board Chairman Elmer L. Andersen they went through the lunch line at the faculty club on campus.

By 1:30 p.m., flanked by his wife and daughter, Magrath was facing television lights and cameras and responding to reporters' questions in the Morrill hall news conference room.

Magrath, who was academic vice chancellor at the university of Nebraska-Lincoln from 1968-1972, described himself as a "land-grant person" who enjoyed living in the Midwest.

"When I first went west to Nebraska," he said, "I found far more openness and innovation and flexibility of attitude on the part of faculty, administrators and students than I certainly had encountered at Brown University."

Magrath began at the Ivy League Brown University as a political science instructor in 1961 and left as a full professor in 1968. He was associate dean of the graduate school for a year.

He called for a tough internal evaluation of programs and priorities at the University of Minnesota in order to achieve excellence.

"The means to excellence will include an assessment, an evaluation of our strengths, our weaknesses and our potential," he said. "It will require the setting of some tought internal priorities as we go down the road of evaluation and study.

"It is important that the people at the University of Minnesota have a sense of mission, a sense of purpose and that that mission be a very high one," he said.

At the Binghamton campus, a faculty committee appointed by Magrath produced a document which ranked graduate programs by strength and weakness.

He said his inclination is to make such reports public. "I would favor being as open as possible taking account of morale considerations and the like," he said.

Magrath defended the secrecy he said was required in the search for a new University president.

He said that he has been at Binghamton for about two years and if the selection process would have required applications and public discussion he would not have allowed his name to be considered.

"I would not have put myself in the position of being publicly interviewed at a time when I was still trying to make my own assessment as to what I would do if this did materialize.

"I certainly did expose myself in depth, I belive, to members of the University community and the Board of Regents," Magrath said.

Magrath cut off the news conference after mor than two hours and talked with reporters casually for a few minutes before walking over to a Coffman Union reception with students and faculty members and in the evening, he joined the Regents for dinner in suburban St. Paul.

On Saturday, he went through a series of meetings with University administrators and the student and faculty members of the consultative committee, which helped in the presidential search.

New Definition Of Nursing Is Signed Into Law

Governor Wendell Anderson has signed into law a new legal definition of registered nursing. Anticipated impact of this legislation on health care is that more people will be seen and cared for because nurses functioning under this new legal definition can work more independently and use more of their professional skills, according to the Minnesota Nurses association.

Nursing skills such as assessing the health needs of individuals and families, skilled ministration of nursing care, health teaching and counseling, case finding and referral and evaluation of care are listed in the new law.

Nurses will continue to perform certain functions under the direction of the physician, some of which may require additional preparation.

Minnesota Nurses associaton, professional organization of approximately 5,700 registered nurses throughout the state, supported the bill which passed both the House and Senate by unanimous vote.

BSC To Sponsor Twenty-Seventh Music Clinic

Twenty-seventh annual Bemidji state college summer music clinic is scheduled July 28-August 10, with two one week sessions especially tailored for youthful musicians and directors.

Classes for singers, instrumental students, cheerleaders, drum majors and majorettes and special workshops by Nancy Hauser dance company of Minneapolis will all be included in the summer music clinic. Participants in the clinic must be in the fifth grade or older to participate.

Dr. Theodore Thorson, BSC director of the summer music clinic, states, "Our first week activities are traditionally more varied than the second week, and this year is no exception. We have choir, orchestra, band-wind ensemble, drum majoring and baton, stage band, dance and cheerleading classes during the first week. Second week activities are more devoted just to band, with drum majoring and baton, dance and the Isaak's piano institute."

The long history of the BSC summer music clinic is marked with major names serving as faculty, and this year's clinic faculty is typical. B.R. (Bev) Henson of University of Oklahoma, William L. Jones of Greater Twin Cities Youth Symphonies, John Paynter of Northwestern university, Kenneth Kalina of Chicago, Clifton Williams of University of Miami, Florida, Constantine Soriano of Xavier university, Allan Gillespie of University of Connecticut, Judy Barton Cox and Marsha Boring are all committed to faculty positions at the BSC clinic this summer.

Thorson points out that students wishing to participate in choral, orchestra or cheerleading classes should plan to attend the July 28-August 3 first week sessions, while band, drum majoring and baton, and dance students may choose either the first week or August 4-10 second week session. Those wishing to participate in the Donald and Bea Isaak piano institute should attend second week sessions.

Cost of one week is $60, with $20 for registration and ~~$40 for room~~ and board. Total cost to attend both weeks is $130, with $40 registration and $90 for room and board. Students who can commute may do so and private lessons can also be arranged at $3 for one-half hour.

Further information about the clinic is available from Dr. Theodore Thorson, Summer Music Clinic, Bemidji state college, Bemidji, Mn. 56601, or by telephoning 218-755-2915.

People Looking To Summer Work Need SS Cards

Students and other people looking for summer employment should apply for their social security cards now.

It takes three to four weeks to assign a new social security number, according to William Phalen, manager of the Grand Forks, N.D., social security district.

Applications from people who have never had a number before—and from those who have lost their cards—are compared with records in Baltimore to be sure a second number isn't issued to the same person. This screening takes time.

People applying for a social security number for the first time may be asked to prove their age, identity and citizenship. Phalen said this could delay processing a little longer.

He mentioned some other important things to know about a social security card: You can get a replacement card faster if you kept the stub that came with your original card. Your social secuirty number is yours alone. It is the number you will use the rest of your life.

For more information about social security numbers and cards, call the Grand Forks office at 772-5517.

a whole new world

"Hey! Come bicycling with us tomorrow!"

The latest bicycling craze may be sweeping the land, but some aren't so enthusiastic:

"Haven't been on a bike for years!"
"I get all the exercise I want working in the garden!"
"Bikes are for kids!"

These skeptics should try cruising down a country road where the smell of haystacks, hyacinths or magnolias sweetens the air, or experience the warmth of open playgrounds, the coolness of tree-shaded streets, the unblurred faces of neighbors. It's a whole new world.

There's another new world inside the doors of your neighborhood church. But some hesitate here too:

"Haven't been to church in years!"
"I get all the religion I want just communing with nature!"
"Church? That's for women and kids!"

What do you say? Are you ready for a new world, a new life? Then come to church Sunday—and step in.

Mondale Asks Extension Of GI Ag Management

Following are comments by Sen. Walter F. Mondale regarding farm management and other programs for military veterans:

Over the past several months my office has been deluged with mail from and personal visits by veterans who tell a story that can no longer be ignored. They tell of how this nation is failing to serve those who served so honorably.

Veterans in rural America are no exception. They deserve opportunities for quality education in the fields of their choice. However, the impending termination of eligibility under the GI farm management training program could deny many veterans the chance to complete their educations.

The farm cooperative training, or farm management, program is a program in which veterans acquire training in land-resource management, livestock management, agricultural production, environmental science and tax accounting.

This program—originally in operation for World Wr II and Korean War veterans—was reactivated in 1967 to assist Vietnam-era veterans. But because the 1967 law gave veterans only eight years to use their benefits—dating either from August of 1967 or from the time of separation, whichever is later—thousands of veterans who were separated from the service by 1967 will lose their entitlement by August of 1975

Although farm management programs have been available to Vietnam veterans on paper since 1967, a lack of established training centers, extremely rigid classroom requirements, and related problems have prevented most qualified veterans from participating. Many of these problems were corrected by a 1972 law, and as a result enrollment is expanding rapidly.

In Minnesota, for example, in January of 1973 the number of programs in operation totalled only 45. By September that figure had increased to 89. Current enrollent in Minnesota now stands at about 1,200, and many more veterans have expressed an interest in participating. Nationwide, between the 1971-72 and the 1972-73 school years, program enrollment nearly doubled from 5,000 to 9,313.

Ironically, just as demand for the program and the number of established training centers are increasing dramatically, the eligibility of thousands of veterans is beginning to expire.

I have introduced legislation to extend the cooperative farm managment training program through 1980. I believe the program should be extended for a minimum of five years so that interested vietnam-era veterans will have a chance to complete their agricultural training.

I recently testified on this and other veterans' educational programs before the Senate Veterans Affairs committee. I urged members of the Committee to improve these programs in its effort to improve the lot of veterans.

Experience has taught us that while veterans' educational benefits are costly, they represent an investment in the veteran and in the future of this nation. I belive that Congress will concur and will enact meaningful reforms in the veterans' behalf.

A Christian's faith in God and his faith in other people must be correlatives. The latter should follow from the former, but must never replace, or detract, from faith in God.

It is surely true that our faith in other sinful flesh seems hazardous, and not always very well founded, but God expects it from us. And it is when the other is faithless that we are to be sincerely faithful in the face of his unfaithfulness.

This is the part of the mind of Christ which is to be in us.

Time For Clean-up

If the skies will tighten up and withhold moisture long enough to allow the ground to dry a little, the spring clean-up task can be accomplished quite soon. The Chamber of Commerce week (May 6-11) designated as "Beautify Thief River Week" may be coming along at just the right time.

Although most Thief River Falls residents are aware of the need for spring-time clean-up efforts, a little organized push serves as a catalyst and provides a little extra incentive. School-age youngsters are being involved—and that group has seemingly endless enthusiasm and energy.

Thief River Falls is a good community and a concentrated, cooperative clean-up campaign can make it even a little bit better.

One thing which those of us who have lived all of our lives in northern Minnesota often fail to appreciate is the spirit of togetherness which can be generated here. It is our hope that this spirit will be exemplified in the clean-up campaign. We full expect that it will.

No Big Improvement

Senate-approved measure to make election day a public holiday is no big improvement over the existing situation. In fact, from the standpoint of improving voter turn-out, it would be a serious mistake. We agree with James S. Morrison of the Morris Sun who writes the following:

The U.S. Senate has approved a measure which would make general elections public holidays, effective in 1976. The bill also provides that election day would fall on the first Wednesday after the first Monday in November, rather than the first Tuesday.

Senator Humphrey, one of the bill's sponsors, finds it "discouraging to note" that 37 per cent of the voting age population did not vote in the 1972 election. But it is a mistake to assume that people stayed away from the polls because of inconvenience. Apathy is a more likely cause of poor voter turnout, and it makes little sense to encourage the apathetic, uninformed individual to vote.

In any case, the bill may defeat its own purposes. One finds it easy enough to get away from work for a few minutes, but who wants to interrupt a holiday to go to the polls?

In all likelihood, the election day holiday would become like Columbus Day, Veterans' Day, and President's Day. Government employees would get a holiday, but businesses could not afford to close up shop, and employees in the private sector would be unaffected.

Minnesota law provides that every employee who is eligible to vote is "entitled to absent himself from work for thepurpose of voting, without penalty or deduction from his salary." For nearly 200 years, citizens have found it possible to vote before, during or after work. The election holiday bill will not improve our electoral process, and it might actually impair it.

A Can of Beans

Worship of legislative process and an almost fanatical faith in the power of law displayed by federal Senators and Congressmen is weighed against practicality in this commentary by Rep. Manuel Lunan Jr. of New Mexico:

The Senate's agonizing over the oil shortage reminds me of the Senator, the Congressman and the priest who were shipwrecked on a desert island. Starving, they found a can of beans washed ashore from the wreck. But they had no can opener.

To handle the problem, the Senator and Congressman organized themselves into a bicameral legislature. The Senator passed a bill making it mandatory that all citizens carry a can opener at all times.

The Congressman said: "No that's too hard on the taxpayers. My bill makes it mandatory for manufacturers to equip every can with a can opener." The senator agreed to the Congressman's bill, providing an amendment was added that gave manufacturers a tax deduction for the cost of adding the opener.

The Congressman agreed to the amendment and they passed the bill. But as they congratulated each other on this fine solution, they looked at the can and saw there was still no can opener. So they called the legislature back into emergency session.

They conducted joint hearings and produced 2,759 pages of testimony. But still no can opener.

They initiated a study, submitted a program proposal, voted to fund it and to conduct annual oversight hearings. They also cited the can for contempt of Congress.

Finally, they turned to the priest and asked him to pray for a miracle to produce the can opener.

"Do you mean," asked the incredulous priest, "that you have discovered that there are some problems that can't be solved by new laws?"

"That's right, Father," they said.

The priest smiled and said, "I'll pray, gentlemen, but not for a can opener. I'll pray for the greater miracle that you will be able to go back to Washington and convince your colleagues of this great truth."

"And in the meantime," he added, "have some beans. While you were arguing, I bashed the can open with a rock."

Legislative Logic

It seems that there is a certain type of logic which is only valid in Washington, D.C., and then only among the people whose business it is to operate the government of this nation.

Consider, for instance, the supporting statement made by Sen. Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota for his proposed $5.9 billion tax cut. "Purpose of this joint amendment is two-fold: First, to provide an urgently needed fiscal stimulus to keep the ecnomy from sinking deeper and into recession; and second, to offer across-the-board relief to taxpayers now suffering under the severe burden of continuing inflation and reduced purchasing power."

Our office dictionary describes inflation as an "increase in the amount of money in circulation, resulting in a relatively sharp and sudden fall in its value and rise in prices" and recession as "a temporary falling off of business activity during a period when such activity has been generally increasing."

According to the senator's Washington logic, the way to solve this somewhat complicated dilemma of recession within inflation is by cutting taxes by $5.9 billion. Somehow, we would presume, the tax cut will help pay for some of the spending proposals the senator has been proposing in recent columns.

Sen. Mondale's logic should not be disputed, perhaps, for he is being considered as Presidential material while we certainly are not.

More legislative logic is contained in a statement by Congressman Donald Fraser of Minnesota's Fifth district. In testifying against a human life amendment in Washington, he described a decrease in infant mortality as a "benefit" of abortion on on demand.

Since a high percentage of infant deaths result from prematurity, he reasoned, and since prematurity increases with a decrease in socio-economic status, "the reduction of low birthweight infants and out of wedlock births" has led to a decline in infant deaths.

That's something like reasoning that plowing down a spring seeding will contribute to a reduction in crop failure.

Some of the above may be part of the reason for Congressman Bill Frenzel's comment in a recent "Washington Newsletter". He said: "The bad news was that the American people gave Congress a richly-deserved confidence rating of 21 per cent in a recent Harris Poll. Sixty-nine per cent rated Congress 'poor' or 'fair'. The good news was that 10 per cent were 'not sure'."

Food Can't Be Free

Following editorial is from the Tracy Headlight-Herald:

Because food is a necessity some people have the tendency to consider the price of food in a different light than almost anything else. They somehow feel that what they pay for groceries should be a matter not of economics but of simple humanitarianism. In short, food should be cheap and easy to obtain,, simply because people must have it to live.

The president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, Mr. William J. Kuhfuss, observes that, "Adequate food supplies in this country long have been taken for granted because the U.S. agricultural plant has performed so efficiently that we have piled up surpluses and this has meant cheap food for consumers. . ."

Now it must be recognized that farming like any other business, must have an opportunity to earn a fair return on its investment. It takes about $610,000 to buy and equip an 800-acre corn-soy-bean farm in Indiana. Crop-producing farms in other areas of the country show a similar pattern of large capital requirements. Add to this the fact that inflation has pushed up farm production costs to all-time highs, and it obviously becomes the sheerest sort of demagoguery for anyone to promote the idea that food can somehow be produced wthout regard to the laws of supply and demand and price—and profits—that govern the operation of any other enterprise.

It pays to drive one.

Public hearings on the 1973 Minnesota Critical Areas Act—one of the most significant environmental protection laws passed in Minnesota in many years—were completed last week by our State Environmental Quality Council (EQC).

The law is designed to permit the governor to take immediate action when areas possessing unique recreational, historical, cultural or esthetic values are threatened by development that could result "in irreversible damage to those resources, decrease their value and utility for public purposes or.....endanger life and property."

In the weeks ahead, the EQC will review and finalize the rules and regulations that will govern administration of the act. By mid-June, I am confident the Council will be ready to make its first recommendation.

Council members have indicated that their initial request of me will be to declare the 52-mile stretch of the Lower St. Croix River below Taylors Falls as Minnesota's first "critical area".

Such a designation would mean that further development along the river will have to be consistent with a state-local development plan, and will have to be authorized by the EQC.

The "critical area" order would automatically expire in three years unless extended by the Legislature or by the Metropolitan Council.

Last Friday I was pleased to join Wisconsin Gov. Patrick J. Lucey in a helicoptor tour of a portion of the Lower St. Croix.

While flying over this scenic, wooded river valley, our tour guides pointed out to us the sites of 17 substantial residential and commerical developments that are in the active planning stage.

Most of the sites are located on the bluffs of the St. Croix. Only six are adjacent to communities offering sewer, water and other public services. Several developments would adversely affect state parks.

The Critical Areas Act was enacted to insure that invaluable natural resources such as the St. Croix River are not irreparably damaged. I intend to see that the act is implemented promptly, responsibly and with a view towards protecting the interests of the general public.

Tax Law Change Means Net Drop In Tax Revenue

State tax law changes enacted this year wil take more money out of state funds than they will put in, according to the Minnesota Taxpayers association.

"For the next fiscal biennium, commencing July 1, 1975, the tax law changes incorporated in the 1974 omnibus tax law (Chapter 556) will result in an estimated net decrease in revenues of $10,815,000," said Harold T. Miller, the association's research director. "There will be little net change in revenues during the remainder of the current biennium."

"The most important of the tax law changes is that which exempts the so-called 'working poor' from state income tax liability," Miller said. "This provision becomes effective Jan. 1, 1975. It provides for tax credits equal to tax liability for persons whose total incomes range from $3,200 or less for an unmarried individual to $6,400 or less for those with five or more dependents. The department of revenue has estimated that such tax credits will amount to $7,700,000 in calendar 1976 on 1975 income tax returns. That's about $15,400,000 for the biennium.

"The two-step repeal of the 10-cents-per-pound oleomargarine tax will result in loss of an estimated $2,261,000 in revenue this biennium and $8,350,000 per biennium thereafter. The tax will drop to five cents this coming July 1 and will be eliminated as of July 1, 1975.

Application of the state income tax to railroads, effective next January 1, will produce an estimated $7,000,000 in the 1975-77 biennium and $5,600,000 per biennium thereafter.' No revenues from this source are estimated for the current biennium.

"Taxing of 'little cigars' at the same rate as cigarettes, nine-tenths of one cent per cigar or cigarette, is expected to produce $800,000 this biennium and $1,600,000 per biennium thereafter. The tax became effective when the omnibus tax bill was enacted.

"Changes in tax laws affecting iron ore and taconite companies will have little effect on total revenues this biennium but will add an estimated $4,335,000 next biennium. One new provision subjects 'newly discovered' iron ore to property taxes retroactively for six years; another reduces the allowance of deductions for ore shrinkage and interest on plant investment."

Sec. Of Defense Approves Guard Training Plans

Secretary of defense James R. Schlesinger recently approved summer training plans for the National Guard which are designed to achieve maximum training effectiveness while continuing department of defense energy conservation objectives of 15 per cent fuel saving.

Secretary Schlesinger emphasized that the primary mission of the National Guard requires high readiness based upon immediate mobilization in support of active duty forces. He added that ". . .while fuel conservation has been emphasized in the plans, it is subordinate to realistic training and combat readiness". Successful energy conservation efforts have made it possible for the National Guard to meet both fuel saving goals and training objectives.

Minnesota Army National Guard is doing its part, according to Major General Chester J. Moeglein, Minnesota's Adjutant General. "We are determined to boost our training to unprecedented levels of combat readiness and strength and to fulfill our commitment to the all-volunteer, total force concept", he said.

Moeglein added that, ". . . at the same time we are committed to do our part in saving energy. We have taken vigorous steps to reduce the size of the traditional summer convoys going to and from Camp Ripley. Instead, many of our troops will travel by commercial bus—at a substantial savings in fuel consumption. All Guard aircraft are limited to those flights which are absolutely essential to training and readiness, thus creating great savings in valuable aircraft fuel.

"We are very fortunate in Minnesota to have such an outstanding training facility as Camp Ripley. Because it is in our own state, we are able to move thousands of Minnesota Guardsmen and Guardswomen to annual training with a minimum expenditure of vehicular and aviation fuel, while many other states must travel long distances to their training site. Camp Ripley's 53,000 acres allows large scale field maneuvers; provides range firing for all Infantry Division weapons; and gives our Guard units the opportunity to train as full units and to develop the team work and proficiency required for combat readiness. This type of training cannot be accomplished at local, hometown training areas".

Major Genral LaVern E. Weber, director of the Army National Guard, National Guard Bureau, Washington, D.C., recently congratualted the Minnesota Army National Guard for ". . .managing fuel conservation programs at no appreciable degradation to readiness. In a message to general Moeglein, he continued, "Please convey to all your personnel my appreciation for their splendid energy managment practices. We must make maximum use of that portion of our nation's resources entrusted to us to continue to improve every aspect of our readiness".

Nationwide, summer training schedules for the Army National Guard and Army Reserve have reduced travel mileage by at least 483,000 miles and fuel consumption by approximately 1,634,700 gallons. Coupled with reduced aircraft usuage, an estimated 128,000 barrels of military fuel will be saved.

Minnesota Army National Guard will conduct its summer training in several two-week increments at Camp Ripley this year. The largest contingent will be the 9,000 Guardsmen and Guardswomen of the Minnesota elements of the 47th Infantry (Viking) Division who will be at Ripley June 15 to June 29.

Breakfast More Important Than You Think

Nutritionists tell us that breakfast should provide about ⅓ of our calories for the day. We need the energy first thing in the morning to keep us going until noon. In fact, that's what breakfast means — to break the fast after a night's sleep.

Breakfast doesn't have to follow any set pattern. Within the past couple of years, peanut butter has come into its own as a worthwhile breakfast food. Two tablespoons peanut butter all by itself provides the body with protein, iron and niacin, a B vitamin. Spread the peanut butter on toast or make it into a sandwich and the protein, B vitamins and iron are increased. Turn the peanut butter sandwich into French toast and you add still more nutrients — vitamin 'A', iron and protein from the egg; protein, minerals and vitamins from the milk. To round out the breakfast, nutritionally, serve milk as a beverage and a citrus fruit such as an orange or grapefruit for vitamin C.

Peanut Butter French Toast: Beat 1 egg and beat in ½ cup milk. Spread each of 4 slices enriched white bread, with 2 table spoons Skippy creamy or chunk style peanut butter. Top each with a second bread slice. Dip sandwiches into egg mixture. Cook on well-greased griddle or in margarine in skillet, turning once, until browned on both sides. Makes 4 servings.

OVER HALF THE CARS ON THE ROAD ARE WASTING NEARLY TWO GALLONS PER TANKFUL AND ADDING TO AIR POLLUTION BECAUSE OF ENGINE NEGLECT.
ACCORDING TO CAR CARE COUNCIL, WE COULD SAVE 3.8 BILLION GALLONS OF GAS THIS YEAR IF ALL CARS WERE KEPT IN GOOD CONDITION. HELP CONSERVE OUR FUEL RESOURCES AND CLEAN UP THE AIR BY HAVING YOUR CAR'S ENGINE CHECKED AND SERVICED IF NECESSARY. YOU'LL SAVE MONEY, TOO.

Thrifty, Versatile Frosting

This basic buttercream frosting is just about as quick and easy as a frosting mix, but a lot easier on your budget. And you can make just about any flavor and color frosting you want, with your own pure ingredients.

Use one pound of C and H Powdered Sugar with the remaining ingredients and beat smooth. You'll get enough frosting to frost generously the tops and sides of a layer cake, top and sides of two 13 x 9 inch loaf cakes, or 36 cupcakes. (One tablespoon is ample for each cupcake.)

The basic vanilla frosting can be flavored to make all kinds of frostings, either by using fruit juices, cold coffee, etc. in place of milk in the recipe, or by using your favorite flavor extracts in place of vanilla. (See variations below for examples.)

It can also be colored with food coloring and used in a decorator tube for simple decorations, as shown on the cupcakes. If you frost and decorate, one recipe will cover 24 cupcakes.

Leftover buttercream frosting can be stored in the refrigerator for six weeks. Store in a plastic or glass container with tight lid. Allow refrigerated frosting to warm to room temperature, then beat smooth with spatula and frost your cake.

BASIC BUTTERCREAM FROSTING

4 cups (1 pound) unsifted C and H Powdered Sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
⅓ cup (⅔ stick) soft butter or margarine

Combine all ingredients in mixing bowl. Beat until smooth and creamy. Makes about 2 cups frosting.

Chocolate Variation: Add ½ cup cocoa and substitute 6 tablespoons water for the ¼ cup milk.

Orange Variation: Add 1 tablespoon grated orange rind and substitute ¼ cup orange juice for the milk.

An open letter to home owners who heat with oil explaining how not to spend $400 or more.

Dear Homeowner who heats with oil:

As spring brings to a close our past heating season, we suspect you may be confused about the seriousness of the energy shortage. We don't blame you. We're a little confused too. And we suspect that the monopoly natural gas and electric utilities are also confused, as well as the liquid propane dealers.

In fact, the situation is so confusing that recently an official of Minnegasco in effect said that he doesn't believe Northern Natural Gas Co. when it says that by 1978 it will not have enough fuel to take care of all of its customers in Minnesota. Northern Natural Gas supplies 95% of the natural gas that is used in Minnesota, and if one of its largest customers doesn't believe Northern Natural, why should anyone else?

Problems for natural gas industry just starting?

We hope that the heating oil shortage is over the hump. And, if what Northern Natural Gas says is true, it looks as if the problems for the natural gas industry are just starting and that it may come under the allocations programs of the Federal Energy Office, which so far has concerned itself only with petroleum. It seems to us if Northern Natural, a major gas pipeline company, cannot supply its customers, then the Federal Energy Office should be dealing with that problem too, and we expect that it soon will be when Congress passes the needed legislation.

But our main purpose in writing this letter is to tell you how to save money. Last fall there were many dire predictions of coming shortages of heating oil. Yet we came through the winter without any serious problems. With an assist from a mild winter and your conservation measures, no one went cold.

Conversion can cost from $400 to $1,000 or more.

In spite of this, we can understand how you may be tempted to think about converting to another fuel. But this is expensive, always requiring at least a burner replacement and often requiring a new furnace. Therefore, the total cost of conversion can cost from $400 to $1,000 or more. We urge you not to be in a hurry to spend this money.

After all, the past winter's heating season is over, as indicated by the fact that on the average, heating oil prices are falling and there is currently plenty of heating oil around. The next heating season is six months away and a lot could happen between now and then.

For one thing, the Arab oil embargo has been lifted. And while no one claims that this alone will solve the shortage problem, it will certainly increase the supply of petroleum available for refining into heating oil.

If you're thinking of converting to natural gas because it's cheaper than heating oil, you're right—at the present time.

Natural gas could cost more than oil.

But did you know that the wellhead price of natural gas has been kept at an artificially low level by an act of Congress, and that this control can be lifted by another act of Congress? We think it's only a matter of time until these controls are lifted because they discourage exploration for additional sources of natural gas. When the controls are lifted, many think it likely that the retail price of natural gas will rise beyond that of heating oil at its current increased price.

We can understand the frustration that you may feel, and that you may be looking for heating alternatives. However, until a concise national policy controlling all forms of energy is forthcoming, we sincerely believe that the wise heating oil customer will take a "wait and see" attitude. We believe that a competitive heating oil industry in the long run will provide lower prices for the consumer than a monopoly utility.

Hospital Service Extends Beyond Care In The Room

This article is one of a series focusing on activities of Northwestern Hospital services in Thief River Falls as an introduction to observance of American Hospital Week May 12-18. Today's article reviews several areas of hospital operation not ordinarily seen or even considered by the average patient served.

by Marvin Lindin
Times Editor

Between the times when a patient at Northwestern hospital services is admitted and discharged, the only hospital-connected people he is likely to see are nurses, nurses' aides and his physician. Then, when he receives his statement of charges upon being discharged, he wonders why the cost of his hospitalization seems high.

The fact is, of course, that operation of a hospital requirs many people who the patient never sees but all important to the care he receives and the operation of the hospital. And these people's salaries and the supplies they use must be paid for by the patients as part of the total hospital expense.

How many patients, for instance, know that the local hospital has its own in-house pharmacy and registered pharmacist for the dispensing of medications. Rick Contos has been the resident pharmacist at the hospital since the department was started in July of 1963. Procurement, storage and distribution of all medications used in the hospital—to the point of their administration—is the pharmacist's responsibility. This includes constant checking to be sure medications are fresh and have undergone no change in potency.

If emergency drugs should be needed in an extreme hurry, the pharmacist will activate the arrangement between the hospital and the state highway patrol. Several times in the past year alone this service has been used to bring needed emergency supplies from the Twin Cities or other cities. Under this program, emergency drugs have been transported by highway patrol relay to Thief River Falls from Minneapolis in several hours.

The hospital makes a practice of impounding medications which a patient may have with him or her upon admission. This is to prevent an over-dose or a reaction resulting from use of several medications at the same time. In the case of rare or unusual medications an exception is made to allow the patient to use his or her own.

The pharmacy is also responsible for unit dose packaging—one of the more recent advances in the field. Record-keeping for state and federal agencies as well as for the hospital records themselves is a cost which patients must help share.

"But medications are additional charges on the billing," a patient may say. "I'm talking about the basic room rate when I talk about my bill"

FOLDING SHEETS as they come from the mangler are Elaine Austin (left) and Evelyn Molstad, workers in the laundry of Northwestern hospital services in Thief River Falls. The large machine irons the sheets and a number of other items laundered at the hospital which must then be folded and returned to the floors for use again in patient care. Working as a team, the women have become so adept at the folding process that they could probably do it blindfolded with very little error.

FIRST FIREMEN reaching the rear of Earl Efteland's pig farrowing barn Wednesday afternoon tried to keep a way open for trapped animals to escape and prevent others from returning to the blazing structure. Mrs. Efteland told the Times this morning (Monday) that she was uncertain of the exact number of pigs lost in the fire but she estimated that 250 young pigs and 11 sows were killed. In addition, the barn and a nearby feed shed were destroyed. No estimate of the loss was immediately available. The cause of the fire has not been definitely determined but Duane Noel, local fire chief, has stated that a heat lamp might be a possible source of the blaze. The Efteland farm is located about three miles west of Thief River Falls.

Eisbrener-Hruby Vows Said At Inver Grove Heights

Miss Jo Ann Marie Eisbrener and Gary Benjamin Hruby exchanged marriage vows at a double ring ceremony on Saturday, April 20, at Saint Patrick's Catholic church at Inver Grove Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. John Eisbrener of Inver Grove Heights and formerly of Thief River Falls are parents of the bride. The groom is the son of Mrs. Marie Hruby of Oklee and the late Rudolph Hruby. Maternal grandparents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Albert Aaknes of Trail and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Desseilier of Oklee.

Rev. Salvatore Corica officiated at the two o'clock Nuptial Mass. Brothers of the couple, Jeffrey Eisbrener and Jerome Hruby served as Knights of the altar. Organist was Mrs. Arnold Root. For the processional she played "Marche-Pontificale" and "Sunrise, Sunset," as the bride made her entrance. During the Liturgy of the Eucharist, she sang, "One Hand, One Heart," "The Lord's Prayer," and "The Sabbath Prayer." The recessional was "Ode To Joy."

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride was attired in a floor-length gown of white silk maricane jersey. The fitted bodice was styled with raglan sleeves and a rounded stand-up collar accented by a small slit just below the neckline. Pearl beading and sequins trimmed the collar, cuffs and empire waistband. Her softly draped skirt flowed back into a chapel-length train. A headpiece of beading and sequins held her full-length veil of silk illusion. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink and yellow roses interspersed with lilac and white daisies. Her only jewelry was the pearl necklace that her mother wore on her wedding day.

Maid of honor was Mary Beth Strukel of Biwabik, a friend of the bride. Bridesmaids were Virginia and Mary Jo Eisbrener of Inver Grove Heights, sisters of the bride, Barbara Halverson of Kenosha, Wis., cousin of the bride, and Rosetta Hruby of Oklee, sister of the groom. They wore empire fashioned, floor-length gowns in yellow, green, pink, blue, and lilac, respectively, with full length sleeves, cuffs and collars of ivory leno print. Their hats matched their gowns. The attendants carried contrasting arrangements of carnations in lilac, yellow, green, pink, and blue, respectively.

Teresa Dessellier of Brooklyn Center, a cousin of the groom, was flower girl. She wore a white empire dress, a brim hat and a small heart necklace. She carried a basket of pink and yellow roses with lilac and white daisies. Mark Johnston of Inver Grove Heights, a neighbor and special friend, carried the rings. His boutonniere of yellow tea roses corresponded with the groom's.

Attending the groom as best man was his brother, Robert Hruby of Oklee. Groomsmen were Larry Fossem of Thief River Falls, Galen Halverson of Trail, Reinold Lambert of Oklee, friends of the groom, and Michael Eisbrener of the U.S. Navy, brother of the bride. They together with the father of the bride, and the ushers, wore brown tuxedos, ecru shirts and brown velvet butterfly bow ties. The boutonnieres worn by the attendants matched the flowers carried by the bridal attendant. The ushers: Mark and LeRoy Hruby of Oklee, brothers of the groom, Frederick Eisbrener, brother of the bride, and Greg Tanem, cousin of the couple, both of Inver Grove Heights, had white boutonnieres, as did the other men of the wedding party.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Eisbrener was attired in a long-sleeve, floor-length gown of light lilac double knit. The mother of the groom wore a similar gown in navy and white. Their corsages were pink orchids. White orchids were worn by the grandmothers, godmother and hostess.

The bride's parents hosted a reception in the church parlors following the ceremony. Serving as host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Tanem of Inver Grove Heights, cousins of the couple. Lynn and Terry Johnson of that city registered the guests as Mrs. Ray Eisbrener of Chicago, Ill., aunt of the bride, served the punch, assisted by Pamela Tanem, a cousin of the couple.

Centering the serving table was a three-tiered Lady Windemere wedding cake supported by a base featuring four heart shaped cakes. To correspond with the bride's chosen colors, the cake was marbleized in the various colors of the wedding and decorated with roses in pink, lilac, yellow and blue with green foliage. A heart and flying dove ornament topped the cake, baked and decorated by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Albert Aaknes.

Mrs. Kenneth Lerol of Biwabik, confirmation sponsor of the bride, and Mrs. Clarence Bakken of Penguilly, aunt of the groom, cut and served the cake. Pouring coffee were Mrs. Matt Schultz of Chicago, godmother of the bride, and Mrs. John Tanem of Goodridge, aunt of the groom. At the gift table were Mrs. Vicent Dessellier of Brooklyn Center, aunt of the groom, Paulette Weberg of Milwaukee, Wis., aunt of the bride, and Pam Blocker of St. Paul, a friend of the bride. Carnation corsages, in the wedding colors, were worn by those assisting at the reception.

The parents of the bride entertained the guests at their home prior to the wedding dance at Drukula's Bowl.

After a short wedding trip along the North Shore Drive, the newlyweds are now at home in Oklee, where the groom is employed by Cyr Trucking company.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Featuring recipes from the Kitchen of

Recipe from My Personal File

It was just a yellow cotton apron with small red rose bud print. There were no ruffles or lace trim. Except for the red bias tape that bound the edges, it was a very plain over-all apron. Yet it brought back many poignant memories when I found it, tucked in a box in the South room, where it had been for almost 25 years. It was one of my mother's "better" aprons, made just a short time before she died.

Aprons were a part of my mother's at-home attire. Because of her size, (she was 5 ft., 8 ins., and at one time weighed 350 lbs.) she found it easier to wash several aprons than two or three dresses. Washing clothes during most of her lifetime was done with a rub board and a tub.

An immigrant from Sweden, who pioneered near the Canadian border before roads and railroads went through that area, her apron was her greatest convenience. As she walked about the farm, it became her carry-all for bringing in the first fruits of the season, such as peas or new potatoes from the garden, or wild strawberries that were mashed and mixed with whipped cream for waffles.

In the early spring, especially if it was sleeting or raining, she would use her apron to bring in weak, newly born lambs or pigs. She would wrap them in an old woolen shirt and place them near the open oven of the old wood range and drop warm milk down their throats. After they had regained their strength, they were carried to a pen in the barn. Like other pioneers, she didn't live by the code, "survival of the fittest."

Because of a hearing loss, she didn't learn to speak English. Yet, somehow, she and her grandchildren were able to communicate. She received immense satisfaction in seeing the joy her grandchildren received from her snowmen made with freshly churned butter.

Mother always had a clean apron hanging near the stove. She was known for her cleanliness and good cooking. Peddlers that were so prevelant in those days, selling spices, woolen goods, cooking ware, magazines and "reading glasses" seemed to arrive at our home either for noon meals or for the evening meal and a night's lodging. Likewise when the county superintendant made his spring and fall rounds to the rural schools, he would stop in to notify Mother that he would like to stop back for the noon meal. With canned vegetables and wild fruits, together with potatoes and either fresh or canned meat, she was able to make a good meal. If her supply of bread was low, she made a batch of flat bread, her speciality.

Equally welcomed into our homes were the Indians, on their spring and fall pilgrimages, and the traveling evangelists that held services either in our rural school or in our church. Although she was very staunch in her religious beliefs, she gave us our first lesson in loving peoples of all faiths.

I will never be able to fill her apron, which will be given to our only granddaughter on Mother's day.

Mother's Flatbread

2 cups milk
1 cup cream
1 teaspoon salt
1 heaping cup lard
8 cups flour

Method: Have milk, cream and lard at room temperature. Mix all together and turn out on a floured board. Knead in another cup of flour. Roll out a small amount of dough, using a generous amount of flour. Bake at 475 to 500 degrees on a heavy cookie sheet on the bottom part of the oven. Using a wooden spatula, turn the bread and bake on the upper rack until slightly golden. Remove from oven and brush off the flour while the bread is warm.

TRFinettes At First Event Of Current Season

First parade participation by the TRFinettes drum and bugle corps of Thief River Falls took place April 27 at the Loyalty Day parade in Ada. A number of other public appearances have already been planned for the summer.

Preparation for the 1974 season began in October of 1973 when retiring members turned in their equipment and try-outs were held for new members. Two practices a week and one every-other weekend were held and the Cavalettes color guard made two trips to contests in the Twin Cities.

Instructors during the winter have been Gail Bergland, color guard; Mike Lehrer, horns; and Mark Schug, drums, all of Thief River Falls; Dick Buelow, marching and maneuvering; Randy Baril, horn music; and Ron Pufpaff, drum music, all of Minneapolis.

New music was written and new arrangements worked out to give the corps an all new musical sound. All the horns were cleaned and reconditioned and some new horns added to bring the total to 33. Included are 14 soprano, 10 baritones, four flugelhorns, four French horns and one contrabass.

Drum line has also been improved to include four snare drums, three triple drums, four cymbals and three bass drums.

Most notable change in appearance will be in the color guard where new red tunics have replaced the green of the center corps. New flags, flag poles and rifles complete the new look for 1974.

Schedule of events this year includes the national VFW convention in Chicago in late August. Other appearances on the schedule include May 18-19, weekend camp; June 7, Ninth District American Legion parade at Roseau; June 8, fireman's convention at Hibbing; June 15, contest at Buffalo; June 21 and 22, state VFW convention at Moorhead; June 23, contest at Thief River Falls; July 4, Winona; July 4 (evening), LaCrosse, Wis.; July 11-13, state American Legion convention in Minneapolis; July 14, Park Falls, Wis., or Detroit Lakes; and August 19-24, Chicago.

Girls in the 12-18 age group interested in participating in the TRFinettes organization may arrange for a try-out by contacting Gail Bergland or stopping at the city auditorium during rehearsal on Monday or Wednesday evening at 7 p.m.

Crookston Area Boarding Care Home Is Opened

Sisters of St. Benedict, operators of the St. Francis residence in Crookston, have announced that their new boarding and care facility is now open to the public.

The new home, recently completed, is the result of several years of study by the sisters on the need of such a residence in northern Minnesota and eastern North Dakota.

The facility has been licensed by the state board of health and is now open to any person over 16 years of age. Residents find that it is not an "old-folks home", but rather a family type hotel. The family concept is enhanced by optional group activities available in several recreation areas. Each resident is free to come and go as he pleases. The staff has been selected to help carry out the Sisters philosophy of security, independence and gracious living with amiable companions.

Meals are served in a dining area and an attendant is on duty 24 hours each day. Residents may practice their cooking, if they wish, in special small kitchens, or may do laundry in coin-operated machines. Areas to practice crafts have been furnished and a reading room, library, and film room are also available. A chapel has been designed to serve all faiths.

Accomodations range from two-bed rooms to large suits and rates have been kept to a minimum. Anyone may have a brochure by writing St. Francis Residence, Crookston, Minn.

March Building Permits For TRF Noted In Report

No residential building permits were issued in Thief River Falls during March, according to recent information from the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis. However, five non-residential permits were issued with a valuation of $105,000.

In March 1973 there were two residential permits issued representing nine housing units and a valuation of $136,000. Seventeen non-residential permits were also issued with a valuation of $162,000.

Minnesota also experienced a substantial reduction in the number of building permits issued in March. However, their valuation increased significantly. There were 3,258 permits issued in March 1974, compared to 4,116 the previous year. Their valuation increased from $72,519,000 in 1973 to $87,990,000 in March 1974. Both residential and non-residential permits adhered to the same trend in number and valuation. However, the number of housing units represented by the permits increased from 1,535 in 1973 to 1,756 in March 1974.

The numerical decline, accompanied by an increase in valuation, was also true for the six-state district. However, unlike Minnesota, the number of housing units also decreased overall with 2,856 units in 1973 and 2,467 in March 1974.

Dr. Edward Gilbert, Thief River Falls optometrist recently returned after attending the 74th annual meeting of the Minnesota Optometric association held at the Hopkins House in Hopkins.

Bus Drivers In District Have Driving Course

Thief River Falls school district bus drivers participated in a two-hour supplemental defensive driving course recently in the school district service center.

Among items covered in the course were safe loading and unloading, discipline, pre-run check, following distances, speed and vision, driving in strong side wind and special trips, according to Bernard Buchholz, supervisor of transportation.

Most drivers in the district have now received eight hours of state highway patrol safety instruction, eight hours of first aid, three hours of St. Cloud state college safety workshop instruction and the two-hour supplemental defensive driving course.

Reduced Travel And Speed Are Life Savers

Reduced travel and reduced speed on the highways as a result of the energy crisis have been accompanied by a reduction of fatalities on Minnesota highways, according to a study made by the Minnesota department of public safety.

"It is of course impossible to isolate all of the factors that go into our traffic accident picture, or to say exactly what factors influenced changes in that picture," public safety commissioner W. R. Hoaglund explained, "but the fact is that a substantial reduction in highway travel in the latter part of 1973 has been accompanied by a comparable reduction in traffic deaths."

The planning section of the highway department recently noted that its counters on interstate and state trunk highways have recorded substantial reductions in travel last fall and continuing through the first quarter of 1974. Monthly reductions from the same months last year were running from 6 to 9 per cent.

During the period from last September through mid-April, there has been a 12.5 per cent reduction in traffic fatalities. "It seems reasonable to assume that this reduction reflects at least in part a reduction in speed as well as a reduction in travel," Hoaglund said.

"There are, of course, many other factors influencing highway fatalities. Our fatality figures do not coincide precisely with the figures on travel reduction. On a monthly basis, they range from 45.4 per cent under the previous year to ten per cent over. However, a sampling of eight and one-half months seems enough to draw a general conclusion that reduced travel and reduced speeds are saving lives on the highways".

Has Solo Flight

Janet Johnson, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Johnson of Thief River Falls and a sophomore at Lincoln high school, took her solo flight recently at the Thief River Falls airport.

Miss Johnson comes from a flying family as her father pilots his own 175 Cessna and she has two uncles and a nephew who are also pilots. James Solsten was her instructor.

Hospital Care Extends Beyond Patient's Room

All right, let's talk about another example. Consider the hospital laundry—an area of 3,150 square feet which requires eight full-time and two part-time workers on staff and is under the superivison of Phyllis Gaven. It operates six days a week and the Monday peak load will have well over a ton of laundry (dry weight) sorted, washed, dried, folded and returned to the patient floors.

To one of the laundry employees falls the task of washing—operating two machines which have a capacity of 200 pounds of wash each and use 259 gallons of water per load. A separate washer is used for surgery linens, nursery items and isolation room laundry, all of which require special treatment.

Three laundry employees sort and partially or completely dry the wash—depending upon the next step in the process. Two employees operate the mangler—a large machine with rollers and belts which presses sheets and other items. Another worker is involved almost entirely with folding smaller items and loading carts for redistribution of clean laundry to the floors.

It takes about an hour and 10 minutes for the large washers to complete a load of laundry, with that time including washing, rinsing and extracting. The laundry has three dryers—two gas-fired and one steam—which have sufficient capacity to keep up to the washers.

Volume handled by the laundry may be indicated by the fact that soap or detergent is purchased in concentrated powder form in 100-pound bags with only 15 ounces of powder required to wash 200 pounds of laundry.

Housekeeping is another field which provides necessary service and is reflected in total room charges. This department, headed by Vance Newberry, employs 22 people including 15 full-time, three part-time, three students and a seamstress who does the mending necessary.

It is the housekeeping department that is responsible for the cleanliness of the rooms and departments and the 154,000 square feet of floor space which the hospital now contains. Hospital cleanliness is a local concern in itself, but state and federal concern is also shown in health department inspections.

"Yes, they have inspections once in awhile," Newberry said, "but we've never had any trouble as far as I know."

Included in the housekeeping department's duties is the fumigating of isolation rooms to prevent spread of contagious diseases.

These are several of the many departments necessary to total hospital operation. Dietary, maintenance and purchasing will be covered in the next article in this series.

Guaranteed Farm Loans Available Now From FmHA

Guaranteed loans by banks and other lending agencies are a new source of credit for farmers who can not otherwise find financial assistance, according to Gordon H. Klenk, FmHA state director for Minnesota.

"FmHA is already offering borrowers insured loans and loans in which private lenders and FmHA participate. We are now adding guaranteed farm loans made by banks and other local lending agencies," Klenk explained.

Farmers who need credit can apply for loans either through the Farmers Home administration or through banks, Federal Land bank, co-ops, insurance companies or other private sources of financing. The lending organization makes and services the loan.

Farmers Home administration will repay private lending institutions up to 90 per cent of any loss on a guaranteed loan, but not more than 90 per cent of the original principal. Farmers Home also pays the bank the difference between the borrower's interest rate, and the current FmHA guaranteed rate of nine per cent for emergency and operating loans, and eight per cent for farm ownership, soil and water, and recreation loans. Lenders pay FmHA a fee for each loan guaranteed.

FmHA borrowers are now paying five per cent interest for farm ownership, emergency, soil and water and recreation loans. The interest rate for operating loans is 6¾ per cent.

Klenk also indicated that a recent ruling from the office of the comptroller general, Washington, D.C., was good news for national banks that participate in the FmHA guarantee program.

"The ruling provides that only the non-guaranteed part of any loan is charged against the bank's lending limit," he said. "This means that, if 90 per cent of a $75,000 farm ownership loan is guaranteed, only $7,500 of that loan will be charged against the lending limit.

Klenk points out that the applicant must meet the same eligibility requirements for a guranteed loan as he would for a regular FmHA loan of the same type. Interest rates and repayment terms are the same for guaranteed loans as for conventional Farmers Home loans.

In order to make the guaranteed lending process easier and faster, applications, forms, and statement are prepared by regular lenders.

The Farmers Home administration county supervisor has many loan programs available for farmers and other rural residents and rural communities. Guaranteed loans made by private lending institutions is one more method of helping the rural development activities of Minnesota.

Soo Line Will Expand Orders For Freight Cars

Soo Line will expand its current orders for new locomotives and freight cars to include equipment planned for 1976, as part of a program adopted today by the company's board of directors.

Orders for the additional $13,000,000 in equipment will soon be placed with deliveries scheduled for 1976. The program is in addition to previously announced plans to acquire some $20,000,000 in new rolling stock in 1974 and 1975.

"Because of the unusually heavy backlog of orders in the rail equipment industry, it is necessary to anticipate freight car needs well in advance of delivery dates," Soo Line president Leonard H. Murray said in announcing the program.

"Our railroad operates in the heart of the area where agricultural expansion is going on in the United States. Soo is dedicated to supplying its agricultural and industrial customers with modern and adequate freight equipment. To this end, in the years 1973 to 1976, we will have invested more than $53,000,000 in new freight cars, cabooses and locomotives."

The program approved today will include acquisition of eleven locomotives and 373 freight cars, including an additional 200 high-capacity jumbo covered hoppers.

Soo's continued emphasis on adding to its covered hopper fleet has been a major factor enabling the company to transport increasing amounts of bulk grain and chemical products each year.

Equipment acquisitions planned for 1976 include: Eleven 3,000 horsepower diesel locomotives; 200 100-ton covered hopper cars; 50 70-ton insulated boxcars; 50 70-ton boxcars with plug doors and cushioned underframes; 40 100-ton, 50 or 60-foot flat cars with chain tie downs; and 33 100-ton, 52-foot high side gondolas.

Orders are currently outstanding for 20 locomotives and 665 freight cars with deliveries scheduled in late 1974 and in 1975.

Thought For The Day

Spring is a wonderful time of the year. After a long winter nature bursts out in all its beauty; the green grass shows up, the flowers bloom and the blossoms come out on the trees. That which has been dormant comes to life again. Gardeners go to their gardens and churn up the soil and plant in hopes of a harvest in due time. The farmer goes to his fields to till the soil, to plant and hope for rewards of his labors. Many look forward to recreational activity in the great out-of-doors.

There is a new spirit in the air. As we till and sow and hope for good results may we thank God for the opportunity and the hope. May this not be just a time for us to enjoy God's creation at this time of the year, but may we be thankful for the earth and all nature around us that He has given to us. And may we use it wisely for our own good, for the blessing of others and to God's glory.

Oh, So True!

Who is qualified to pass judgment on the actions or attitudes of U.S. business? Many federal officials have willingly accepted the task. We like the way the Caney, Kan., Chronicle looks at the situation·

Here are our comments to the camera-happy senators (Henry Jackson of Washington among them) who are questioning oil company executives:

You're looking down your noses at the most successful of America's business executives. Take a good look, because they represent the inter-fiber of our nation.

They're no different from the small town merchant, the Kansas farmer, the insurance man, the barber or the TV repairman.

They use good managment techniques, hire expert workers, make fine products, maintain good profits. . .and balance their books. They're successful.

Now let's take an honest look at you, gentlemen:

You were hired by the American people to run a business, too. And it might be "hokey" to say, but you have made a dandy mess of things in your job.

You've raised your own wages by 400 per cent in the past 15 years. You've consistently overspent your budget. You've hired incompetent people, you've oferstaffed every government building in the nation. You ridicule your company's top managment. You refuse to cooperate with the other departments in your company. You devalue your product a' every opportunity.

Perhaps we're wrong, but it seems that you could take some lessons from those "profit hungry tycoons who cheat the American people."

If anyone should be lining up a panel of men to use as a verbal shooting gallery, it should be the businessmen of America. . .and you, gentlemen, should answer the questions.

If we had a choice of hiring a U.S. senator or an oil company executive to run our business. . .I'm afraid it would be the oil executives. Their record is just a tad better.

Get your own house in order, gentlemen, then come back to the hearing and take some notes while the oilmen do the talking.

Let Ladies Shop!

Following editorial is from the Grafton Record:

Every red-blooded husband at one time or another has cringed and suffered as his wife dragged him along on a shopping spree. It's a sight that is easily recognized by the sales persons and everyone else in the department store when the little woman sails into the fray trailing a husband behind her. For no matter how big or important the husband may be in other worlds, he sinks into insignificance when he enters into the female domain of the department store.

The missus, and there the Ms appelation drops completely, appears to wander aimlessly down one aisle and across to another. In the process she frequently destroys all semblance of order on the tables and shelves where the merchandise has been neatly arranged. To the husband beside her nothing seems to be just exactly the right color or even in the realm of what she came in to purchase. And he gets more tired and discouraged about the whole thing every minute.

So, while we're musing over this procedure it occurred to us that it might be right for the share and share alike program of women's lib if the tables were turned and the husband took over the shopping and let the wife follow him around and carry the packages.

Thankfully we mulled over the proposal again before we launched the lead and dropped it like a hot potato.

First of all the ladies do not wander around aimlessly when they are shopping. They know the stores like the backs of their hands. They know exactly what they want and where it is to be found. They rummage through the merchandise because sizes and prices often get mixed up. They carry in their heads the colors and the sizes and the likes and dislikes of every one in the family and most of the friends for whom they buy gifts.

We've never known a man who could do that. We've never known a man who could stand the walking, the pushing, the bending, the questioning and other related drudgeries that go with shopping.

So we've decided to be as male and as chauvinistic as we can be and let the women do the shopping. And, we'll try not to grumble too much if we get hooked and have to carry the packages.

10 Consumerist Assumptions

Following comes to our attention through the "Land O'Lakes Mirror" and appeared previously in "Grey Matter", published by Grey Advertising company:

(1) The first assumption is that the consumer has just recently been discovered. This is not true. Consumer cooperatives, the Consumer's Union, and the Wheeler-Lea Amendment to the Federal Trade Commission Act of 1938 are all evidences of earlier concern for the consumer. What is new is the antagonism of those who purport to speak for the consumer today.

(2) A second assumption presupposes antagonist roles of buyer and seller. The interdependence of the two is not considered; the significance of the marketing concept is discounted; and the efforsts of marketing research to ascertain consumer wants are ignored.

(3) It is assumed that the seller deliberately obfuscates, that he is sophisticated in this art, and that confusion somehow results in patronage.

(4) It is taken for granted that the seller has the financial resources to impose his ideas in the marketplace; competition is assumed away; and regulation is adjudged ineffective.

(5) The maximization of short-term profit is asserted to be the only goal of the seller. The seller—unlike other people in our society—is said to be completely insensitive to social needs; no connection whatever is seen between profit and consumer satisfaction.

(6) If anything goes wrong in the marketplace, it is automatically presumed that the business firm, its management, and explicitly, its marketing operation, are at fault. The acountant, engineer, controller, and blue-collar workman and union are seen as uninvolved.

(7) The consumer is categorized as a moron, incompetent to make sound purchasing judgements. Critics acknowledge that he was never better informed, better educated, or more skeptical. Yet somehow, they believe, he loses his senses in the marketplace.

(8) Yet another assumption holds that certain individuals and groups have been endowed with a supernatural ability to discern what is best for the rest of us.

(9) It is assumed that acceding to demands of consumerists is either costless or cost-absorbable by the seller. Further, that any costs not only can be, but should be borne by the seller.

(10) In reacting to consumerists' wants, the assumption is that time pressures are not realistic considerations, e.g., that instant action is practical, both technically and economically.

A Way To Identify

The average taxpayer has little in his everyday experience to help him "identify" with next year's $304.4-billion Federal Budget. His own family budget is no help. Neither is the town budget. All too small.

Well, an economist for the Chamber of Commerce of the United States has solved the problem for us. He has found some meaningful comparisons.

$4,362. Know what this is? The cost of a new car? No. It's the amont of money that every family or household in the country must pay out, on the average, to account for all the spending in the new budget. This is double the amount 10 years ago.

Incidentally, the largest share of this money goes directly to other people under income security programs, such as social security.

Even the expense of shelling out all this money has gone up. It costs an average of $97 per household just to spend the money, compared with $38 in 1965.

Identify now?

Borrowed Nonsense

Mrs. Highbrow and her poddle were shopping one day, when she noticed that the gentlemen standing next to her at the counter was looking fearfully at the dog frisking about his legs.

"Don't be afraid of Pierre," she reassured him, "he won't bite you."

"My good woman," said the man, "I wasn't afraid he'd bite, but I noticed him lifting his hind leg and I thought he was going to kick me."

MAY 12 IS MOTHERS DAY

THE VOICE OF BUSINESS

by Arch N. Booth

Executive Vice President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

Sometimes things turn up in the mail that are coincidentally related, even though from totally unrealated sources. I received two such letters recently.

One was from a California man, angry because he felt his young daughter had been deceived. She entered a nationally advertised contest and won a prize. Her excitment on learning she was a winner quickly turned to bitter disappointment, however, when she found out her 'prize' consisted of a discount on one of the sponsor's products. The discount "coupon" was designed to look like a check.

I know from personal experience that many businesses use the imitation-check ploy to advertise their wares. Although this practice is legitmate if the discount isn't phony, it may be irritating.

The technique must result in some sales. If it only angered people, I can't imagine why anyone would continue to use it.

The other letter concerned a column I wrote a few weeks ago to warn people of a debt adjustment racket. The president of a legitimate debt adjustment company in the state of Washington wrote to point out that such companies are rigidly regulated in his state (true), and that they perform a valuable service to people who need it.

(Debt adjustment companies help debtors set up a practical plan of repayment, intercede on the debtor's behalf with his creditors and administer the negotiated schedule of payments, all for a fee.)

My correspondent said he believes retail businessmen are under too much pressure to meet sales quotas, which causes them to sell to people who cannot really afford to buy.

"We agree that it is the responsibility of the buyer to purchase only that for which he can afford to pay," he said, "but few are aware of budgeting procedures and our schools fail miserably in this area to prepare the average person for the routine of daily living.

"The opportunity to buy is made all to easy," he continued, "the net result being that few clients we counsel realize the extent of their indebtedness until too late."

An official of the Washington state government explained that it's difficult for such companies to make any money because most of their potential clients are either so far gone that no one can help them or so irresponsible that they just don't care about their debts.

The letters illustrate both halves of a continuing problem for our business system: (1) Businessmen who push too hard for that sale and take chances with the good name of all business, with the financial stability of the customer and with their own financial stability, and (2) consumers who are irresponsible in the management of their money.

What's the answer? I don't think there is any panacea. I can certainly agree with the suggestion that we provide better courses in our schools in practical, everyday money management.

And I certainly believe that the consumer is entitled to know what he is getting, and to get what he pays for. By law.

But I do not go along with laws designed to save the consumer from himself. It is dangerously patronizing for a government to assume that its citizens are too stupid to take care of themselves without a public official looking over their shoulders.

In the final analysis, an alert, informed consumer is a better guardian of the legitimacy of the marketplace than all the regiments a totaliterian society can muster.

SLOW DOWN AND LIVE!

notes from the governor

Two years ago the Vocational Education Division of our State Department of Education, in cooperation with Minnesota businesses, set in motion a unique experiment.

This involved the establishment of the nation's first foreign training program for young people attending Area Vocational-Technical Institutes.

The experiment is formally known as the Program for International Learning and Occupational Training (PILOT). In its first year of operation, PILOT sent 32 cosmetology students to London for advanced hairdressing training at three internationally known salons.

The program included a one-week side trip to Paris, where the young Minnesotans learned about the technology of the cosmetics industry from experts of the L'Oreal Co.

Another group of 10 students studied fashion merchandising and design in Paris, Florence and London.

This year 21 students, all but one from Minnesota, will receive training from expert chefs in the kitchens and dining rooms of first-class hotels and restuarants throughout Switzerland.

Accompanying the students will be project director Gene Jereczek and two chefs from Minnesota, Klaus Mitterhauser and Hans Gilgen, both past medal winners in the International Culinary Olympics. The students will spend six months in Switzerland, leaving the Twin Cities in May and returning in November, at a cost of $575 per student.

The Minnesota vocational-technical system, now grown to 33 schools with a full-time enrollment of more than 23,000 students, is the finest in the nation in many ways.

These schools contribute heavily to the economies of the communities in which they are located, and to the economy of the state as a whole. Their graduates constitute a pool of talented workers that has proven a magnet for new industry.

The PILOT program is but another means through which the excellence of the Minnesota vocational-technical school system is being maintained, and it deserves your enthusiastic support.

Information on PILOT can be obtained by contacting Suburban Hennepin County Area Vocational Technical Centers, 1820 N. Xenium Lane, Plymouth, Minn. 55441.

University Course Assists Policemen On Medical Care

by Mike Finley
University Staff Writer

Nothing is a better reminder of how much we depend on one another in the city than the wail of a siren. Its message is: someone's in trouble, help is on the way.

No one knows this better than a policeman. . . or very soon definitely will know better, if a new program administered by the University of Minnesota's department of emergency preparedness works as well in reality as it does in the classroom.

The program is presented as a semi-academic series of talks and demonstrations, all of which are geared toward equipping policemen with the necessary medical knowledge to serve them in the difficult and very dangerous business of keeping people alive until they get to the hospital.

The program is a cooperative effort, administred jointly by the University's hospitals, police department and civil defense (emergency preparedness), and the Minnesota department of health. The full name of the course is "81-Hour Emergency Medical Technician Course." It is attended entirely by members of the University police department, policemen from Roseville and Ramsey county sheriffs. Policemen attending do so on their own time.

During the course, a lot of the myths of heroic lifesaving are modified. Some are debunked altogether. "One important thing has changed," Jim Hagerty of Divine Redeemer Hospital said in a talk, "and that is that the days of the hell-bent-for-leather, sirens blaring, lights flahing, ride to the hospital are mostly over.

"Now, 99 per cent of the time, the trip back to the hospital is routine," he said. "An easy, comfortable, stable ride is almost always better for the patient, unless he's in a lot of pain, than a high-speed transport."

Hagerty said that more people are maimed, crippled, and injured after they are picked up than on the scene of the accident. It was exactly this problem, he said that the course was designed to counter.

"When you go to someone's home, don't go barging in like gangbusters," he told the policemen." And if someone else has arrived already to help, check the patient out agian. I'm not saying you'll do a better job than the firemen or whoever beat you to it did, but a second look never hurts, and you'll be surprised how often you'll notice something someone else missed. Never second-guess anything. It's your responsibility to assume that the worst has always happened."

Hagerty said that one of the worst problems in emergencies is keeping people away from the patient. Often the family is in as much shock as the patient. Hagerty recommends giving them some little job to do, like getting extra bandages from the car, just to get them away from the patient.

In crowd situations, the bystanders can actually be a threat to the injured person. Hagerty recalled a man who had a heart attack at a hockey game. The game went on, the band went on, and the spectators were almost stepping on the patient, shouting at the players. "But there are often bystanders who can be helpful if you give them a flashlight to direct traffic or something," he said.

The lecture Hagerty gives on patient transportation is perhaps the least technical of all the other subjects included in the course. Other topics include lengthy lecture-demonstrations on mechanical aids to breathing and pulmonary arrest suction; what to do with a patient experiencing cardiac arrest, bleeding, shock, broken bones, injuries to the head, face, neck, and spine, injuries to the eyes, the chest, abdomen, pelvis, genitalia; drug emergencies, childbirth problems; how to get a patient away from the scene of the accident without hurting him.

The policemen attend a special talk on poisons, and learn "what to do before the doctor comes" in instances of swallowed poisons, inhaled poisons, snake bites, eye contamination and chemical burns.

In the course of the lecture, they learn what common plants are dangerously poisonous. Common holiday trimmings like poinsettia leaves and mistletoe berries are among the most toxic of all plant poisons. Cherry and elderberry twigs and shoots have been known to be fatal.

On the topic of drug emergencies, policemen are cautioned not to lecture the patient on his habit, because to do so will almost necessarily complicate an already frightening experience. Policemen are trained in distinguishing between symptoms of barbiturate users and users of other depressants, such as alcohol and tranquilizers. Other attention is given to central nervous system stimulants such as cocaine and methamphetamine, and to hallucinogens, like peyote and LSD, and to such volatile hydrocarbons as airplane glue, gasoline, laquer, etc. Policemen are cautioned that adverse effects of some drugs, like marijuana, are usually the result of the surfacing of an underlying mental instability unrelated to the drug.

Perhaps the most advanced medical training and policemen have had to undergo is an extensive workshop in cardio-pulmonary resusitation. This is a revival method which utilizes both mouth-to-mouth resuscitation by one person, and pulmonary stimulation (chest-pumping) by another. The policemen practiced on a lifelike doll named Resusci-Annie, who comes specially equipped with an inflatable chest and mouth.

And they learned about the Medic Alert program—the organized program which supplies bracelets and neck-chains to people with specific medical conditions to that rescurers know at a glance what not to do to the patient. This, plus the new Good Samaritan Law, which removes liability from civil damages from well-intentioned rescurers, helps make some of the difficult decisions a rescuer faces less difficult. Bud Ross of the Minnesota Department of Health said that the 81-hour program first started as a 15-hour course and grew to 24-hours before it expanded to its present length and scope.

Perhaps now fewer people will die for lack of decent ambulance care, Ross said. Perhaps certain statistics, like the fact that one-fourth of all people picked up in ambulances suffocate on their own vomit, or that the law requres no more training of an ambulance medic than it does of a hairdresser, will change.

For the policemen's part, the program has resulted in more than just a certificate degree. There are a few occasions from now on that could possibly catch them off-guard or ill-prepared.

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF CIVIL ENGINEERS

CINCINNATI'S INGALLS BLDG., THE FIRST REINFORCED CONCRETE SKYSCRAPER IN THE WORLD, HAS BEEN DESIGNATED A NATIONAL HISTORIC CIVIL ENGINEERING LANDMARK BY THE AMERICAN SOCIETY OF CIVIL ENGINEERS.

THE 16-STORY BUILDING (210 FEET) DEMONSTRATED FOR THE FIRST TIME THE SAFETY AND ECONOMY OF REINFORCED CONCRETE FRAMES FOR HIGH-RISE CONSTRUCTION. BUILT IN 1902-03 AT A COST OF $400,000, THE STRUCTURE (NOW CALLED THE TRANSIT BUILDING) HAS BEEN DESCRIBED AS THE "MOST DARING AND INFLUENTIAL BUILDING OF ITS TIME."

TODAY, THE INGALLS BUILDING IS RECOGNIZED BY ENGINEERS AS HAVING REVOLUTIONIZED THE BUILDING INDUSTRY.

Driver Training Course Given To State Employees

Training in the national safety council's defensive driving techniques, credited as a factor in a big reduction of insurance costs on state vehicles in recent years, is being given to state employees at the rate of 750 to 1,000 a year, the department of public safety revealed recently. The Department is coordinator of the program among state employees, and plans to continue the program until all drivers of state vehicles have defensive driving certificates.

Approximately 6,000 have received the training in defensive driving techniques since the program started in the highway department in 1965. The course is included in the recruit training of state patrol officers and driver examiners.

The course, which is offered in two, four-hour segments, is taught by a score of state employees who have been certified as instructors by the national safety council.

State employees program is part of a larger state-wide program coordinated by the Minnesota safety council which reaches as many as 10,000 drivers a year. Of 15 testimonials on the effectiveness of the course published in the current annual report on defensive driving by the national safety council, five were from Minnesota. One firm, economics laboratory, pointed to a reduction of accidents by its drivers, from 12.2 to 8.4 per million miles of travel in three years, leading to a 30 per cent reduction of insurance costs.

More than a score of public safety employees have qualified as certified defensive driving instructors, including state patrol safety education officers, field men and other personnel. A number of welfare department employees have also been certified, and these are among the 200 instructors in Minnesota qualified to teach the course.

The highway department leads in the number of state employees to complete the instruction, with 2,950, and the welfare department is second, with 1,350. Other state departments rating high in the work are public safety, agriculture, revenue, administration and veterans affairs. The program aims to reach every driver of a state vehicle, as a minimum.

New Faucets Will Brighten Up Old Bath Or Kitchen

A good way to spruce up your bathroom or kitchen is with new "brass." You also get the convenience that comes with up-to-date equipment. Here's what's new in plumbing brass, according to the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling information bureau:

(1) Faucet with a hose and thumb-controlled spray attachment for rinsing dishes and vegetables.

(2) Faucet with both an aerated stream and a spray flow. The user raises or lowers a "former" at the end of the spout to get the desired flow. Water can be directed anywhere because the faucet has both an up-down swing and a full-circle swivel action.

(3) Aerated showerhead with a swivel arm that makes it possible to shower without getting your head wet. The arm can be adjusted for bathers of varying heights.

(4) A body or shampoo spray on a flexible stainless steel hose. It can be attached to an existing shower arm or to the tub spout. It's recommended for invalids who can't take conventional baths or showers.

(5) Automatic temperature controls for showers and tubs that eliminate sudden surges of hot or cold water.

Modern plumbing brass not only is efficient, it's also handsome and can add a note of fashion to a bathroom or kitchen. In selecting such equipment, remember that it takes hard use, so it pays to buy good quality items.

Export Meeting To Be Held For Manufacturers

International trade will be the focus of five regional conferences scheduled for April by the department of economic development (DED) for Minnesota manufacturers presently exporting as well as for those firms interested in developing their international trade potential.

The conferences are designed to provide the Minnesota business community with information on the scope of Minnesota's involvement in international trade, with emphasis on the day-to-day operations of exporting.

International trade specialists from the U.S. Department of Commerce, the transport industry, an international bank and DED will lead discussions on topics of interest and assistance to exporters.

DED will co-sponsor the conference with the Chambers of Commerce of Owatonna, Redwood Falls, St. Cloud, Moorhead and Virginia.

Also planned for each conference program is a presentation by a local exporter who will explain his company's successful development of foreign trade. Other topics scheduled for the programs include "How to Market Overseas"; "Cutting Through the Red Tape Documentation and Transport"; "The Seaway Port Authority of Duluth" and "Guaranteed Payments in Dollars."

DED and USDC representatives will distribute literature of aid to the exporter and be available to personally meet with those interested in international trade on how the various government agencies can be of assistance.

Conference for this area will be held April 25 at the Ramada Inn, Moorhead. The workshop will begin at 2 p.m. and is free of charge. Reservations can be placed with the Chambers of Commerce in Moorhead or with the World Trade Desk, Department of Economic Development, 480 Cedar Street, St. Paul, Mn. 55101, (612) 296-5012.

Timetable For Producing A Car Is Discussed

Timetable for producing a new model automobile has much in common with baking a pie, according to a major car manufacturing engineer. They both require lead time, the amount of time required to see the project through from the planning stage to the finished product.

In baking a pie, sufficient time is needed to decide on the kind of pie, obtain the ingredients, select the correct size mixing bowl, pie pan, and other utensils, and take into consideration the actual preparation and baking time. If you want the pie out of the oven by a certain time, you have to work backwards to set up a schedule or timetable.

The same principle applies to producing an automobile, plus a few more complications. The schedule or lead time needed to introduce a new engine, for example, might be as long as five years, depending on the extent of the changes involved. The manufacturer sets an announcement date and then plans the schedule accordingly.

Actual production design and processing requires decisions as to the kinds of new machines and dies that may have to be developed and built to produce the engine components. If the engine is a radical departure from conventional engines, it might possibly need a different type of starting motor, generator or carburetor—all requiring more research and development, and, of course, more lead time. Engineers have to develop not only a product with satisfactory performance, but one that can be manufactured at a reasonable price. This involves still more time in the choice of materials and production methods.

Before a new model is introduced to the public, it must be put through an extensive testing program. Time is needed to evaluate the car's ability to perform under extremes of heat, cold, rain, poor road surfaces, etc. New cars must also be tested no less than 50,000 miles just to determine that they meet government emission standards.

Lead time also depends on the number of units produced. One industry spokesman states that Detroit could build a single car from the ground up in three weeks, but to build one million cars on assembly lines across the country presents far-reaching timetable problems not the least of which is to make sure the right quantities of component parts are at the right places at the right time.

Taxes On Farm Real Estate Are Cut In Minn.

Agriculture commissioner Jon Wefald said that a special study of farm real estate taxes by the U. S. department of agriculture reveals the beneficial impact of Minnesota's current tax reform laws.

"Minnesota is one of only eight states that cut farm real estate taxes in 1972, and one of only four states that cut these taxes in both 1971 and 1972. In fact, the farm real estate tax is probably the only thing Minnesota farmers aren't paying substantially more for than they were a year or more ago," he suggested.

In 1972 Minnesota farmers paid an estimated $112,800,000 in local real estate taxes on their agricultural land. That was a $2.9-million or 2.5 per cent drop from 1971, and a $11.2-million or 9 per cent cut from 1970's record $124-million tax bill.

Minnesota farmers are still one of the biggest contributors to local government support compared to their counterparts in the other states, ranking fifth in gross real estate taxes paid on their farms. In 1970, Minnesota's farm real estate tax was the 4th highest in the nation.

On a per acre basis Minnesota farmers paid an average of $3.67 in 1972, or 19th from the national high. That was down 9 cents from the 1971 average and down 36 cents from the 1970 all-time high, but is still 93 cents an acre higher than the national average in 1972. However, while Minnesota cut its farm tax per acre by nearly 9 per cent comparing 1972 to 1970, the national average increased by nearly 11 per cent.

Commissioner Wefald said that Minnesota's farm real estate taxes in 1972 were equal to 11.2 per cent of net farm income and were identical to the national average.

Other midwest comparisons to Minnesota's average 1972 farm real estate tax of $3.67 per acre listed in the report are: Ohio $4.27, Indiana $6.14, Illinois $8.63, Michigan $7.11, Wisconsin $5.42, Iowa $5.68, Missouri $2.06, Nebraska $2.38, Kansas $2.07, North Dakota $1.06, South Dakota $1.40.

'U' M Prof Studies Music In Community

by Maureen Smith
University Staff Writer

University of Minnesota professor of music, his photographer son and two extension specialists have been spending a lot of time in southwestern Minnesota this year.

The professor is Johannes Riedel. With his interview team, he has visited Luverne, Pipestone, Marshall and Worthington to learn about the life of each community through its music.

He has interviewed a 92-year-old Ivanhoe newspaper editor who once had a dance band and still plays the fiddle. He has talked with a farmer from rural Pipestone who plays the ukelin—a combination ukelele and violin. He has visited churches, talked with choir directors, heard people singing Norwegian hymns.

After the interviews have been completed, Riedel has returned to each town to show slides and talk about what he has learned. Local musicians perform at each program. An accordion-and-banjo team might open the program followed by a classical pianist.

It's all part of the Minnesota Centennial Ives Festival—and "all in the spirit of Charlie," Riedel said. The American composer Charles Ives, born 100 years ago, incorporated all kinds of music into his compositions—hymns, patriotic marches, popular songs, ragtime and jazz. Riedel is director of the festival honoring Ives.

"Discoverning Southwestern Minnesota Through Music" is only one part of the festival. An exploration of the role of music in the Chicano community of West St. Paul is coming in the spring. The Mississippi Rag Festival is planned for May.

As part of the Chicano Music Festival, Riedel plans a cross-cultural discussion comparing the Chicano life style with the life style of certain ethnic groups in Luverne.

The sociological and ethnic study of music is one of Riedel's great interests, whether he is talking with Mexican-Americans in West St. Paul or Americans of Dutch ancestry in Luverne.

"In my study of Luverne, I found that in certain ethnic groups the family plays a key role," Riedel said. "So it is in the Chicano community. We can talk about similarities and differences."

In Luverne, Riedel went to thhe Dutch Reformed Church three times with University Regent Kathryn Vander Kool. She pointed out to him the way the man goes into the pew first and the woman follows.

Members of the Dutch Reformed Church are "what the Puritans used to be," Riedel said. "They have the Calvinistic way of life, the family of unbelievable importance, the father figure who is very strong.

"In order to assess the community, you have to talk ethnicity," he said. He talked with a banker in Luvern who told him that the most successful people in town have been the Dutch, then the Germans and then the Scandinavians. Minnesotans may have the idea that Scandinavians are always on top, he said, but it isn't true. "In some places, certain ethnic groups will play a key role over others."

In Pipestone, Riedel said, "you don't find the ethnicity. In Pipestone you have a melting-pot America in the best sense."

A thrill for Riedel in Pipestone was talking with a Mrs. Gruber, widow of a man who was directly related to Franz Gruber, composer of "Silent Night." Riedel enjoyed talking with a printer in Pipestone who prints record covers and he was impressed by the town's historical museum.

In Marshall, Riedel found "a very elevated choir school program and hand bell choirs." He was also pleased to discover that Marshall is "a community that is very much concerned with band music." The city council has a budget for the community band.

The Worthington city council also pays musicians in their community band. "This provides income for the kids, and it provides continuity," Riedel said. "You have the sound of band music throughout the whole year."

People in both Marshall and Worthington talk about their band wagons, he said. In Marshall, the band wagon used to be on the main street during performances, and traffic was stopped. "Finally they moved that, and now they have a beautiful pavilion." In Worthington, the band wagon was pulled for parades.

Except for Worthington, Riedel has made at least two trips to each of the towns before the lecture-recital and spent a few days conducting interviews. He and the interview team saw "more or less 25 persons per community."

Riedel knows that he only scratched the surface in each town. "What I got is just a general feeling, and I made friends with many people," he said. "I want to go more into depth.

"If it would be possible," he said, "I would like to apply this same pattern all over the state. By doing it statewide, one would become very aware of the multiplicity, the variety of ethnic life styles. We could see this through music definitely."

Reidel hopes to make a presentation to the bicentennial committee and put together a program to "show the rest of the nation what it's all about to live in Minnesota," he said. "That does not mean backwards. We could show the pluralistic nature of life in Minnesota and the sophisticated cultural life. It could be very good for the state."

Reaching out into the community has always been central to Riedel's work. "I believe in it. I cannot see myself in an ivory tower." And he always comes as a learner. "I'm not the big brother from the university."

"I stand for community and music. Students of mine have known me as that," he said. "That's the way I like to teach."

WHAT IS IT? Though the object in the photo above may appear to be an unidentified flash in the nighttime sky, it is actually an abstract view of a large accelerometer—a machine for testing materials at high speeds. As it spins, it submits materials to G-loads (gravitational forces) beyond the endurance of man. Used by the Atomic Energy Commission's contractor facility in Kansas City, Mo., operated by the Bendix Corp., the accelerometer is one of many testing devices that help determine the acceptability of components used in atomic weapons. U of M Dean Tours Chinese Education

by Elizabeth Petrangelo
U of M News Writer

In the United States, one doesn't often see elementary school children working side-by-side with farmers or high school students sewing spreads for hospital beds during the school day.

In the People's Republic of China, these activities are part of the school curriculum and an integral part of each child's education.

Jack Merwin, dean of the University of Minnesota's college of education shared these and other observations during an interview about his recent tour of China.

Merwin was one of 24 American educators invited to visit chinese educational institutions, including a nursery school, a kindergarten, an elementary school and a middle school during March.

Merwin said that the emphasis in Chinese education is on the combination of theory with practice. Throughout elementary and middle school, Chinese students participate in practical workshops and take part in field trips, all designed to help them relate the written or spoken word to production.

"Every two weeks, elementary school children go the countryside to work with the peasants and to take part in productive labor," Merwin said. "We were told that the peasants give the students 'class education about past sufferings and present happiness,' meaning pre-and post-revolution."

Students in the middle school spend one month each year in "workshops," where they learn such things as how to repair motors, how to work with laser beams or how to sew, he said.

"Their emphasis is on actual production rather than just learning how to use the tools," he said. "They were very proud at the school we visited that their students had repaired 1,091 motors in the last four years and sent them back to the countryside."

Merwin said Chinese students begin their education in nursery schools at the age of 18 months. "What was most impressive at the nursery school was the poise of those very young children, taking complete strangers by the hand and leading us into their presentations."

Merwin said he saw singing and dancing displays by the nursery school children but "we saw no recognizable curriculum."

Children progress to kindergarten from nursery school where they remain until they enter elementary school at age six.

"Workers come into the kindergartens to talk to the children about labor," he said. "We were told the purpose of kindergarten was to help children develop 'morally, intellectually and physically to become new workers.'"

Chinese children spend six years in elementary school, where they study Chinese, politics, physical culture, fine arts, music, English, science, history and geography.

"Members of the People's Liberation Army come into the elementary schools once or twice each term to give the students training on how to be good soldiers," Merwin said. "Our guides told us that the students are now involved in criticism of Confucious and Lin Piao."

Chinese middle schools, the rough equivalent of American junior and senior high schools, are aimed at "criticizing the 'revisionist line and stuyding the thoughts of Chairman Mao.'" Merwin said. Students attend middle schools until age 17, studying the basic subjects at a more advanced level, and then spend two years working on a farm or in a factory.

But work in the countryside is not limited to students, Merwin said. "All of the teachers are sent out to the countryside in groups periodically to get 're-educated' by peasants," he said.

According to Merwin, most Chinese teachers have just 12 years of education, the equivalent of an American high school diploma. And although the Chinese teacher's situation resembles the American teacher's in some ways—they are paid by the state and salary varies with seniority—the average teacher earns about $35 a month.

Mervin said that teachers are rewarded for good work, but never monetarily. "Each teacher prepares a summary report at the end of each term," he said. "Those that are judged outstanding will be praised in front of a large group of people or asked to go somewhere else and deliver their report."

Student failure is treated quite differently in China than in the U.S., Merwin said. "They consider one student's failure the responsibility of his teaches' and the other students'," he said.

If a student falls behind in his studies, it is the responsibility of his teacher and fellow students to help him understand, and help him catch up at his own pace. However, students who fall too far behind usually drop back a year, Merwin said.

"I was told that before the revolution, teachers would make 'surprise attacks' on student with tests," he said. "Now they discuss the test questions before the exams. Before the revolution, students and teachers saw each other as enemies. Now they are like 'fighters in the same trench.'"

Merwin said he was told over and over again that the new emphasis in Chinese education is on shortening the amount of time spent in school and eliminating rote learning and redundancy.

But, he said, in each class they visited "we saw either one student standing and reciting or a teacher lecturing. The only audio-visual aids we saw anywhere were blackboards or an occasional chart or picture on the wall."

Retread Tires Can Save Fuel And Money, Too

Oil is an essential ingredient in the manufacture of tires. From an energy conservation standpoint, the people who manufacture retread tires are now making the point that it requires only two gallons of crude oil derivatives to produce the rubber necessary to retread a passenger car tire as opposed to the seven gallons of crude oil needed to manufacture a new tire. The 50 million tires that are retreaded each year represent a total savings of some 250 million gallons of crude oil.

Retread tires are widely used today in many applications besides passenger cars. For example, 98 per cent of the world's major airlines use retreads on jet and other aircraft and, on the average, have these tires retreaded as many as 15 to 20 times. Some jet airliners, by the way, touch down at landing speeds of up to 140 miles per hour.

The trucking industry is another segment that relies heavily on retread tires. One-third of all truck replacement tires sold are retreads. Truck operators, retreading suitable tires up to five times, by maintaining proper inflation and switching the tires to different wheel positions on the truck at proper intervals, can obtain 300,000 miles or more of service from a single tire under ideal conditions of load, speed and road conditions.

Retread tires require not only less oil to manufacture, they are, of course, less costly to produce, a fact that makes them economically attractive to the airlines, to trucking fleets—even to race car drivers.

The cost reduction is possible because the inner core or casing of a tire represents about 70 per cent of the total cost of producing the tire. The casing is made from a combination of various kinds of strong fibers. If the casing of a used tire has not been damaged, new rubber and new treads can be applied, and the tire is good for many additional thousands of miles. Snow tires and radial tires can be retreaded in addition to conventional passenger car tires.

Moorhead State To Offer Many Summer Courses

"The Great Depression: 'New Look at the '30's," is the theme for special programs at Moorhead state college this summer as part of the regular summer sessions.

The college will also offer a broad range of courses in most academic areas, as well as numerous workshops, during the two 5-week sessions—the first session from Monday, June 10 to Saturday, July 13, and the second from Monday, July 15 to Friday, August 16.

An "Old-Fashioned 4th" of July celebration for college and community also will be held again on campus this year, according to Dr. William Jones, dean of arts, humanities and communications and director of summer sessions. The celebration last year was attended by more than 1,000 people of all ages and featured activities and events associated with July 4th celebrations of former years.

Special courses relating to the depression years are the second in a series of programs which the college has planned leading to the nation's 1976 Bicentennial. Four subject areas, relating to The Great Depression, are planned, each running for 11 days.

"The Golden Age of Film," a study of significant films of The Great Depression, will be taught by Ted Larson of the Moorhead state college speech department, June 11-25.

This will be followed from June 26-July 12 by "Lessons from the Depression: 'National and International View." Four depression-related topics included are: The U.S. response to the depression, the rise of totalitarianism, U.S. response to expanding fascism, and changing Western culture and values of the Thirties. The instructor for this course is Dr. Lee Grugel, associate professor of history at MSC.

Dr. Roland Dille, president of Moorhead state college, will teach a course in "Depression Novelists," July 16-30. This course will examine some of the literature written during and about the depression.

"Lessons from the Depression: A Regional View," is scheduled August 1-15 and will study the impact of the Depression on politics, economics and culture in the tri-state area. This course will be taught jointly by Dan Rylance, curator of Chester Fritz Library at the University of North Dakota, and Dr. Jerome Tweton, professor of history at the University of North Dakota.

All courses will meet daily from 1:30 to 3:45 p.m., and each offers three credits. Standard tuition rates will apply.

Eight public lectures on depression-related themes also are scheduled for evenings of dates to be announced later.

A summer booklet, pre-registration forms and additional information about the 1974 special programs and regular summer courses can be obtained by writing to Summer Sessions, Moorhead State College, Moorhead, MN 56560 or calling (218) 236-2762.

Mpls. Freeway Segment To Use Computer Plan

Beginning Tuesday, motorists using the 18-mile leg of Interstate 35W between downtown Minneapolis and Burnsville during rush-hours will be participating in the initial tryout of a freeway whose traffic flow is governed by a computer.

All elements of the turn-on, phased over a three-day period, will be operational by April 11, according to project director Glen Carlson.

The federally-sponsored and subsidized 'National Urban Corridor Demonstration Project' will be a model for similar installations on congested highways across the nation. About 83 per cent of installation and operations costs through June of 1975, estimated at $5.9 million, are payable by the federal government.

Object of the project is to enable the freeway to move more people by spacing out the vehicles entering it and giving entry priority to buses during peak traffic periods.

As a measure of its success in easing rush-hour traffic, the project is expected to convert 15 per cent of the motorists who now use it to bus riders, achieve a 50 miles per hour, 20-minute travel time between County Road 4 in Burnsville and downtown Minneapolis, maintain at least a 35 miles per hour traffic flow in all bottleneck areas, reduce accidents by 20 per cent, and cut the time it takes to clear the road of accidents and obstacles.

Impulses from 320 electronic sensors embedded in the pavement, triggered by passing vehicles, enable a computer in the traffic managment center at 1101 fourth ave. South, Minneapolis, to control entry onto the freeway at 32 ramps and to detect obstacles to the free flow of traffic on the freeway itself.

Accidents, stalled cars and other obstacles to the free flow of traffic can be verified at the center by closed circuit television monitoring the freeway. A 'hot-line' telephone at the traffic management center provides for the immediate dispatch of a state patrol trooper to remedy such situations.

Buses will have unrestricted entry onto the freeway. Patronage of 14 express bus routes using the freeway during rush hours has increased almost three fold to nearly 30,000 passengers since buses began using the freeway in December of 1972.

Commuters are encouraged to 'park and ride', leaving their cars in the 12 parking lots of cooperating churches, shopping centers, government offices and private businesses in Bloomington, Edina, Richfield, Burnsville, Apple Valley and Savage. There are also 33 shelters for bus patrons in the corridor.

SUMMER AND WINTER are covered in style by these items made by Goodridge high school home economics students. Sewing a winter coat was Mary Weber while summer dresses were made by Barb Hermanson (left) and Carolyn Dahlen. The girls will model their creations Tuesday during the style show held in connection with the school's fine arts festival.

ACRYLIC PAINTINGS done by Gene Marquis (left) and Jim Halvorson, both juniors at Goodridge high school, will be on display at the fine arts festival to be held Tuesday evening at the Goodridge school.

Northrup, King and Co., Minneapolis-based seed firm, has announced the appointment of Robert H. Backstrom as cereal grains manager.

In this newly-created position, Backstrom will be responsible for the coordination of cereal grains production, and sales activities in all of Northrup King's U.S. divisions.

Backstrom attended the University of Minnesota, and is a past president of the Minnesota Crop Improvement association. He farmed at Warren where he has been a producer of certified wheat seed for many years.

Traffic Deaths In State Drop From '72 Total

Minnesota department of public safety has now officially closed its traffic fatalities records for the year 1973 and show a total of 1,024—seven under the previous year.

The fatality rate per 100 million vehicle miles of travel in 1972 was a low 4.14. When the total miles traveled during 1973 are computed, we predict a drop to four, Commissioner W.R. Hoaglund said.

Substantial decreases during 1973 were noted in several categories of fatal crashes. In crashes involving automobile only, 561 were reported for 1973 compared with 648 during 1972. Bicycle-vehicle crashes dropped from 19 to 11; and snowmobile-vehicle crashes dropped by the same figure.

Other categories of fatal crashes increased, including those involving buses and trucks, from 231 to 321; motorcycles from 54-64. Pedestrian deaths showed a large increase, from 132 in 1972 to 149 in 1973.

Experience during the first three months of 1974 shows a definite downward trend in fatalities, with 34 less than last year.

"Our present rate of improvement is getting better day by day," Hoaglund said, "with a net reduction of 58 so far this year as of April 22.

"It is still too early to make a positive statement, but it does appear that reduced speeds are a contributing factor in the savings in lives so far this year. We still have the heavy traffic and high fatality summer months ahead."

New Marketing Specialist Joins Land O'Lakes

Paul G. Christ, 35, agricultural economist with the U. S. department of agriculture and assigned to the cost of living council, Washington, D. C., has joined Land O'Lakes, Inc., Minneapolis, as agricultural marketing specialist. He will be responsible for analyzing and participation in federal milk orders activities.

In announcing the appointment, Land O'Lakes senior vice president Arthur Jepsen said, "Paul Christ will be filling a newly-created position with us. As we continue to grow into additional federal milk order markets and with continuing changes and added complexities of order regulations, we need a specialist devoting full time to federal milk orders."

While with the cost of living council, Christ had responsibilities in a variety of areas, including evalutation of government programs for compliance with economic stabilization program goals; review of U.S.D.A. food purchase programs, federal milk order and fruit and vegetable marketing orders decisions. Additionally, he monitored state milk control programs and the impact of economic stabilization regulations on the dairy industry.

John Wayne stars in the title role of "McQ" now playing at the Galaxy Theatre. Eddie Albert and Diana Muldaur also star in the film.

Earphones Are Taboo For Motor Vehicle Drivers

Use of earphones by motor vehicle drivers has been forbidden by a statute enacted by the 1974 legislature.

The statute provides that "No person, while operating a motor vehicle, shall wear headphones or earphones which are used in both ears simultaneously for purposes of receiving or listening to broadcasts, or reproductions from radios, tapedecks or other sound producing or transmitting devices."

The statute makes a specific exception of the use of hearing aids.
